JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

VOL. XLIII. JUNE 22, 1889. No. 1,110

Good returns to a railroad imply two things—good business and good rates for carrying it. The former, the weather permitting, is to be expected for the current year, but the latter during the past week has been threatened. Without the continuance of the Interstate Railway Association there is really no security to the market. Fortunately, the withdrawal of the Alton by no means implies the association's discontinuance, for the pressure which led to the presidents' agreement can be and would be exerted again, if necessary; and the other roads are strong enough to stand alone as long as they can stand together. Indeed, there is already talk of the cancellation of Alton's withdrawal from the association. As to the merits of the controversy between the Alton and St. Paul management it is difficult to decide. Alton may be right, but to an outsider it would seem from the statements of President Miller that the road was in the wrong. It took a great deal of persuasion to induce that corporation to join the association, and ever since Alton has played the part of the balky horse. The letter of Vice-President McMullen to President Miller was in the worst possible taste, containing insinuations which no gentleman should address to another. What if St. Paul did, as Mr. McMullen alleges, carry more cars of cattle proportionally this year than last? The essential point to the stockholders of Alton is not the number of cars of cattle, but the return received for moving them. If there arises from Alton's action a war of rates which throws the Granger roads back into that melancholy condition from which the Interstate Association rescued them, its stockholders will recognize that a road run in their interest and a road run in the interest of the cattlemen are two very different things.

Quite contrary to what might be expected, the first to move from the districts in a city where the price of land is high and increasing in value, in consequence of the demand for it for commercial purposes, are the well-to-do; whereas the very poor are the last to move. There are many instances of this here in New York. The "seamy side" of the city is "down town" and the poor are the last to leave old residential wards such as the 6th, 7th and 13th. It may be said that, as a rule, the well-to-do meet the changed conditions by "expansion"—by spreading over a wider area into the new parts of cities, the outskirts and the suburbs; while the poor meet them by the very opposite course—by "concentration" by squeezing into a smaller area than that occupied before and within the same district. We are speaking now of the very poor, who are the principals in the "overcrowding" which creates those moral and physical plague spots to be found wherever under the sun men have gathered themselves together into great cities.

This circumstance, that as land increases in value, the poor, whose rent-paying capacity may be said to be fixed, have to concentrate themselves into a smaller housespace, makes the problem of housing this class increasingly difficult. It is unreasonable to expect them to migrate to suburban districts. The fact that this course is never pursued anywhere, clearly shows that there are great obstacles in the way of it. In the first place, the poor cannot afford the cost that would be entailed traveling to and fro from their work daily, and secondly—a fact no one ever thinks of—suitable homes are never provided for them in the newer districts. Tenements, and in some cities "model" lodging houses, are erected, but these are not for the really poor; that is, for the very class concerned in "overcrowding." No one builds for them. Not until houses have served better purposes; become, as it were, degraded from higher uses, do they serve as the habitations of this not inconsiderable portion of humanity. Indeed, it is a question whether if buildings affording suitable accommodations were erected in the new districts, they would attract this class from their ancient haunts, so long as they could remain there; for the old surroundings, the old stores, saloons, etc., that meet the requirements of a certain kind of life would naturally be missing, and consequently the district would be less agreeable and attractive to the very class the buildings were intended to accommodate. The efforts of philanthropists to house this class in a sanitary way have repeatedly been defeated, and their "model" buildings have become the homes of the artizan and the clerk.

Now, along with the overcrowding due to the concentration of the poor in consequence of the increase in the value of land there goes overcrowding due to municipal improvement within the overcrowded districts. It was determined last year to make "breathing spaces"—small parks—in different parts of the city. The work has not progressed with any great rapidity so far, but all arrangements have been made and it will, of course, be carried out. Naturally most of these parks are to be placed in the overcrowded districts of the city, for it was "overcrowding" that necessitated them. But to make these parks tenements will be torn down, and after the foregoing it is easily seen that one of the effects of this will be to increase overcrowding. For instance, the Mulberry Street Park will cover 2.73 acres, and ninety-three buildings, including eighty-six tenements, will be razed. Fifty-five of these latter are front and thirty-one rear buildings; the former with stores and the latter without. Roughly estimated, they accommodate at the very least 6,000 people, probably over 7,000; but, accepting the smaller figure, let us ask what is to become of these people. Most of them will concentrate still closer in the old district and some will go into neighboring districts of a similar character and intensify the overcrowding there. What has happened in London will happen here. Recently, when the Cadogan estate was "improved" by clearing away hundreds of small cottages in which 4,000 persons were housed, and erecting instead dwellings of a better class, the people displaced found refuge in West Chelsea, which is now described as a "rabbit warren."

The conclusion to be drawn from these facts is not that the municipality should desist from the making of parks and other improvements, but that all the results of these improvements should be recognized and steps taken to provide dwellings for the displaced population. This will not be done by private enterprise. It is not profitable enough to house the very poor except in very inferior dwellings. To make parks and widen streets in overcrowded districts does not improve the condition of the city. It simply shifts the overcrowding from one spot to another. What the city should do is to erect sanitary buildings for the people its improvements displace. In Europe, where municipal action covers a field so much wider than it does here, there are public lodging-houses and tenements in most of the large cities, which, in addition to bettering the condition of people, increase the revenue of the municipality and makes taxes so much less. So far we have addressed ourselves to only one side of the matter.

The fact that an office held by a technical expert is abolished by politicians, "to save the salary," does not create any presumption whatever against the office or its incumbent. Mr. Church was made Chief Engineer of the new aqueduct simply because he was supposed to know more about the water supply of New York than any other man. No evidence has been adduced to show that this reputation was not deserved, and if such evidence were produced the members of the Aqueduct Board are not fitted by training to appreciate its weight and bearing. They base their action in removing Mr. Church from the place of Consulting Engineer on the fact that the aqueduct is so nearly completed that there is no longer any necessity for that office. This is a mistaken assumption. After the new aqueduct is completed there will be abundant work for an expert of the first class in determining the situation of reservoirs and the construction of dams. Even after this work is done the city of New York will require the services of a specialist to look after its water supply, and should retain the best man for the purpose in its service at a suitable salary, which means in this case a handsome salary.

The Commissioner of Public Works should by no means rely on his own knowledge or judgment in preparing to execute the legislation authorizing the expenditure of a large sum upon repaving. For a long time, we think before any daily paper had paid any attention to the subject, THE RECORD AND GUIDE has been urging the great needs of the city with respect to its pavements. The first of these is that the pavements should be differentiated so that heavy pavements should be used for heavy traffic and smooth and noiseless pavements for light traffic. If this were done it would be necessary to exclude the heavy traffic from the smooth pavement, which, in the absence of any restriction, it would naturally seek and destroy. The next need is that the pavements should not be disturbed after it is once laid. To supply this need it is necessary that subways should be provided in which all the systems of underground communication should be housed, and in which they should be accessible. It is gratifying to us to note that this view has at last been officially adopted. In an interview, a day or two ago, Mr. Gilroy said that "there is no question that the main thoroughfares should be provided with capacious tunnels." The city has now, as he pointed out, no power to build these tunnels. But inasmuch as no substantial or durable repavement of the streets can be effected without them, would it not be better for the city to refuse to go extensively into the business of repaving until it has the power to construct these tunnels, and so to spare the pavements? A new danger to the pavements has now arisen in the liberty given to the street railroads to change their motive power. If the electric motor becomes available this will not matter, but if cables are substituted for horses the introduction of them would require new excavations. The companies should be forced to elect whether they will or will not introduce a new motive power before any repavement is attempted of the streets through which they run.

The law regulating the lending of money on real estate by savings banks certainly needs amending. As it stands at present, these institutions are permitted to lend on real estate not more than 50 per cent. of its value, and there is no doubt that those who conscientiously endeavor to live up to the letter of the statute are unnecessarily hampered. The law, instead of working to the advantage of depositors, works to their injury; for on the 50 per cent. basis savings banks will find it either difficult to put out surplus funds on real estate or will have to lower their rate of interest to the lowest point. A 60 per cent. limit would be quite low enough. It would amply meet the intentions of the present law. Indeed, in large cities, where the general course of the value of real estate is upward, the loan limit might with safety be extended slightly beyond even 60 per cent., though of course in this matter a great deal depends upon what interpretation is put upon the word "value." This "value" can be arrived at only by appraisement, and there is no doubt that in appraisements for loans the "value" arrived at often falls very little short of the extravagant. Thus loans on the 60 per cent. limit would average perhaps nearer to 70 than 60 per cent. But even with this the risk upon good city property is very slight, though in certain of the rural sections of the State the 50 per cent. limit is none too low. The law should discriminate between rural and urban property, and in raising the limit should define more clearly than it does what is meant by "value." The term is wide enough for a coach-and-four to go through.

No one would expect that a city that prides itself upon its public school system would have to refuse education to at least 15,000 children for want of sufficient accommodation. Yet that is the condition of affairs here in New York. Superintendent Jasper says it is due to insufficient appropriations. This is very probably correct, for while the appropriations for the Police Department have increased about 30 per cent. since 1878, for the Health Department 85 per cent. and for election expenses 64 per cent., for the Board of Education the increase has been only 18 per cent. The increase merely of population would necessitate a greater increase than this, and unless great economies have been effected it is difficult to see how the old standard has been even maintained, leaving entirely out of consideration the number of children whose parents have to pay for the education for others' children which they cannot obtain for their own. The Department of Education has always been supposed to be exceptionally well managed; but if this is the result, what condition are the other departments in?

An analysis of the vote of the Prohibition amendment in Pennsylvania gives significance to the result in more ways than one. On it may be founded arguments almost irrefutable in favor of a local option law. Taking for the purpose the figures printed in the Evening Post on Wednesday afternoon, June 19th, which, if not strictly accurate, are nearly enough correct for the purposes of comparison, it will be found that fully fifteen-sixteenths of the majority against the Prohibition amendment to the Constitution was picked up in Philadelphia, Alleghany, Berks, Lancaster and Schuylkill counties, which contain most of the large cities in the State, while about seven-ninths of it came from Philadelphia and Alleghany counties alone, containing the three largest cities. Or, looking at the question from another point of view, it was in the argricultural regions, as distinct from the mining and manufacturing, which gave Prohibition its support. If the counties, instead of voting on a general amendment, had voted each separately on their wish to wipe out indiscriminate liquor selling within their borders, thirty out of sixty-six, covering in area nearly if not quite half the State, would have declared in favor of the change. These figures bring out clearly the essentially local bearings of the question. It would be as ridiculous to pass a general law forcing one county to submit arbitrarily to the will of another as it would for a father to make his girls climb trees and his boys play with dolls.

Matthew Marshall, in the Sun, has sounded an alarm against the increase of speculation in the "Trust" stocks, which lately has been so prominent a feature of the stock market. He rightly considers them to be one of the most dangerous class of securities on the market. In the first place the public really knows nothing about them. They render no reports. If they pay dividends, nobody can tell how far they are earned; if they do not pay dividends, no one can tell how far the certificate holders may not have been swindled. In other words, the investor is completely in the hands of the managers of the combination, and there is no more reason for assuming that these gentlemen will ignore this advantage than we have for assuming that a cow will ignore cow-feed. The experience of the buyers of railway securities in the Northwest does not encourage a would-be investor to place any too much confidence in the conductors of great business enterprises. How very blind the buying and selling of these securities is may be illustrated by the case of cotton-seed oil, which has fluctuated from over 60 to under 30 without anything certain having been known meanwhile as to any change in value of the security. But there are other objections equally weighty against this too indiscriminate speculation in trust stocks. These combinations are simply business experiments. They have not only against them all the ordinary perils of a business venture, but these perils are complicated by the fact that they are always in danger of adverse legislation. The proper position for a conservative investor to take, for the present at all events, is "hands off."

Two Popular Errors.

The Commercial Advertiser, of Buffalo, is surprised that the French "could sink" $300,000,000 in the Panama Canal and nearly $100,000,000 in the copper syndicate, and yet not suffer from a widespread panic and commercial paralysis.

This surprise is due to a misconception.

The Commercial Advertiser evidently shares the popular idea that every financial disaster destroys wealth that previously existed; that when, for instance, a large cotton or iron mill fails, say for three or four millions, there is so much less of something in the country. Nothing of the kind occurs. The "loss" which is spoken of in connection with such affairs is relative, not absolute; personal, not national. The price of the pig iron owned by the mill may suddenly decline several cents and thus involve the company in financial difficulties. Their "loss" may run up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars; but there will be just as much material wealth in the country, just as many tons of iron, possessing the same degree of utility as when the company was considered solvent and prosperous. It may pass into the hands of other people, but it exists. The liabilities involved in the failures in the United States last year amounted to $123,829,000; but that amount of wealth was not destroyed.

Or, to show this matter in another light, suppose new coal fields so marvellously rich and accessible were discovered to-morrow that the price of coal should decline one-half, the probabilities are that many of the present mine-owners would be financially "embarrassed," and we should hear of their immense "losses;" but it is easy to see that in such a case the real wealth of the country would be unaffected by these losses to individuals.

So it is in the case of France. There has been no commercial paralysis in that country; it is as prosperous to-day as it was yesterday, despite the "loss" of $400,000,000—because the country has suffered no such real loss whatever may have happened to certain individuals.

Parallel to this error—the reverse of it—is the belief that an advance in prices means an increase in wealth. It is true some individuals are advantaged; but the nation is no better off. If the price of every commodity were to be doubled to-morrow, would there be twice as much wealth in the country as there is to-day? No one will maintain this. Stated in this way the fallacy of the idea becomes clearly apparent.

The advance in the price of wheat last summer did not increase the wealth of the country, for if the contrary is held it must be admitted that it is in the power of a non-producing class, such as Exchange speculators are, to double and quadruple the national wealth; and a man like "Old Hutch" becomes a more important factor in creating wealth than thousands of toilers in farm and field.

A decline in prices is often regarded as a calamity, whereas it is often a blessing. Low prices usually mean ease of production, abundance, and consequent increase of wealth. If the corn acreage should yield double this year the wealth of the country would be increased by the equivalent of about $900,000,000; but corn would be very much cheaper than it is, and so would meat, poultry, eggs, lard, alcohol and other provisions.

Every discovery or new invention that increases or cheapens production tends to lower prices. The ideally wealthy state is the one in which the object of every human desire is as plentiful and as easily obtained as the air breathed, and consequently is without price. Yet the public usually hail every advance in prices as a gain to the nation, as an indication of greater prosperity!

We shall have truer ideas of wealth and prosperity when we cease to estimate them by a monetary standard, and instead measure them with the yard-stick and the scales. When a nation is producing and using more tons of wheat, iron, cotton, more food products and more manufactured goods than previously, it is increasing its wealth, though prices may pass through 0 to the other side, and conversely, when less is produced than formerly, there is less wealth, though prices may advance to infinity. Ignorance of this fact vitiates half the commercial reasoning of the day.

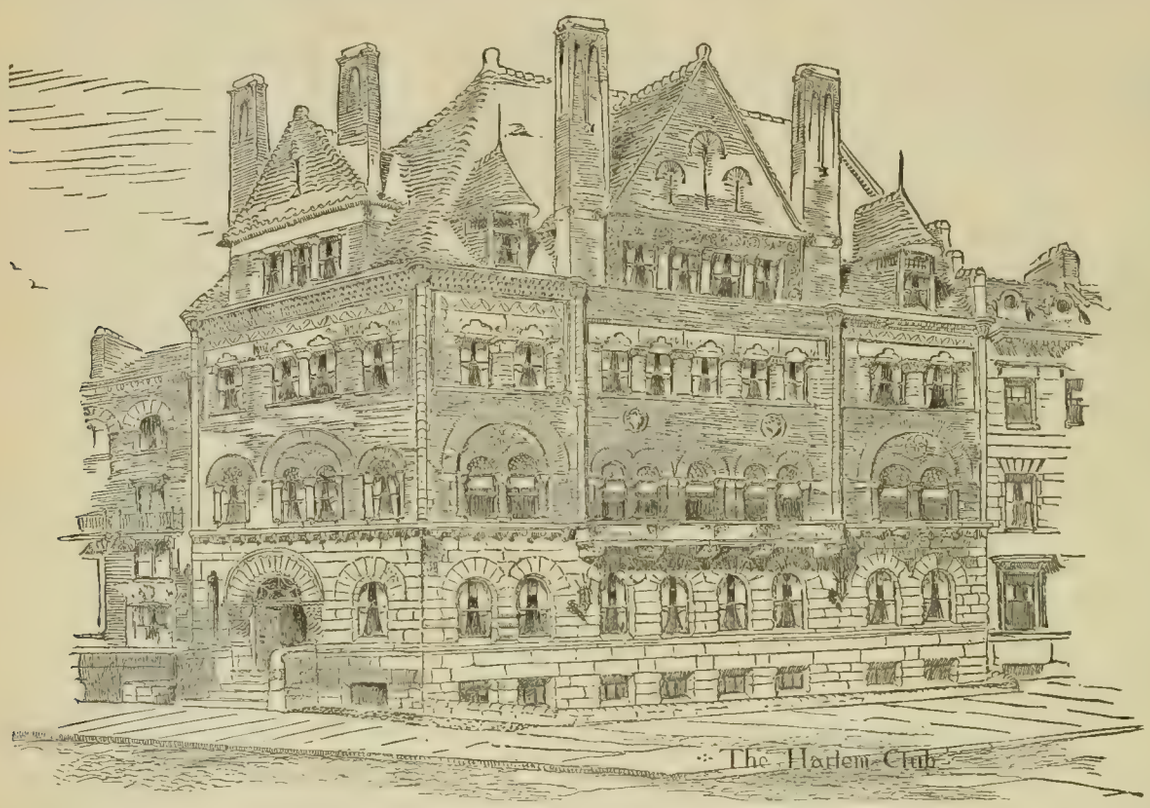
We may be sure the seven fat years of Egypt were years of low prices and the seven lean years of famine were years of high prices, and so it is to-day.

Mankind is usually in an attitude of doubt towards the highest knowledge in its possession, while it rarely questions its common knowledge, although over and over again it has been shown that we are even more often misled by the latter than by the former, and what really needs our scrutiny is not the highest generalizations of Science, but our stock notions, our common unquestioned ideas about things. This is apropos of some interesting social statistics which have been published recently by Mr. Charles Booth, who has been closely investigating the condition of the very poorest class in the East End of London. One of our common ideas upon social matters is that the poor man's family is usually more numerous than the rich man's. We believe this is a fact verified by our own observation. Children swarm in the streets of the poorer quarters in every large town, and the blessing which Sarah prayed for in the old days seems to fall too abundantly upon the overworked wife of the struggling mechanic. Mr. Booth, however, shows that our ideas on this matter do not square with the facts. In his exhaustive inquiry he adopted the following classification: 1st. The lowest class—criminals, loafers and occasional laborers; 2d. Casual wage-earners; 3d. Intermittent earners; 4th. Small, regular earners. He found that in the first class there was 1½ per cent. of the total population of the district, in the second 11 per cent., in the third 7½ per cent., and in the fourth 15 per cent. In the lowest class there was less than one child to each man; in the second, third and fourth classes, not quite two children to each man; while in the artisan class, above all these, the number of children was nearly three. Of course, it is not alleged that the number of children increase directly in proportion to the means of the parents; but the physiological fact that fecundity depends upon physical well-being should have led us to expect what Mr. Booth's figures show, that the productiveness of the lowest classes is not so great as of those in better conditions of life. It has been shown that the mortality among the poor is nearly double what it is among the well-to-do and the rich, so that nature has put double bars to the increase of that class.

The fund for monumenting the Stanford White Memorial Arch, which started so bravely, has lately been growing almost imperceptibly. Out of the $100,000 which the committee think they need, $44,000 only has been raised; and it is doubtful if the fund will ever reach $50,000 by subscription. In the end, experience teaches us that the State will be asked to supply the deficiency. The fact is, that in a number of cases recently Americans have not sustained their traditional reputation for generosity, which Charles Reade and others speak of so warmly. If the committee in charge of the Bartholdi Pedestal Fund had been asked how much faith they had in the desire of our people to contribute for the purpose of carrying out some patriotic or public object, they probably would not have answered enthusiastically. Perhaps, also, the committee in charge of the Grant Monument Fund would be rather lukewarm in its praise of American generosity, considering that it is short about $900,000 in money deemed necessary to complete its plans. The Johnstown sufferers have not, it is true, very much to complain of in the treatment they have received; but their case was so very exceptional that it really has no bearing on the question as to the generosity of the American people upon all ordinary occasions. No doubt it would have been equally difficult to raise money for similar purposes elsewhere. Great Britain's contribution of $35,000 toward a Matthew Arnold Fund was not quite as much as it might have been. There are few monuments and arches of any size all over Europe that were not built either partially or wholly by the State. As a matter of fact, individual generosity for purposes not previously cherished by the individual are very rare everywhere.

The industrial journal of Atlanta, Dixie, estimates that since 1880, in the States of Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina, there has been an increase of tilled land amounting to 11,273,577 acres, and an increase of real estate values amounting to $794,914,997. These figures show the value of a many-sided development of the industrial life of a section. While the South did nothing besides raise cotton, and that under a wasteful and extravagant system, her growth was unmeasurably hampered. The fact that she did as little as possible to develop her natural resources showed that there was something inherently wrong in her social system which clogged any real industrial progress. That clog removed, she soon saw the desirability of having laborers that were not merely cotton pickers, and the result has been an array of figures along the whole industrial front, alike in amount and significance to those given above. Land has gained from the fact that the population are no longer dependent on it alone for maintenance.

The Nationalist Movement.



A great deal of interest and some alarm is being manifested in regard to the movement in favor of State Socialism recently set on foot in Boston. The inaugurators of this movement denominate themselves Nationalists, thus hoping, no doubt, to gain a wider hearing for their socialistic ideas under the cover of an assumed name which does not easily suggest the real nature of the doctrines which they advocate. In this they are perhaps justified on account of the odium and unwarranted prejudice which attaches to any movement stamped socialistic in this country. The occasion for alarm among firm believers in the established order of industrial society is that the Nationalist idea is meeting with such wide reception, and that the movement has for its sponsors men who stand high in the fields of literature, in the pulpit, and at the bar. It has not been over six months since the first Nationalist club was organized, and yet there are now in active existence seven clubs in different cities representing States as far West as California. Besides this, clubs are being formed in at least fifteen other cities throughout the country. The leaders have already placed a magazine in the field devoted to the advocacy of their peculiar doctrines—the first number of which appeared last month. Several newspapers in Boston have come out in favor of Nationalism, and it will be a matter only of time before other sheets, already inclined towards Socialism, will also take up the cause. The formation of the Nationalist Club of Boston last December—the first organized—was due largely to the influence exerted by Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backwards," in which, it will be remembered, is presented a detailed plan of a new social order from which all present evils are eliminated. The basic principle underlying the new social structure proposed by the Nationalists is the brotherhood of humanity. Competition, which under the existing social régime regulates, in the main, all industrial transactions is viewed by the advocates of the proposed new order as simply the application of the brutal law of the survival of the strongest and shrewdest, and so long as this principle is continued the highest development of the individual, it is asserted, can not be attained. In order, then, that humanity may realize its highest aim, the Nationalists urge that the government must assume control of all industries. This is not to be done suddenly or inconsiderately, but with careful regard for the existing condition of affairs. For instance, the government should first take charge of and operate those businesses which seem at present more clearly for the interests of the community as a whole, viz.: the telegraph, telephone, railway, etc.; then as the benefits from government control become more manifest—as the Nationalists maintain they will—the way will be clear for the nationalization of industries obviously of a less public nature. No hard and fast line can be drawn between the classes of service which should be public and those which should be private, it is held. In this they differ from those who hold with the political economists, Professor R. T. Ely, H. C. Adams, E. J. James, and others of the same school, that only those industries should be controlled by the State that are in their inherent natures natural monopolies; in other words, those businesses into which the regulative competition does not and can not enter, as, for instance, street railways, electric lights, the gas supply, etc. To the casual reader it will perhaps seem that the position taken by the Nationalists is only a step in advance of that held by the economists just mentioned; yet a thorough acquaintance with the views of each will show that there is a wide difference between government control of all industries, and government control of natural monopolies. The economic advantage possessed by combinations, trusts, syndicates and large establishments over individuals doing business on a small scale demonstrates, according to the Nationalists, the practicability of their proposition for the centralization of the control of all industries into the hands of the government. Every trust that is formed, and every combination that is effected, is hailed by the Nationalists as a sign of progress toward the realization of their ideal socialistic commonwealth, where want and poverty is unknown and crime is only a disease; where everything works with mechanical precision and everybody is happy.

Mayor Grant seems to take particular delight in "baiting" the corporations. His vigor in cutting down the telegraph poles, and his sturdy determination to oppose the iniquitous Mr. Gould in giving our citizens any more rapid transit have already clearly indicated his pertinacious desire to make the corporations toe the mark and to keep them from taking too much room. Now, following Mayor Hewitt, he has come out with another cause for complaint. He demands that the horse-car companies shall be forced, wherever their charter requires it, to sink their rails to a level with the street. It is to be hoped that the Mayor will succeed as well in accomplishing this improvement as he has been in crushing the Manhattan Company's longing for a "loop." The present projecting tracks are a great inconvenience to drivers, especially in light vehicles, as well as something of a strain on the vehicles themselves. The tracks necessarily imply either a depression or a projection, and in either case there would be some inconvenience to drivers, but there would be less in case of the depression.

The Harlem Club.

One of the most noteworthy of recent structures above the Park is the new home of the Harlem Club, now virtually completed as to its exterior, at the southeast corner of Lenox avenue and 123d street. It has a frontage of nearly 100 feet on the long side, that on the avenue, and this is made to appear considerably greater still by the judicious dispositions adopted by the architect. On the street front, the north, the width is about 30 feet, enough to give space for a dignified entrance, which, at least regarding architectural considerations, is properly confined to this end, leaving the longer front unbroken, save for the windows. The value of the length thus economized is still further enhanced by the moderate height of the building, three stories in the main with a half story in the roof, which becomes a full story in the gabled centre of the avenue front.

The Harlem Club.

It is only when we see a building of considerable area and of moderate height artistically treated, as is done here, that we realize how much our architecture loses when altitude becomes its controlling dimension, and it is at once cramped and spindled.

The material of the Harlem Club is a reddish brown sandstone, a very good red brick and terra cotta matching it almost perfectly in tint. The sandstone composes the plinth and the first story up to the impost of the arches and including their voussoirs. It reappears in the dentilled string course that marks the top of this story and of the substructure of the building, and in the heavy plain unmoulded belt that traverses the whole building on both sides above the third story and forms the continuous lintel of its openings. The masonic treatment of this basement is excellent, recalling that of the bank at the corner of 5th avenue and 42d street. The wall of the first story is composed of alternate broad and smooth, and narrow and rough courses, giving a grateful sense of thorough bonding. The arches are Florentine with narrow voussoirs and deeply sunken joints, and rough-faced enough to give a sense of texture without affectation of roughness. Three of these arches* are grouped at the centre of the long front, and two in each flank, leaving a terminal pier, perhaps too narrow considering the generally massive and "wally" effect of the front, especially at the south end. The arrangement is, nevertheless, very effective and distinctly foretells the threefold division that is developed above. The openings of the second story are deep, round arches, two bricks deep, with a very bricky label. There is a pair of these in each wing, and an arcade of five, of which the central one is stilted, traversing the central division, and giving upon a long and solid balcony of brown stone supported on plain and massive corbels. The arches are sprung from broad piers of brick flanked by sturdy nook-shafts of terra cotta. Over each pair of arches, at the side, is turned a large blank relieving arch with a simple ornament in the head. The third story has the heavy continuous lintel already described, supported where the openings occur by broad piers of brick rounded at the jambs and bearing low capitals. There are three in each wing, and six in the centre division which in width about equals the sum of the two wings. Above the balcony, the centre is divided from the wings by toruses in brick. The cornice is a characteristic piece of brickwork, and completes at the sides the wall, which in the centre is prolonged into a gable. Over each wing is a dormer in metal, of rather fantastic but effective design, relieved against the steep roof of dark japanned tiles, continued to the party wall at the south end, but hipped at the north, with hip rolls and cresting of red tile. In the gable the story corresponding to the roof story at the sides has a group of five openings framed by a decorated panel at each end, and a decorated lintel, all in terra cotta, and converted into a colonnade by shafts of that material. In the head of the gable are three slits coped with labelled round arches. The gabled roof would have been uncouthly large if it had occupied the whole width of the central division. The awkwardness is happily got over by the clever and effective introduction of a broad chimney on each side, reducing the gable to manageable dimensions and adding picturesqueness to the skyline.

The narrow north front has for its main feature in the first story the entrance, a large round arch not pointed at the extrados like the windows in the same story, and the more effective on that account. It is of sandstone with narrow voussoirs, and has a decorated roll at the intrados. The narrow courses of the wall below are also decorated with very good effect. In the second story the coupled arches, with a blank relieving arch above them, already described as occurring in the wing of the long front on this story, are repeated, but at the centre, and there is a smaller single arch on each side.

The lintel of the third story is repeated along this front, with two openings under it at the centre and one on each side. A large central dormer of three lights completes the front. Its openings are also covered with a stone lintel, while its vertical gable is treated like a hip, being hung with the dark japanned tiles and coped with the red tile used in the roof. This is a questionable arrangement, having a whimsical look that detracts from the sobriety, dignity and massiveness of the arch. In composition and in detail we scarcely know of a more creditable recent building. The carved and moulded ornaments are Byzantine in style, extremely spirited in design, and very well adjusted in scale. The architect and his clients are much to be congratulated upon the result of his labors.

* The engraving, made from the architects' first drawing, differs slightly as to the disposition of these openings ultimately adopted and carried out in the building.

It is very seldom that an institution confines itself to the work it at first sets out to perform. The first step taken necessitates or prompts other steps. The younger members of the present generation are not unlikely to see unexpected results arise from the appointment of the Interstate Commission. Its functions are already greater than those which its originators had in mind when they originally proposed its creation, and it is not improbable that next Congress will be asked to amend the Interstate Commerce act again so that the Commission may have power to regulate mechanical devices on all the railroads of the country. This will extend federal control a step further and give greater vitality to a principle which has always been viewed with jealousy by the States. Every extension of the Interstate Act prepares the way for the national ownership of the railroads.

The increase of the control over railroads by the national government has stirred the State governments to more actively supervise than ever the lines within their boundaries. In many States there has been, recently, an unusually large amount of legislation affecting railroads; legislation as to the number of trains to be run at certain hours, the method of heating to be employed, details of construction, systems of signalling, etc. News now comes that Kansas intends to fix the rates for the roads running within the State, so that her people can compete with Kansas City; and in Missouri the Railroad Commissioners have named a day for the representatives of railroads in that State to say why freight charges should not be reduced. These actions all involve scarcely recognized principles of immense importance to this country.

The Nationalist movement which is attracting a good deal of attention in Boston and elsewhere has an air of respectability and good breeding about it that distinguishes it from analogous movements both here and abroad. The leaders are men of culture and social position, and the followers have nothing akin to that terror of the bourgeois—the wild-eyed socialist. Edward Bellamy, T. W. Higginson, Novelist Howells, Minot J. Savage, are men whose characters free them from any taint of demagogy, and whose utterances are such as can command attention. According to a rather canting account of their opinions and aims, given in one of the New York papers recently, the "fair sex formed the majority of the audience" at a lecture delivered recently by Mr. Bellamy, and they "applauded the modest young champion of reform enthusiastically." And in the words of the same authority, "Col. Higginson presided in his usual courtly fashion." This gives the impression of a sort of dainty parlor radicalism and presents a marked contrast to the spectacle of George Morris fervidly haranguing from an improvised platform a crowd of London workingmen. If these Nationalists wish a popular backing for their movement they will have to take off their gloves and give it rather more of a heroic character.

Certain of our daily journals have found in the successful efforts of the relief committees a text for a discourse on the increase of fellow-feeling between man and man which goes with material progress. But the facts do not bear out any such interpretation. No reflection is cast upon the generosity of the contributors to the relief funds; they have given probably quite as much as will be needed. But in proportion to the number of people, who could have subscribed various sums ranging from five cents to $25,000, how many have responded? And among those who have responded, how many have parted with a sum large enough in proportion to their incomes to make their gift constitute real sacrifice? It is a pity that men (editors in particular) can so seldom take things as they really are. Generosity seldom means self-denial; a subscription very frequently implies merely self-seeking, the sunset is not always crimson. It was good of certain of our millionaries each to give $5,000, but what was such a sum to them? Their action no more shows an increase of fellow-feeling among our contemporaries than the blasting of a rock means the shifting of the earth. What the Johnstown disaster has shown is that men, by means of telegraphs, railroads, banks and facility of organization can more readily now than formerly give a substantial expression to their kindly feelings. Human sorrow generally means human poverty. Banks are numerous, checks are handy, subscriptions grow larger, but men—men remain very much the same.

Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is certainly one of the most conservative trades' unionists in the country. His management of the Brotherhood before the Burlington strike was marked by an effort to avoid all complications with the employing companies, and it was only after many persistent efforts to compromise that he consented to that disastrous move. Apparently his experience has quite satisfied him that striking does not pay. He is reported as saying to one of the Brotherhood in the presence of others: "Under no circumstances of which I can conceive shall I ever sanction another strike." Surely this is a most singular utterance for the chief of a trades' union. Why should workingmen go to the expense of organizing unless they can make their organization a constant menace to the employer who would unjustly reduce their wages? It may be sound policy to strike as little as possible, but to say that under no circumstances should a strike be sanctioned amounts to the statement that trades' unions have no use for being. It is true that they have been in the habit of doing a charitable work also, but unless they provided some protection for the employé against the employer they never could have gained the popularity they have gained. A strike is not useless because it fails. It teaches employers to avoid giving cause for discontent in the future. Chief Arthur should have qualified his statement somewhat.

Letter Bag—The Future of New York City.

Editor Record and Guide:

As The Record and Guide has never been adverse to prophecy, I send to you what seems to me to be a reasonable picture of the future geographical distribution of the business and inhabitants of New York City. I assume in drawing my sketch that the population dwelling in this city and the business carried on by them will have increased to such an extent that Manhattan Island will be a good deal too small to provide sufficient accommodations for them. In one sense this is true at present. At this very moment the island cannot provide houseroom for all the people who do business in it—at a low enough cost. And this question of cost will be the principal determining consideration in the future distribution of the population of our city. I shall assume further, that with all their specialization of interest, the cities centering around Manhattan Island are and will continue to be substantially one. Moreover, they will continue to be every year more and more firmly united to New York by solid bonds of iron and masonry. I include the district north of the Harlem River in the same category with the Brooklyn and the Jersey shores, because, although it has been annexed already, it has very many points of comparison with those places in its relation to the section south of the Harlem River. It was annexed first only because bridges were more easily built over that part of the river. One thing further I shall assume, and on this assumption rests everything that will follow. I presuppose a well-adjusted system of rapid transit, which not only enables one to reach any point on the island in a comparatively short time, but which ramifies the suburban districts and leaves hardly a street undrained. By "well-adjusted" I mean that I shall make no allowance for any superiority of transit in any single direction, except those which necessarily arise from its topography—such, for instance, as the greater width of the Hudson River.

As these conditions become realized, the following change will tend to take place: the island will continually be devoted more and more to business, until ultimately it will almost cease to become a place of residence. I do not make this statement absolutely, but I firmly believe in its truth—as a tendency. Consider what the conditions will be. For this purpose divide the business community into three classes—the retailers, wholesalers, and those that are neither one nor the other. In the last group I include all those business and professional firms, individuals or corporations, belonging to neither of the first two classes, which at present have their offices chiefly south of Chambers street. I put them all together because I believe that, in one way or another, they are so closely inter-related that no matter how they may segregate among themselves, they will be obliged to occupy the same part of the city. On the other hand, the wholesale traders will tend to stick together in the same way. What, then, will be the process of readjustment as the city grows? There will be a continual crowding of the wholesale trade farther up town, which, taken together with the enormous expansion of that trade itself, will force a transformation of the resident district into business districts. In trying to realize this in thought, it appears, I acknowledge, inconceivable that the wholesale trade should occupy the whole remaining portion of the island; but to this I reply, first, that I do not claim that it will occupy the whole remaining portion—only a continually increasing part of the whole remaining portion; and, secondly, that the expansion of business that will be taking place all the time is equally inconceivable. What I do think is that that portion of the island not utilized by business will be covered chiefly with tenements and the retail shops that are needed by their inhabitants. The rich and the middle classes will make their homes in the suburban districts some miles, probably, back from the shore lines. The retail trade will, of course, follow the residence population. With them it will cross the rivers and establish itself on the opposite shores. Not only will many of the small shops do this, but most of the large ones. In this connection the building up of great retail establishments in Brooklyn is significant. Then there are other kinds of traffic which will stay or go across the rivers. The inevitable building of docks on every convenient bit of water front will necessitate a great deal of traffic on the other shores; and the factories already there will increase largely. In spite, however, of these qualifications I reaffirm my main proposition, that, after a certain point is reached, Manhattan Island will become continually less of a residential centre, and consequently that the suburban districts will be continually more so.

It would be interesting to follow out this line of argument a little farther—to endeavor to answer, for instance, the questions: In what direction or directions will the rich people be likely to go? In what the middle classes? Will the former take advantage of the increased room they can get in the suburban districts and surround their mansions by gardens? Or, will they be huddled together as they are to-day? But I have already taken enough of your space.

John Hitchcock.

There is no doubt at present a tendency for the wholesale trade to expand into districts heretofore devoted to residential purposes, although, of course, the process of crowding out dwelling houses, which Mr. Hitchcock so confidently predicts, is many years from being already begun. The real question, after all, is (if we accept the writer's arguments), How many years? Our correspondent says it will take place "ultimately." But any thing may take place "ultimately." The distant future may be made of a clay we know nothing about. Any such prediction rests on too many contingencies There will be changes in locomotion, in building, in social habits, in political and business conditions which will change the entire aspect of affairs. Mr. Hitchcock should remember this.

Restrictions Around the New Cathedral.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

There is something which THE RECORD ought to agitate, among its many good suggestions, and that is the restricting of the district surrounding the new Cathedral site.

One of the most beautiful neighborhoods in New York is located about the 104th street station of the 9th avenue Elevated, and it is fast being encroached upon by flats of a very ordinary description.

This beautiful location, about the upper end of the park, is one of the highest on the west side, and has the shortest stairways to the Elevated road of any of the stations.

If something is not done to restrict this section, it will be spoiled and unworthy of the beautiful architectural structure the Cathedral promises to be.

The streets for ten blocks, on either side of 110th street, should be confined to private dwellings, leaving 9th and 10th avenues to flats and stores.

Is it not essential to the welfare and beauty of our city that this should be done, and can THE RECORD not urge this matter?

Another vital necessity is the improvement of 8th avenue.

Let the horse-car line run on 9th avenue, since there is no necessity of it where it now is, and then macadamize 8th avenue, and then make it a beautiful driveway such as 5th avenue is on the other side of the park.

This horse-car line has hindered 8th avenue and driven many to the Riverside Drive to build beautiful dwellings which would otherwise have fronted on Central Park West.

The car line is unnecessary, as it is uncalled for, and could just as readily be on 9th avenue.

This will be one of the solutions as to the reasons for so much more building on 5th avenue than there is on 8th avenue.

Take away the cars, make a good driveway and put out trees, and Central Park West will be an ornament to our city than which there is no finer. AN OBSERVER.

It is simply impossible to restrict ten blocks north and south of the Cathedral site for private dwellings, because numerous flats have already been erected on such streets and many others are contemplated. The trouble with 8th avenue is that owners have always stood in their own light by refusing to combine and place restrictions relative to the character of the buildings to be erected. The improvement of this avenue would be a welcome one; but without co-operation on the part of owners, in the way of restrictions, little will be accomplished.

Guthrie, I. T.

DEAR SIR—Knowing of the great interest you manifest in real estate matters, I concluded to send you a synopsis of my views in reference to the progress of this infant city, which is now having a most wonderful boom in the real estate line. After a rapid journey from New York, through Chicago, Kansas City and other interesting points, I arrived in this, the great city of Guthrie, about one week ago, after a travel of four days.

To say I was amazed at the sight I beheld here is but slightly expressive of my astonishment. I could hardly believe or realize that this was a city of only seven weeks old. Such rapid progress in the building and general appearance of affairs is simply marvelous and thoroughly demonstrative of the tact, ingenuity and energy of the American people.

As the train approached this city I beheld in the distance miles of frame buildings as far as the eye could reach in various directions. Arriving at the depot all was rush and bustle, throngs of people being gathered there, and nearly all the passengers left the train here.

I soon ascertained that what I gazed upon as Guthrie was in reality five towns—viz., Guthrie, East Guthrie, West Guthrie, South Guthrie and the City of Capitol Hill—each and all having its separate and distinct city officers and government, working apparently in excellent harmony, though with some rivalry respecting the boom in real estate, as it strikes the different towns and apparently rebounds from one to the other.

Now to explain why these numerous towns so near. It is so arranged to conform with the law of the United States, which says that each town shall not contain more than 320 acres, and it is generally understood that as soon as practicable after the government issues its patents for the various Guthrie town sites they will all consolidate as one city.

The location of Guthrie is naturally grand. The main part of the city is located upon a gradually sloping elevation east of the railroad, possessing a most perfect drainage incline to all parts of the compass. The view of Guthrie and the surrounding country as seen from the high hills just west of the city is the most picturesque and beautiful I ever beheld, and the wonderful manner in which the surrounding country rises and falls in every direction makes it a model rolling country which cannot be otherwise than healthy. The climate is remarkably fine. While it is warm during the day, a continuous pleasant breeze fans the air, and the nights are very cool and refreshing, making sleep most restful, awakening at an early hour in the morning, ready for an active day's work. As to the water, it is good and plentiful.

Iron and lead have been found in this vicinity and especial efforts are now being made to find coal convenient to utilize it. On Sunday last great excitement prevailed upon the reported find of gold in the suburbs, thousands of people flocking to the hillsides staking out mineral claims.

Produce is here in abundance and everything is sold at New York prices and less. The hotels and restaurants furnish an excellent meal at from 25 to 35 cents.

The people are law-abiding and peaceable—the best-natured population to be found anywhere.

The inhabitants are from every State and Territory in the United States and every city of note is well represented.

There are seven banks, one of which, the Commercial, is now erecting a fine bank building of stone and brick, to cost $60,000; other banks are also erecting substantial brick and stone structures. Lumberyards number forty-two; hardware stores, thirty-nine; groceries, thirty-eight; and all others, in proportion, apparently doing a prosperous business.

Each and every passenger train brings numerous investors who are making speculation in town lots lively, some making 100 per cent. daily upon their investments. As an instance, I bought some lots one week ago for $5, size 25x140, that now bring as high as $150.

Before coming here I read with much doubt what wonderful things that were printed in the papers about this place, but I now find there can be said truthfully much more in its praise. I do not think there is any place in the United States where money can be invested to better advantage than in Guthrie. Factories and mills are now in operation, and other building and business is rushing in every direction. Since the election here last week of Mayor and other city officers everything runs as smoothly as in an old city.

Though not a practical farmer, but from the most reliable information and my best judgment from observation, I do not hesitate to say that the land in Oklahoma is rich and productive, and many good claims of quarter sections of land can be had in this vicinity for the trouble of looking for them. GEORGE DAY.

Our correspondent's glowing letter should be read with the qualifications which first impressions need. Guthrie is no doubt "booming" after the manner of all new towns of its kind, but its future is a matter which cannot be determined yet.

Men and Things.

It is announced that the Dock Department have instructed Engineer Greene to make plans for the new pier at East 28th street. The structure is to be 400 feet long. It will cost about $30,000.

On Thursday Mount Vernon celebrated with great display of bunting and a military demonstration the laying of the corner-stone of the new armory for the Eleventh Company, N. Y. S. N. G., at 5th avenue and North street.

The seven five-story flats which are being built by Fred. R. Meres, adjoining the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 135th street, are rapidly approaching completion. They are already inclosed and will evidently be ready for occupancy in two months. They are single flats, the fronts being of brick, stone and terra cotta, and they will cost in the neighborhood of $120,000.

In the seven South 5th avenue judgments and the 3d avenue judgments against the "L" road, mentioned in our last issue, Peckham & Tyler, of 111 Broadway, were attorneys for all the property-owners. In the case of K. Ode the award for damages was $7,000 to the fee of his property, and $650 a year for six years to compensate him for the loss of past rents.

A new feature was introduced at the Exchange on Thursday when a dozen houses on Convent avenue and 144th street were offered under foreclosure of a mortgage held by the executors of Samuel J. Tilden. The feature consisted in exhibiting a photograph of the buildings offered for sale, so that intending buyers could see just what they were bidding for. Unfortunately the houses offered are unfinished and outsiders were thereby deterred from purchasing.

A novel effect is seen in a flat now being built on Central Park West. In the wall space over the arched lintels, what may be termed a "pattern in stonework" is to be seen. It consists of a number of squares in stonework, so interworked that each alternate square has a rough surface. The appearance thus presented of rough and smooth surfaces is like the squares on a cheesboard, and the effect is not displeasing to the eye.

The final figures of the Corporation sale, held June 10th to 14th, were not made up until yesterday afternoon, but Clerk Cady stated that the approximate figures were as follows: Of the 4,200 parcels 2,900 to 3,000 had been sold, between $500,000 and $600,000 having been realized on them. Over $400,000 in tax arrears was settled before the sale. The Corporation, as usual, had to buy in a number of parcels.

The Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph Company's up-town building is nearing completion. It is situated on the north side of 38th street, between Broadway and 6th avenue. It is a seven-story and basement building, 60x100 in size. The front is of buff brick and light brown terra cotta, the style being Romanesque. It has a central court running from the second story to the roof which lights the inner rooms, the second floor being covered with a skylight. There are to be two passenger and freight elevators, and steam heat and other improvements will be provided. The company will use the most part of the building, which will be ready for occupancy in August. Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz is the architect, and the cost is estimated at $275,000.

Property-owners on Washington Heights have for some time been much exercised over the plan for the new viaduct, to be built from 155th street to McComb's Dam Bridge. The cost was too great for them. They said that $800,000 was too much to spend, and they waited in full force upon the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, a few days ago, to urge the construction of a more economical viaduct. The board, after considering the matter, resolved to disapprove the plan adopted, and have now ordered a new plan to be drawn up which will cost between $300,000 and $400,000 only. This new plan is the result of a talk between Commissioner Gilroy and the neighboring property-owners, who are unanimously in favor of the cheaper viaduct, and are willing to pay for it with a light heart.

It has been quite apparent for a long time that the postal service in this city has been hampered by the inadequacy of the accommodations at the central office. Much more room is needed than there is, especially on Mail street. It cannot be long before some steps will have to be taken to increase the accommodations, and a proposition to add to the northern end of the Post-office building is sure to be made. No further encroachments upon the City Hall Park should be permitted under any circumstances. The suggestion has been made that the government should buy the block of old buildings bounded by Park row, Ann street, Beekman street and Theatre alley, and construct a new building there, connected with the Post-office by an underground passage, as the two Post-office buildings are in London. This suggestion should be acted upon at once, for it cannot be long before the old buildings on Park row are replaced by finer structures. With the government building on Park row it would be a street of very imposing edifices.

The sky-scraping "Osborne" flat on the northwest corner of 7th avenue and 57th street is to be made still higher by the addition of four stories on the front and one story on the rear. The cost of alterations are estimated at $20,000.

A Remarkable Loan.

From time to time some extraordinary transactions are disclosed by a search of the official conveyances which appear in THE RECORD AND GUIDE. Evidences are not infrequently discovered of false considerations having been given in deeds transferring property. A scrutiny of the official mortgage deeds published in this paper also shows that in some cases loans are made by or on behalf of institutions and individuals which are dangerously risky and which leave the impression that the mortgagee would fare badly should foreclosure proceedings ever become necessary through the mortgagor's default in paying off the loan, if demanded when the time of expiry arrived.

A mortgage appeared in a recent issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE showing that a piece of property on the northeast corner of Washington and Cortlandt streets was mortgaged to the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank by one Samuel Trimble, of Brooklyn, for $182,500, at 4½ per cent. interest for five years. The property is described as being 67.1x66.5x66.11x61.3 in size, and the mortgage is dated May 17, 1889. The ground covered is therefore 4,277½ square feet, which is equal to a little over 1 9-13ths of a city lot. On this there is a five-story building recently altered from three five-story stores and a five-story factory which stood on the site about a year ago into one building.

Let us see how much this property cost the owner.

In THE RECORD AND GUIDE of April 14, 1888, the following transfers appear:

Cortlandt st, Nos. 74 and 76, n e cor Washington st, 40.9x66.6x45.2 x67.1, two five-story brick stores, and 171 Washington st, five-story brick store. Wm. E. Verplanck exr. Wm. S. Verplanck to James Adair, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mar. 26, 1888. Deed. nom

Same property. Jas. Adair to Samuel Trimble. April 9, 1888. Deed. $90,000

In THE RECORD AND GUIDE of March 31, 1888, the following transfer appears:

Cortlandt st, No. 72, n s, 40.9 e Washington st, 20.6x66x21.3x66.6, five-story brick factory. E. Ellery Anderson to James Adair, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mort. $9,000. Mar. 22, 1888. Deed. nom

Same property. Jas. Adair to Samuel Trimble. Mar. 23, 1888. Deed. $35,000

It therefore appears that the first cost of the property, from the considerations given in the deeds, was $125,000. It should be added that Mr. Trimble is said to be a representative of John Pettit, who is understood to be the real owner.

But the buildings underwent considerable alterations. In THE RECORD AND GUIDE of November 3, 1888, the following item appears under the applications made to the Building Department under the head of "Alterations:"

Cortlandt st, n e cor Washington st, walls altered; cost, $8,000; S. Trimble, Brooklyn; ar't, J. M. Farnsworth.

As a matter of fact, however, considerably more than $8,000 was spent on the alterations. Architect Farnsworth was called on at his offices in Temple Court, and he said: "The alterations made by Mr. Pettit were carried out under his own supervision, but the figure in the application is misleading. I think, however, that $25,000 would cover what was spent. It would be an outside figure."

Mr. Pettit was called upon by a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and his attention was called to the plan filed in the official department for alterations to cost $8,000. It was difficult to extract from him a statement as to the approximate cost. "Would $50,000 be too high?" "It would not," was his reply. Subsequently, however, the object of the inquiry was disclosed to him, and he said: "I will be glad to give you the contract to do the work for $100,000." The discrepancy between the estimate of the architect and the reputed owner is very forcible, not to speak of the official application for only $8,000. When alteration plans are filed at the Building Department it often occurs that the estimates are exceeded. But it is doubtful if they ever were exceeded by eleven and a-half times their estimated figure. Of course the architect was innocent as to the object of the query. But let us presume that the alterations cost double his estimate, that is $50,000, the entire cost of the property to the owner, alterations included, was $175,000. And yet the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank loaned $182,500 on it for five years at 4½ per cent.

In granting an application for this and every loan on real estate the trustees and other members of the bond and mortgage committee of every savings institution must sign a declaration to the following effect, in conformity with the law:

"The undersigned members of the bond and mortgage committee of said institution do, after investigation, certify that the value of the above premises proposed to be mortgaged to said institution are, according to our best judgment, worth at least twice the amount of the sum proposed to be loaned on the property."

That is to say, that in the loan under consideration the officers of the bank, who are responsible for the payment of their depositors' money, certified by their signatures that the property is worth $385,000, which is "at least twice" the amount of the sum loaned. And yet, on the face of it, the property cost less than $182,500, the amount of the loan itself. Will the bank officials explain the seeming discrepancy?

But this is not all. THE RECORD AND GUIDE had been informed that the considerations given in the deeds transferring the properties were false. Not wishing to do an injustice, and in a spirit of honest inquiry, efforts were made to ascertain the facts. It was found that the parcel transferred at $90,000 to Mr. Trimble on April 9, 1888, had been transferred by Wm. E. Verplanck on March 26, 1888, thirteen days earlier, at $60,000, Mr. Verplanck having filed a certificate early in May to the effect that the actual consideration was $60,000.

Wm. G. Verplanck, a relative of Wm. E. Verplanck, is one of the firm of Curtis & Verplanck, of No. 36 Wall street, who are the attorneys for the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank. Wm. E. Verplanck was called upon, but it was found that he is in Europe.

But we have not yet done. The property which was transferred to Mr. Trimble at $35,000 on March 23d, 1888, was on the very day previous sold by E. Ellery Anderson at $22,000. This statement is made on undoubted authority.

It thus appears that the two parcels which were conveyed at an aggregate of $125,000 actually cost $82,000, or $43,000 less. If $50,000 was spent in alterations the total cost would be $132,000, and if $100,000 had been spent, which no expert would say of a building covering a space of less than 66 feet square, the total could not have been over $182,000.

An application was made for $170,000 on the property from the Washington Life Insurance Company. W. A. Brewer, the president, said they would not consider such a high loan on the property, even at 5 per cent.

A director of the Mutual Life Insurance Company said that it was difficult for institutions to be conservative when such loans were made.

At the Bureau of Assessments it was ascertained that Nos. 72, 74 and 76 Cortlandt and No. 171 Washington street were assessed at $45,000. This, however, is on the four five-story buildings before the alterations were made. The assessment for 1890 will be much higher.

There is only one argument that can be used to overcome criticisms made upon this loan. It may be said that the property was bought at a very low figure and that the actual value, especially with the alterations made, is far higher than the cost. There is but one reply to this, and that is, that there is only a little over one and three-quarters of a lot of ground, with a five-story structure on it. Where are you going to get a valuation of $385,000 out of that?

THE RECORD AND GUIDE makes no accusations. It merely points out the facts. These transactions are injuring real estate. Of course Mr. Trimble and Mr. Pettit are perfectly warranted in getting as high a mortgage as possible. But who is responsible for the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank making such a loan on the property, and such a valuation to boot?

In the interest of the depositors of that bank, and in the cause of honesty, this extraordinary loan requires explanation on the part of the bank officials.

About Those School Sites.

A serious hitch has occurred in the working of the law passed a year ago to enable the Board of Education to obtain sites for schools more speedily than before, by condemnation proceedings. The Commissioners appointed from time to time during the past six months by the Supreme Court to appraise the property needed have, it appears, made awards in thirteen cases, and the Sites Committee of the Board of Education declare that they are all, with the exception of two parcels, much too high, being greatly in excess of the estimates made by the committee itself. The provisions of the new law are that wherever the school accommodation is deficient, the school trustees of the ward are empowered to make application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three Commissioners of Estimate, whose duty it is to hear claims and make awards, these awards to be subject to the approval of the Board of Education before confirmation by the Supreme Court.

The location of the plots, together with the awards and the estimates, are given below:

(A)—There is nearly $80,000 difference between the School Commissioners' figures and those of the Committee of Estimate. The plot includes five lots with two, three and four-story brick and frame tenements, also stables and a coal yard. Lorenz Zeller, Edward McCue and N. R. O'Connor composed the Commission which estimated the value of this plot and experts say the award is a very extravagant one. It is also said that $73,500, the value of the School Commissioners, is entirely too low, and that $120,000 is about what the plot is worth.

* These estimates were made by the Board of Education before the appointment of the different sets of Commissioners by the Supreme Court, and were sent to Tax Commissioner Coleman for and received his revision.

† The awards were made by the Commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court, and we are reliably informed that in most cases the amounts allowed are much in excess of the valuation placed upon the properties in question by the experts in the employment and pay of the city whom the Commissioners called to their assistance.

(B)—The figures on this lot also show a large discrepancy, and judging from the prices other lots thereabouts have sold for it seems that one figure is entirely too low and the other extremely high. For instance, $13,250 was paid for a smaller lot adjoining the school house on Ludlow street, and $12,750 for another adjoining on the north, and to allow less than $3,000 additional for a corner lot of larger size is as absurd as to place the figure at $34,000.

(C)—There is $5,000 difference in the figures on this lot, and if prices realized for similar lots may be used in arriving at values, it must be said that the larger figure is nearer right, for a similar lot of the same size, just opposite, with the same kind of buildings, brought $13,500 three years ago, and no one will deny that east side lots have risen in value since.

(D)—The buildings on this plot are old ones, of brick and frame, some two stories and others three and four stories high; $26,500 represents the difference in the estimate and award. We find that the largest portion of this parcel, viz., 77 feet on Chrystie, 75 feet on Hester street, with lot on east of rear and 25x25, changed hands in 1888 at $60,000. Allowing for a fair increase in value and proportionate figures for the extra lots the award seems high.

(E)—The figures here are over $30,000 apart, and from the prices realized for adjoining properties it would seem that if $60,000 had been named it would be about right. No. 129, a four-story brick tenement with three-story rear tenement, size 25x96.2, changed hands recently at $21,750.

(F and G)—There is $8,000 difference on this plot, but the School Commissioners have since confirmed the award of Committee of Estimate.

(H)—The Committee of Estimate's award on this plot is $18,000 less than the School Commissioners' figures. A part of the plot, size 23.1x100x41.10 x101.9, on the corner, was recently conveyed to ex-Alderman Duffy's son for $27,500.

(I)—We find that a plot of four lots on the southwest corner—opposite the school site—changed hands in 1885 at $35,000, with a builder's loan for improvement. This was at the rate of $8,750 per lot. The award has been made at the rate of $17,500 per lot, a very substantial increase in four years.

(J)—This is one of the few cases in which the figures nearly agreed, and the School Board have confirmed the Commissioners' estimate.

(K)—It appears that there is something like $16,000 difference on this plot. When it is considered how values in this growing section have changed it is not surprising that some experts differ in their values.

(L and M)—In both these cases the awards and estimates were nearly the same, and the School Board has since confirmed the awards.

(N)—The award for this lot is extravagant. Lots can be bought for about one-half the amount awarded. In fact, this particular lot is reported to have been sold recently for $12,000. In January last No. 257, size 19.6x 98.9, with three-story brick dwelling, changed hands at $12,000.

The Mayor and the Commissioners of City Works, Police and Excise, have decided under the new law that three new police stations and two fire engine houses are needed.

The directors of the Union Elevated R. R. have decided to run trains to-day over the new 5th avenue branch of the line as far as 3d street. This will be good news to property-holders in the 22d Ward. The entire line is to be ready by July 15th.

Mayor Chapin, Commissioner Bell and Alderman McCarty, the Commission on the design for the soldiers' and sailors' monument, which is to cost $250,000, have decided to take the advice of experts as to the designs submitted in competition. This matter has hung fire so long that a decision should be arrived at as speedily as possible.

According to the new Directory the population of Brooklyn is 878,526. The number of names published is 195,228, a gain since last year of 6,254. It is worth noting that in his message, in December, 1888, Mayor Chapin estimated the population at only 782,221. Which is correct?

The sale of property by the Arrears Department for unpaid taxes from 1882 to 1886 is announced to take place June 26th. Real estate owners in arrears should visit the Registrar of Arrears before that date and save their property, or at least save the expenses and interest attendant upon these city sales.

The Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), held at No. 30 Court street, on Friday, the following question was submitted to a vote: "Shall the capital stock of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) be increased to 1,200 shares at $50 each?" On this question 115 votes, representing more than two-thirds of the stock, were cast in the affirmative.

On the question of amending the by-laws, so "that no person or corporation shall hold at one time a less number than five shares nor a greater number than twenty shares," the vote was 115 in the affirmative.

It is the purpose of this corporation to purchase buildings near the Hall of Records for the transaction of its business.

Jersey City News.

Efforts have been made by the Pennsylvania Road to purchase the block opposite their depot bounded by Exchange place, York and Hudson streets and the river front. From inquiry at Taylor's Hotel, which occupies part of the block, it appears that they have not yet secured the property. The officials of the road seemed to know nothing of the matter, or declined to talk about it.

George W. La Baw has the sketches on the boards for a four-story, high stoop, brown stone front private house, to be built by R. Sparrier on Jersey avenue, between Montgomery and York streets. It will have hard-wood finish, electrical work and other improvements, and will cost $15,000.

R. W. Sailer has the plans under way for a two-story and attic cottage, 21x46, to be built by W. Walls on Arlington avenue, near Carteret avenue, at a cost of about $4,000.

The A. M. E. Bethel Church intends to build a frame church on Harrison avenue, near Bergen avenue, to cost about $7,000. The plans are being prepared by G. L. Bettcher.

The site for the new armory is being discussed with interest. Several parcels on the Heights have been offered and considered, but none has been selected as yet.

Building Association Notes.

The most interesting fact connected with the building associations in this vicinity which has come up of late is the formation of a local league of the association. There is already in existence a State league, but it cannot be said to have been very representative, and consequently very successful. It has been in session in Utica during the past week, and out of the 300 associations in the State, only twenty-seven are represented there. The trouble has been that there is so very little community of method among the Rochester, Buffalo and New York associations that no league can be expected to amount to much. This local league in the New York district is one of the first of its kind ever started in this country. Lately a similar one has been started in Buffalo. Even Philadelphia, with its 900 associations, was represented only in a State league.

The objects of this association of associations are broad and general. In the words of the constitution, it is designed "to obtain for the building association people in the metropolitan district the advantages of closer relations; to secure through discussion of building associations' practices a greater uniformity of method; to aid members in the construction of their homes through the presentation and discussion of papers on architecture, building and sanitation; to popularize building associations through the delivery of addresses explaining the system, and materially further the interests generally of building and loan associations in the metropolitan district."

About four months ago the first meeting was held to discuss the scheme, and a month later an organization committee was appointed to draw up a constitution. About twenty-seven clubs were represented in the first meetings, and among these were the largest and most successful associations in this neighborhood. Wm. Emerson, of the Equitable Association of Brooklyn, was elected president; C. O'C. Hennessy, of the Daily News Association, secretary, and Paul Tantert, treasurer.

One of the main objects of the league is the discussion of a various problems connected with association management. At a meeting once month a question is presented by the executive committee, and receives thorough discussion. This is very desirable, because there are a number of important questions about which there exists a wide and intelligent difference of opinion. Take, for instance, the problem to be considered at the next meeting, viz., the comparative desirability of the "gross premium," or the "installment" plan, for the collection of premiums. It is essential that these bonuses should be managed with due regard to the effects of such management, because many associations in the past have been severely hurt by a blundering treatment of them.

Another important object to be brought about by the league is the collection of statistics bearing upon the movement. Curiously enough, in spite of the immense importance the association has attained in some of the States, absolutely no provision has been made either by the National or by the State governments to have facts collected on the subject. This probably is the reason why there is such a wide difference of opinion on many questions of management. No comprehensive and carefully collected facts are to be had bearing either one way or the other. The league hopes, partially at least, to remedy this. Every club which joins it will be obliged to furnish once a year a full statement of its affairs. But there is a very general opinion among building association people that they ought to be recognized in some way by the governmental statistical boards.

A determined effort, it is said, is being made to induce Robert Porter, the superintendent of the census, to provide for the collection of these facts in the census that is about to be taken. There are in the United States, according to the estimate of an expert, some 1,200,000 people who are or have been connected with the associations—about the same number which, as free traders allege, receive any benefit from a protective tariff. This may be and perhaps is an over estimate, but it seems reasonable that some attention should be paid to a movement which not only is so numerically and financially strong, but which is interesting in that in has been probably the most successful experiment in co-operation ever tried.

The Commissioners in the matters relative to acquiring land for school sites on the northeast corner of Mulberry and Bayard streets and the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 93d street have completed their estimates of the loss and damage to owners by the taking of said sites. The reports are on file at 45 William street, room 17, and objections, if any, must be made in writing before July 11th. A hearing will be given parties so objecting on July 22d, at 2 o'clock, and the reports will be presented to the Supreme Court on July 25th for confirmation.

The Washington Square District.

The success of Stanford White's Centennial Arch at the foot of 5th avenue has recently called renewed attention to a part of the city which many persons living at a distance seem to think abandoned and forgotten. The metropolitan area is so large that it requires a great deal of local self-trumpeting for any particular section to hold its own against competing sections

As a matter of fact Washington square and its immediate neighborhood still remains the best representative section of the city, and not to know this section is not to know New York. It is the confluent point where all the tides of the metropolis meet. True, some of the waters are beginning to run not altogether pure. There is a remarkable variety in the population of the neighborhood. Along the curbstone of North Washington square, which is the section of Waverley place that extends from University place to Macdougal street, one may often witness a spectacle that reminds him of a general dress parade of flunkies. An alleyway runs in the rear of the dwellings from one end of the square to the other. In this alleyway each house has its stable, and these stables seem to be well provided with every kind of turnout that can suggest real, true blue blood and a pedigree. But West Washington square begins to shade off a little. True, the patrician home of one of our best-known society ladies still rears its facade on the corner of Washington place; but a huge apartment house stands on the corner of Waverley place, and there is an indescribable air that indicates the growth of a tenantry. This air, too, becomes more and more pronounced as we approach 4th street. Finally, on South Washington square, we enter an entirely new atmosphere. We do not, indeed, expect to see here the washing hung out on the balconies to dry; but the spectacle might not be startling. Upon the whole, however, we find a row of houses a little better than a row of tenement houses. It is made up of low-priced boarding houses, flats, and houses inclosing work rooms for light industries. But observe the variety. There is an Italian "Hotel Garabaldi," a French chapelle, inclosing the Ecole Paroissiele Gratuite de L'eglise St. Vincent de Paul, and some German saloons. On East Washington square, again, we find a repetition of West Washington square, with its apartment house tendencies, but with an architectural difference. Gray Gothic predominates, and except for one brick apartment house, and a small hostelry, this style would hold possession of the entire two blocks.

But to the lovers of the picturesque in character there is more to be found that will prove attractive in the square itself than in its generally rather mean environment. It is thronged in fair weather by people of almost every nationality. If the ears are kept open in passing along the walks a visitor may hear a half a dozen different foreign languages spoken, French and Italian predominating, in as many minutes; and he may hear English with all its accents and inflections, including Irish, Scotch, and plantation English. There is nothing to be found in any part of New York that does not find its counterpart in the neighborhood of Washington square. As if to supply an omission a body of christian Chinamen have either seceded from among the heathen Chinamen of Mott street, or appeared, after the mysterious habit of the race, from some unknown quarter, to form a little Washington square colony of their own. They work the Sunday-school of the Church of the Stranger in its chapel on Winthrop place, and throng the park furtively after the classes are dismissed. But they are to be seen oftener upon the sidewalk than upon the park walks. Chinamen do not seem to care for green trees.

It would be curious to know how the impression that the aristocracy have all moved up town ever got abroad. There are more noted men living on the square, or within hailing distance, than on the same space anywhere else in the city. The house of Edward Cooper and the Rhinelander house stand on the two corners made by 5th avenue and North Washington square. The marble mansion of John Taylor Johnston is on the same block, fronting on 5th avenue, but presenting its side to Clinton place. Across the avenue, half way between Clinton place and the square, is the house of William Butler Duncan. Just around the corner, in Clinton place, live Postmaster and ex-Senator Cornelius Van Cott, and Banker Edward Schell. Around the other corner, on the same street, ex-Judge Charles P. Daly, now president of the Historical Society, finds his domicile. Sir Roderic Cameron, the lone American knight, looks upon the green trees from the windows of his town house at the northeast corner of the square, and Mrs. Scott-Lord still holds Republican court on West Washington square. On the square, too, is the home of J. Rhinelander Stewart, whose labors in behalf of the Centennial Arch is giving him a new title to distinction. Lispenard Stewart lives near by, and on the square, or in the immediate neighborhood, are to be found the dwellings of General Daniel E. Sickles, General Daniel Butterfield, Dr. Gautier, Robert Taylor, W. S. Wilson, H. L. Dyer, Edward T. Dyer, Mrs. George Merritt, Robert Tailor, E. N. Tailer, Mrs. J. J. Henry, J. Van D. Ried, Henry R. Remsen, Jas. M. Waterbury, Lloyd S. Bryce, Paul Dana, and the Livingston and Post families innumerable. This list could be continued indefinitely; but the four hundred cannot expect to occupy all the space available for ideas. It will be seen, however, by the names given that the aristocracy have not all gone up town.

There is another curious misconception about Washington square. It is supposed to be on the by-ways of the city, on streets, that is to say, in which the traffic is small. We call this a curious misconception, but it is not altogether curious. It is a superstition. There was a time when the square was off the direct line of transit, and when it heard little of the rumble and roar of traffic. But the time, unfortunately for the ears of residents of the neighborhood, belongs among the eras of ancient history. The dream of a peaceful, retired life was rudely broken for the residents on Washington square when a direct connection was made between 5th and South 5th avenues. These thoroughfares now offer the straight line of transit between all that part of the city which lies along and near West Broadway and the up-town districts. The line is continuous, and without break, all the way from Barclay street to 23d street; and it is probably more thronged with vehicles than any other thoroughfare in the city north of Canal street. Fifth avenue is much more crowded in the morning and evening, and probably all the day long, than Broadway at the intersection of Waverley place. It is often even perilous to cross North Washington square at certain hours of the day. Two blocks on 5th avenue, at a very heavy cost for repairs, are kept paved with asphalt to deaden the noise; and the pedestrian, therefore, receiving little assistance from his ears when crossing, is often obliged to exact double service from his legs.

The future of Washington square is a subject for conjecture. An opinion could be given easily if we knew the men who are to inherit the property after the living generation of householders has passed away. No other square in the city has so many natural advantages. Its venerable trees grow in greater variety and put forth more luxuriant foliage than the trees in any other square, and the number of closed streets in the neighborhood still serves to secure a certain measure of quiet. The location is also convenient, giving access quickly to all parts of the city where men are apt to be called for business or pleasure; and if the future owners of the property are men of taste and judgment they will rebuild in modern style and stay there, they or their families, to the latest generation. But if this is to be the destiny of the neighborhood it will be necessary to begin the work of improvement quickly. The tradesmen, step by step, are making a slow invasion, and, more ominous still, an occasional factory for the manufacture of some artistic and decorative commodity is beginning to fill the neighbourhood with the music of steam whistles. The Sailors' Snug Harbor property, too, an excrescence on the city, is an injury to the neighborhood. But it would be hard to say that a section which has fought so stubbornly for its fashionable pre-eminence, and still maintains it despite every disadvantage, can be defeated. We shall have to wait and see.

Important Buildings Under Way.

V.

BETWEEN FIFTY-NINTH AND ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH STREETS, WEST OF EIGHTH AVENUE.

In the previous four articles a review has been given of the important building operations under way on the east side, south of 125th street, and on the west side, south of 59th street. In this article a glance is given at some of the principal improvements in progress between 59th and 125th streets, west of 8th avenue.

The new place of worship for Christ Church congregation on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 71st street is up to the foundation walls. It will be 57.4x117 in size, and will cost near $100,000. It will seat 800 persons, and will have steam heat, etc. Charles C. Haight, the architect, says it will be ready in the spring. Robinson & Wallace are the masons and D. Hepburn is the carpenter.

Rutgers Riverside Church on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 73d street is being hurried on with quick strides. The walls are moving up higher each day, and the building will be completed about the end of the year. It will have a stone front, and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. R. H. Robertson is the architect.

The ten houses being built by the Farley Bros. on the south side of 71st street, 125 east of 9th avenue, are roofed in. They are 20x65 each, and will cost $200,000. Thom & Wilson are the architects.

Joseph E. Vandewater's six-story flat on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 75th street is up to the first tier of beams. It will be 100x127 in size, and will contain thirty-six suites of apartments. It will have three elevators, steam heat, etc., and will cost $175,000. Rose & Stone are the architects, and the building is to be ready by about the end of the year.

John P. Ryan is at work on the cellars of his six-story flat on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 75th street. It will be 26.4x96, and will have all the improvements. It is to cost $50,000 or more. F. T. Camp is the architect.

Cornelius W. Luyster's six-story flat on the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 75th street is to be ready by September. It is 25.8x96 in size, and will have an elevator, steam heat, etc., and will cost $65,000. A. B. Ogden & Son are the architects.

Ten four-story stone front dwellings are up to their first and second tiers on the south side of 75th street, 200 feet east of 9th avenue. They are 20x71 and 85 each, and will cost about $220,000. The owner is Jas. T. Hall, the architect G. H. Budlong, and the masons Butler & Mahoney.

Thirteen four-story houses are being built by Dore Lyon on 76th and 77th streets, between the Boulevard and West End avenue. Nine are on the former street and are up to their first tier, and four are on the latter street and are up to their third tier. They will cost about $250,000.

On the northeast corner of West End avenue and 76th street five four-story houses are being built by Dore Lyon. They will cost $135,000.

Michael Brennan's two nine-story hotels on the west side of Central Park West, 25 feet south of 75th street, have not progressed much so far. They will each be 63.9x85 and 90, and will cost $330,000. The cellars are being worked upon at present, and they will hardly be ready before next spring.

The six-story hotel being built by Alva S. Walker on the northwest corner of Central Park West and 81st street is being roofed in. It will be 100x102.2 in size, and will cost $200,000 or more. Theo. E. Thomson is the architect.

Chas. A. Fuller's two seven-story flats are up to their first tier. They cover the west front of 9th avenue, between 81st and 82d streets, and will each be 102x133.11 in size. The estimated cost of these buildings, as filed officially by the architect, E. L. Angell, is $700,000 for the two.

Eight four-story houses have been commenced by Chas. H. Lindsley on the southwest corner of Central Park West and 84th street. They will vary in size from 18 to 22.4x53 to 56 each, and will cost $168,000.

Four four-story residences are up to the second story on the north side of 86th street, 265 feet east of 10th avenue. They are being built for D. Willis James, from plans by J. G. Prague, and will cost $104,000.

On the north side of 86th street, 355 feet east of 10th avenue, five handsome houses are being built by Architect J. G. Prague. They are up to the first tier, and will be 23x56 and extension in size, their cost being estimated at $150,000. They will be ready next spring.

John G. Prague's flat on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 85th street will be ready late in the fall. It will cost $60,000.

The Park Presbyterian Church on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 86th street is to be a one and two-story building, and is up to about the gallery beams. It will cost about $90,000. H. F. Kilburn is the architect.

Wilson & Tichborne's six three-story houses on the north side of 87th street, 325 east of 10th avenue, are up to their first tier. They will cost about $80,000. G. A. Schellenger is the architect.

On the south side of 87th street, 330 east of 9th avenue, C. D. Milliken is building five four-story houses, from plans by J. G. Prague. They will be 20x56 each, and will cost $100,000.

The six four-story houses being built by Thos. A. Spaulding on the north side of 90th street, 100 west of Central Park West, have their cellars about completed. They are designed by Thom & Wilson and will cost $120,000.

Ten houses are being rapidly pushed forward by Eli Martin at Nos. 56 to 74 West 91st street. Seven are to be four stories high and three three-stories high. Five are roofed in and five are up to the fourth story walls. They are from plans by H. L. Harris, and will cost $161,000.

Ten five-story flats of different sizes are being built by James A. Frame on the east side of 9th avenue, between 100th and 101st streets. They are from plans by A. B. Ogden & Son, and are up to their first story. They will cost $208,000.

A seven-story brick and stone front flat has been commenced by Robt. B. Baird on the southwest corner of 10th avenue and 103d street, from plans by E. L. Angell. It is to have an elevator, steam heat, hardwood trim, etc., and will cost about $150,000. In size it will be 108x72.8, and it will have six suites per floor. There will be three stores on the first story. The foundations are now being worked upon, and the building will be ready by next spring.

G. E. Beaudet is building ten five-story flats covering the east side of St. Nicholas avenue, between 118th and 119th streets. The two corners cover the avenue front, while there are four on each street, those on 118th street being 41.8x72 each, and those on 119th street 43.9x72. The corners are of irregular size. They will have steam heat, cabinet trim and all the improvements, and there will be a store in each corner. Their cost is estimated by the architect, R. R. Davis, at $415,000. They are to be ready by November.

Bills Passed Affecting This City.

The list of bills introduced at Albany which have become laws this session, affecting real estate, are quite numerous. The following are the most important:

Legalizing the investment of trust funds by executors, guardians and others in stocks or bonds of any city in this State.

The bill providing for the erection of a municipal building in City Hall Park, and a new Court House.

Providing that the addition to the Metropolitan Museum be completed.

Amending sec. 172 of the Consolidation act, so as to relieve taxpayers from unnecessarily paying moneys into the Sinking Fund.

Appropriating $300,000 for the erection of new menagerie buildings in the Central Park.

Making it obligatory upon owners of tenements, etc., to have at least one water-closet to every fifteen occupants.

Making the exterior street along the East River, from 64th to 86th street, 35 feet less in width than previously legalized, viz.: 115 feet instead of 150.

Providing for $100,000 or less to be spent on a portion of Van Cortlandt Park. This is to be applied for the drill ground, etc.

To erect a monument to John Ericsson in any park or public square, at a cost of $10,000 or less.

For the construction of an exterior street along the East River, from the north side of 49th street to the south side of 53d street, the width to be determined by the Dock Department and the Sinking Fund Commissioners.

Providing an annual expenditure of $2,000,000 for the repavement of our streets, to continue for three years, allowing $6,000,000 altogether, the Commissioner of Public Works to superintend the work, which must be done by contract.

Giving the Board of Street Opening and Improvement power to grant permits for the construction of light bridges across avenues and streets for the safety and comfort of pedestrians, the cost to be incurred by the applicants therefor.

The creation of the block system of indexing real estate transfers in this city.

Granting $200,000 for the completion of Morningside Park.

For the abolition of Bloomingdale Asylum by allowing 116th street to be cut through the institution's grounds. To go into effect January 1, 1892, so as to allow the asylum governors time to build their new place before destroying the present one.

Providing for a free public bathing house to be built at the intersection of Park, Baxter and Worth streets, in "Paradise Park."

Allowing the Dock Department to concentrate the oyster business on the North River water front, between the north side of 10th street and the south side of 11th street, now occupied by the Oyster Dealers' Association.

Five West Side Houses.

The passer-by on the north side of 88th street, a few hundred feet west of the Central Park, cannot fail to notice a group of five stately-looking private residences. They have handsome exteriors, which are of brown stone, with considerable carved work in floral and figure designs. Each house has a box stoop, spacious and well-proportioned, and they are all four stories in height, with a high basement.

The interior of the houses do not belie their exterior. They are trimmed in hardwood on the three main floors and are well-planned throughout. Of the five houses two have the foyer arrangement on the first floor. All have a clean sweep of rooms along the entire floor communicating from front to rear. There are reception, drawing and dining rooms, flanked by a butler's pantry, with a private stairway leading to the culinary department. The entrance to each house is barred by three massive mahogany doors—storm, vestibule and hall—with windows of beveled glass. The halls have handsome mirrors and hat-stands and parqueted floors. The division line between the reception and drawing rooms is marked by a transom prettily worked out in special design, while the dining-rooms have inlaid floors and a handsome bouffé.

The second floor is ascended by a stairway in carved mahogany, leading to the front and rear bedrooms on that floor, which are spacious and well-appointed. They are laid out en salon. The saloons are larger than usual, and one finds oneself surrounded on all sides by mirrors, with a profusion of closets and an attractive marble toilet-stand. The bathroom, which is in the second story of the extension, has a cosy and rich appearance, and has a porcelain tub and a French bowl. The third floor is planned somewhat similarly to the second, and also has a saloon floor and a bathroom. Every room thus far described has a handsome mantel, mirror and fire-grate. The first floor is in mahogany, while the second and third floors are in oak. The fourth floor has four bed chambers, a storage room, etc., and is surmounted by a colored glass skylight which lights the hallways down to the first floor. The front basement rooms are so planned that they can be used for dining, if necessary. The "Defiance" range, porcelain washtubs and other necessities complete the domestic arrangements on this floor.

Glancing at the exterior once more one feels that the houses are certainly 25 feet wide, whereas they are but 20. This effect is due to the design, which is from drawings by Thom & Wilson. The buildings have only recently been completed by the owners, Messrs. Ryan & Rawnsley, and they are certainly five of the best constructed of their class on the west side.

OBSERVER.

Our Streets.

The meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, on Thursday, looked to those present as though, on the surface, nothing was done but talking, hearing reports and passing resolutions. Commissioner Gilroy read an exhaustive report on the necessity of certain streets being repaved stating how much it would cost to do the work and how it should be done, and the representatives of the Chamber of Commerce submitted an equally voluminous report suggesting what kind of pavement should be used and how the city should act in the matter.

Two points were made clear, and they were brought out both by Commissioner Gilroy and the Mayor. The city would largely waste the $6,000,000 at its disposal during the next three years if it went to work to repave the streets, in face of the bill just signed by Governor Hill to allow the street car companies to use cable or other power. In the opinion of the Mayor and Commissioner the street companies will all, or nearly all, avail themselves of the law and change their motive power. If the city should spend millions on repaving the streets they would be torn up again by the horse car companies, and the money would largely be wasted.

Another point brought out was that owners of rights in water front properties have failed in nearly every instance to keep in repair the lands, which their grant stipulated should be a condition sine qua non. South and West streets, which come under the list of streets badly requiring to be repaved, are flagrant instances of this neglect. The city will probably make an arrangement whereby the grantees will pay for a first-class repavement once for all and then be absolved from all future maintenance of the streets, which will then be taken full charge of by the city.

The outcome of Thursday's meeting was that Commissioner Gilroy has been ordered to communicate with all the street car companies in this city, asking whether they intend laying down lines for cable or other motor power. This will enable the board to ascertain to what extent they will be justified in letting out contracts for the work of repaving. In any event Wall street is likely to be repaved, as well as other streets where horse cars do not run.

Commissioner Gilroy, in his report, made the statement that there are gas and steam pipes or electrical subways in nearly every street of the city, and that it will be impossible to keep the streets in proper condition while they are torn up continually by the different companies. Some plan would be necessary to overcome this evil. No permit should be granted to open streets unless a full guarantee is given that they will be placed in proper condition again after the work is finished.

A resolution was passed in which the Railroad Commissioners, at the suggestion of the Mayor, were asked not to grant a permit to any of the street car companies to change their motor power unless they agree to lay the groove rail, so that the streets shall not be ruined in future by the grossly antiquated rails now used, which are so ruinous to driving in New York City. The Commissioners have been trying for three sessions to get such a measure through the Legislature, but the railroad companies have combined to defeat it. The new law now gives them, in an indirect way, the power that they have been longing for, and the Mayor thinks they should not be slow to use it.

The streets principally requiring to be repaved, says Commissioner Gilroy, are: Broadway, from Beaver to 34th street; Bowery, from Chatham square to the junction of 3d and 4th avenues; Canal street, from West street to Broadway; Broad street, from Wall to Pearl; Park row, from Broadway to Chatham square; State street, from Bowling Green to Bridge street, and 8th avenue, from Hudson to 13th street.

The question will be taken up again at the board's next meeting.

The section of the Tenement House act of 1887, which amends section 65 of the laws of 1882, chapter 410, gives the plumbing requirements of the act in the following words: "Every tenement and lodging house or building shall be provided with as many good and sufficient water closets, improved privy sinks or other similar receptacles as the Board of Health shall require, but in no case shall there be less than one for every fifteen occupants in lodging houses, and not less than one for every two families in dwelling houses." * * * There is nothing about filing of plans and doing work under such approved plans, and that is where the question comes in. There does not seem to be any authority for exacting the filing of plans for reconstructed dwellings, and we should not be surprised to hear of an organized opposition among the owners and architects on this head.

Important to Property-Holders.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS.

No. 27 CHAMBERS STREET,
NEW YORK, June 19, 1889.

Notice is given to the owner or owners of all houses and lots affected thereby, that the following assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors for examination by all parties interested, who must present their objections in writing, if opposed to the same, within thirty days from date of notice:

SEWERS.

West st, bet Murray and Jay sts, connecting with sewer constructed by the Department of Docks through Pier 21, with alterations and improvements to existing sewers in Murray, Warren, Chambers, Duane and Jay sts.

[The limits embraced by said assessments include all the houses and lots situated as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of Murray and West sts, thence along and including both sides of Murray st to Broadway, thence along Broadway and including a part of City Hall Park to Worth st, thence along Worth st to Hudson st, thence along Hudson st to Franklin street, thence diagonally to the intersection of Jay and West sts, thence along West st to the place of beginning.]

The above described list will be transmitted for confirmation on the 20th day of July, 1889.

The bill of costs, etc., incurred by reason of proceedings in the matter of opening 138th street, from 8th to Edgecombe avenue, will be presented for taxation to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court on June 24th. The bill of costs in the matter of acquiring title to East 151st street, from Railroad avenue East to 3d avenue, will also be presented for taxation on the same date. The bills are now on file at the Department of Public Works.

Real Estate Department.

The week has been a dull one, both on 'Change and in the brokers' offices. The trading feature, which has for some time been characteristic of the market, especially for new west side properties, has not been absent for the past week or two, some exchanges of considerable value having taken place. The tables of conveyances and mortgages continue to keep abreast of last year, and are in excess this week of what they were in the corresponding period in 1888, while the projected buildings are larger in number and nearly 50 per cent. greater in cost.

The offerings on Monday were few and unimportant and the attendance small. Only three parcels of city realty were disposed of—all under foreclosure—and the total amount realized was $27,800. A few lots at Long Branch belonging to the Ransom estate brought low prices.

There was a good attendance at the Exchange on Tuesday. The sales were fairly numerous, although with one exception unimportant. Quite a crowd, including several building loan operators gathered around Auctioneer Harnett's stand to watch the sale of the easterly front on 8th avenue, between 133d and 134th streets, comprising eight lots. The upper half, or 134th street corner, was offered first, and starting at $30,000 was advanced until $54,500 was reached, at which figure it was knocked down to Jos. H. White. For the other four lots $35,000 was the first bid and $54,250 the last, and the purchaser announced as Thos. C. Higgins. Brokers who ought to know say the front will not change hands, as the lots were secured on behalf of the sellers. A plot of eleven lots on Union avenue and Home street, 23d Ward, was not offered, having been previously disposed of at private sale to George Bell at $6,000. A three-story house, with plot 56x140, known as Nos. 1076 and 1078 Broad street, Newark, N. J., was sold to James Burns at $16,000.

Quite an audience was in attendance on 'Change Wednesday. The sales were few and quite unimportant, and four parcels were sold for a total of $47,775.

The most important sale held on Thursday was the Pythagoras Hall property, at Nos. 134 and 136 Canal street. It will be remembered that this parcel was offered at auction under foreclosure last month and knocked down at $50,000. The buyer left the Exchange to get a check for the 10 per cent. of the purchase money, and the Referee ordered a resale thinking the bidder did not intend to complete his purchase. On the resale Newman Cowen and L. Z. Bach became the purchasers at $40,500. The defendants in the foreclosure proceedings brought the matter before Judge Barrett and he decided that a clear case of gross mistake and gross inadequacy had been made out, and ordered a resale of the property. The first bid offered on Thursday was $48,000, and after spirited competition $57,450 was reached and the property sold to Isaac Blumberg and David Cohen. There is about $37,000 due on the mortgage foreclosed. In December, 1886, the New York Protective Association paid $70,000 for the property. Among other sales were four dwellings on Convent avenue and three tenements on East 61st street, all of which were secured by the plaintiffs. Several parcels of property in Rahway and Houtenville, N. J., belonging to the estate of George P. Gordon, were sold for a total of $13,845. Two pieces, it is believed, were bid in.

On Saturday last Messrs. H. C. Mapes & Co. sold twenty-four lots at Unionport, Westchester County, at prices varying from $175 to $353 per lot. A portion of this property, which brought $2,192, was sold about a year ago for $1,645.

On Wednesday the same auctioneer sold, in partition, a portion of the Sackett estate, comprising eighty-five lots at Westchester, adjoining the New York Jockey Club property. The prices obtained were far better than anticipated, bringing for the whole plot, which contains about seven acres, $27,793, or an average of about $3,970 per acre.

On Wednesday, June 26th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer eleven lots belonging to the estate of the late Judge Henry Alker, seven of which are on the southwest corner of the Grand Boulevard and 97th street and five opposite on 97th street, adjoining the northwest corner of the Boulevard. Seventy per cent. will be allowed to remain at 4 per cent.—an unusual inducement. On the same day Mr. Harnett will offer the four-story dwelling at No. 327 West 22d street and the four-story and basement brick front and rear tenements at No. 337 West 41st street, 32.2 front, by order of the executors of the late Sarah Donnelly; a fine country seat at Croton Falls, N. Y., with 100 acres of ground, a modern house, etc., on the Harlem Road, known as the "Davis Place;" and the modern villa, with carriage house, stables, greenhouse, etc., at Far Rockaway, L. I., on high ground near the ocean.

On Thursday, June 27th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer, by order of the executors of the late Leander Garey, the dwellings, barn, etc., on a plot containing over seven city lots on Washington and Vanderbilt avenues, about 200 feet north of 170th street.

On Thursday, June 27th, Smyth & Ryan will sell, by order of executors, No. 342 East 16th street, a four-story brick single flat; Nos. 459 and 461 West 27th street, a two-story brick dwelling and a five-story brick tenement on a plot 50x98.9, and No. 163 Chrystie street, a lot, 25x146, with a dwelling, store, concert hall and factory.

Out Among the Builders.

The Young Men's Christian Union (not the Y. M. C. A.) will erect a four-story brick club house on the south side of 138th street, 175 feet east of Lincoln avenue. Chas. B. Lawson, the president of the Union, says that it is the intention of the society to cover the entire plot, 50x100, with a building, containing a gymnasium, swimming baths, bowling alley, lecture, reading and class rooms, and a hall about 50x80 in size. No unnecessary money will be spent on the exterior of the building, but the interior will have everything of the best that will in any way add to the comfort or enjoyment of the members.

Frank E. Smith is about to make a handsome improvement by covering the west side of 7th avenue, between 128th and 129th streets. The two corners will be 20x71 each and extension and the four inside houses 40x65 each. The plans are being prepared by J. A. Webster and E. H. Hammond.

Martin J. Barron will build four five-story improved tenements and stores on the southwest corner of West End avenue and 68th street. The corner will be 25.5x96 and the others 25x89 each. They will have light brick and stone fronts and will cost about $85,000. Geo. F. Pelham will be the architect.

F. T. Camp is the architect for the fifty-six tenements to be built by S. F. Bailey on 63d and 64th streets and 11th avenue, to which reference was made in these columns last week. They will be 25x82 each, and five stories high.

McKim, Mead & White are the architects for the new building to be erected for the Century Association on four lots on the north side of 43d street, 125 feet west of 5th avenue.

Michael Brennan intends to build a five-story flat and store on 9th avenue, between 73d and 74th streets, from plans by Oscar Tolhurst.

John Nesbit is about to improve a plot of six lots on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 85th street, probably by the erection of flats.

We are informed that Fred. Braender will build on the four lots situated on the southeast corner of 4th avenue and 95th street.

George M. Walgrove has finished plans for R. Mapelsden for the alteration of a double house on the north side of 164th street, east of Morris avenue, into two single houses, 20x40 each. They will be fitted with all modern improvements. The cost has not been estimated.

Andrew Spence has plans on the board for two five story brick and stone front flats to be erected on the north side of 116th street, 100 feet west of Pleasant avenue, for Bridget wife of Patrick Hogan, at a cost of $17,000 each.

M. Greenberg a five-story brick workshop, 25.6 in the front, 26.2 in the rear, by 35, at No. 91 Henry street, at a cost of $6,000.

Wm. H. Boylan has plans on the boards for four apartment houses with all modern improvements to be erected by Dr. James Good on the north side of 140th street, 100 feet east of Edgecombe avenue. These buildings are to be 25 feet front, five stories high, and are to accommodate two families on each floor. Cost $18,000 each.

C. W. Luyster states the nine dwellings he has commenced to build on 72d street, opposite Riverside Drive, will cost $250,000, not $150,000 as erroneously reported last week.

John Barron has purchased two lots on the west side of West End avenue, 25 feet south of 70th street, which he intends to improve very shortly.

Herter Bros. are preparing plans for a five-story and basement flat, which they will erect at No. 85 Madison street. The size will be 25x89, and the material yellow brick, buff terra cotta and granite in first story, and Dorchester stone above. There will be fifteen rooms on each floor, with bath and all improvements. The same firm will build a six-story flat, with stores, at No. 484 Pearl street, instead of a factory as previously reported. It will contain sixteen rooms on each floor. The stairs will be of iron. Herter Bros. also have plans for a six-story flat, with iron stairs, etc., to be erected by Morris Herrman on Hoboken or Canal street, 80 feet east of West street; size, 80x49.

Contractors' Notes.

Proposals will be received by the School Trustees for the 17th Ward, at the Hall of the Board of Education, No. 146 Grand street, until 10 o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, June 26, for making sanitary alterations, etc., at Grammar School No. 25; by the School Trustees of the 24th Ward, until 9.30 o'clock A. M. on Monday, July 1, for making general repairs at Grammar School No. 65 and Primary School No. 45; by the School Trustees of the 11th Ward until 10.30 A. M. on the same date, for making sanitary alterations, etc., at Grammar School No. 22 and Primary School No. 31; by the School Trustees of the 20th Ward until 2 o'clock P. M. on the same date, for making sanitary alterations, etc., at Grammar Schools Nos. 26 and 48, also for making general repairs at Grammar Schools Nos. 26, 32, 33 and 48, and Primary School No. 27; and by the School Trustees of the 19th Ward, until 3 o'clock P M. on the same date, for making sanitary alterations, etc., at Grammar Schools Nos. 18, 59, 76 and 77, also for making general repairs at Grammar Schools Nos. 18, 53, 59, 73, 74, 76 and 82.

Bids will be received by the Commissioner of Public Works until Tuesday, June 25, at 12 o'clock M., for regulating and grading 131st street from Boulevard to 12th avenue, and 147th street from the Boulevard westerly a distance of 500 feet, and setting curbstones and flagging sidewalks therein.

Sealed proposals for furnishing the materials and labor and doing the work required for constructing and erecting a building on the north side of West 99th street, between 9th and 10th avenues, for a hospital and training stable for this department; for furnishing the materials and labor and doing the work required for erecting a building for an engine company, on the south side of 113th street, 60 feet west of 10th avenue, and a building for a Hook and Ladder Company at No. 432 West 36th street, will be received by the Board of Commissioners, at the head of the Fire Department, No. 157 East 67th street, until 10 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, July 3.

The Department of Public Works will receive bids until Friday, July 12, at 12 o'clock M., for building a storage reservoir on the Muscoot branch of the Croton River, in the town of Somers, Westchester County, near Amawalk.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

From advance sheets furnished by David T. Day, Chief of Division of Mining Statistics and Technology, U. S. Geological Survey, we are enabled to obtain a summary of production in the United States during 1888 of the articles named as follows:

BUILDING STONE.—Direct returns from producers of the various kinds of building stone show that there was but a small gain in value over the figures of 1887. The value of the stone produced in 1888 is $25,500,000, or $500,000 more than in the preceding year.

BRICK AND TILE.—Value, $48,213,000. This figure represents only a small gain over 1887. This is due rather to increase in the number of manufacturing plants than to increased production at the older and more important sources of supply; in fact, many of the latter show a falling off in production. Prices, also, were generally somewhat lower than in 1887.

LIME.—The production is estimated at 49,087,000 barrels, with an average value of 50 cents per barrel, making a total of $24,543,500 as the value of the year's product. These figures are not largely in advance of those for 1887, and the gains are not so much the results of increased production in the leading lime regions as in localities of minor importance.

CEMENT.—The amount of cement produced in 1888 is less than for 1887, being 6,253,295 barrels for 1888, valued at 72½ cents per barrel, making 84,533,639 as the value of the year's product.

GYPSUM.—The domestic supply comes principally from Ohio and Michigan, with smaller amounts from New York, Virginia, Kansas, Colorado, California, Dakota and Utah. The product in 1888 was 96,000 short tons of crude gypsum, valued at $430,000. A large portion of the supply is imported from Nova Scotia, where 126,118 tons, worth $121,579, were produced in 1888.

ASPHALTUM.—The product of 1888 includes 700 tons of gilsonite mined in Utah; 3,100 tons of ordinary asphaltum, principally from California, and 50,000 tons of bituminous rock quarried in California for pavements in competition with asphaltum; total value, $331,500.

POTTERS' CLAY.—The consumption included 18,000 long tons of kaolin or china clay, 5,250 tons of ball clay, and 13,500 tons of fire clay, worth altogether $300,000.

MINERAL PAINTS.—The product, including ocher, metallic paints, and small amounts of umber and sienna, increased to 24,000 long tons, valued at $380,000.

BRICKS.—The gain in tone on Common Hards, noted in our last, has been continuous, and while further additions to value are not extensive sellers have managed to retain the advantage without much of an effort. At the present writing the general top rate is $6.25 per M, and the majority of receivers claim no more, but we have reports that indicate 12½@25c. higher on exceptionally good lots, and as representing an asking basis at least the fuller figures may possibly be quoted for fancies. The upward turn is rather the most decided on the best quality of stock, though all grades secure a reflected influence to a greater or less extent, and just at the moment the market as a whole seems to be in reasonably healthy condition. As now ruling values have hardly crept back to the line at which manufacturers say they can can work with profit, especially those who produce the better qualities, and having demonstrated that they would not continue shipments at a loss, they have convinced buyers that it is necessary to be on hand daily and compete for stock arriving in order to be fortified against regular wants, the demand really slightly exceeding the offering at times and leading to the engagement of cargoes to arrive. Upon the length of time those conditions can be preserved depends the advantage to sellers. Consumption is unquestionably growing now that new work has become fairly and generally started, but this fact and the enhancement of values is an incentive to production that must be considered, and it will require some little time to determine how the latter feature develope. At most of the yards along the entire river work is understood to have kept right along, except when interrupted by unfavorable weather, though not as quick and pushing as thought likely to follow the current hardening of value. Sales have again found a good, general demand, and about everything at all up in quality commanded full former rates.

LATH.—There is not much new on this market, unless it be that receivers have managed to verify their predictions of a steady market, the price remaining about the same as at the date of our last, or say $2.15 per M. Arrivals were somewhat larger, but a great many had been previously placed under contract, and the parcels remaining for sale found fair custom with buyers making no objection to cost. Consumption is now rather fuller and dealers work into their stocks more rapidly, compelling renewals in proportion.

LIME.—Of Eastern stock the arrivals have been larger and come in a little bunchy. They were, however, taken care of with reasonable promptness, showing that during the interval of scant offerings dealers had distributed with some freedom and found it necessary to restock. Prices, of course, are reported as unchanged. St John grades have also found ready custom, and receivers of the State product report their full proportionate share of patronage.

LUMBER.—There is no sharp fluctuations on the general distributive market at this point. In view of the change in methods during the past few years through which mill agents now sell direct to a great deal of custom at outpoints formerly making this city a place for filling orders, the trade is more thoroughly local, and possibly the export outlet is the largest beyond the limits of the metropolis, its sister cities and the natural suburbs. Such a boundary line, however, encompasses a vast consumption even when dealers call business only fairly active, and latterly the movement has been rather on the gain. In the meanwhile the inquiry from dealers keeps up fairly. There is the same tendency to caution noticeable throughout the season, but still backed by a degree of shrewdness that recognizes natural influences, and these have of late quickened the call for some of the leading grades, most decided on hemlock. According to the Argus, pine receipts are particularly heavy at Albany and for this kind of lumber in the coarser grades there is a good demand and an active trade. Of the sizes that are having a very free movement may be mentioned shippers, 1x12 inch; inch common siding and inch and 1¼ inch box, also 1x10 inch boards. Prices are firm, except for uppers which are easier and some shading is necessary at times to effect sales. Receipts of spruce and hemlock are normal. Hemlock takes the lead as far as business is concerned, while the receipts of hemlock boards are not full and the supplies of spruce in seconds and thirds is not filling up. Good spruce is accumulating somewhat. Values on both spruce and hemlock are firm, Eastern Spruce does not seem to develop any really new features. Receivers are claiming very positive advantage on large stuff either in random or special, and some insist that it will be impossible to turn out enough to produce any setback on value. They do admit, however, that the chances are rather against much further gain, unless the consumption expands beyond present expectations. Short and narow stuff may be considered as somewhat uncertain, depending greatly upon the volume of supplies. There is a great deal of territory around about where it can be used independent of city demand proper and if the market is fed slowly the chances are favorable, but buyers know their advantage the moment receipts bunch up and generally manage to work such occasions for all they are worth.

Piling is handled in much the same manner for some time noted. Now and then a cargo comes in to parties who, rather than bother with it, will sell comparatively low, but most regular receivers, while willing to accept former rates, refuse to name concessions and put their parcels into stock if buyers stand off.

Hemlock seems to have quite as strong a backing as any lumber in the market, and all reports are cheerful and promising through influences already well known, for even allowing for the extravagant exaggerations that have in some quarters found their way into print, the loss of the Pennsylvania product, as well as the facilities for replacing it, is a factor which must be felt during the balance of the present season at least. Buyers in this locality object to paying in advance, and we cannot hear that they have done so, but manufacturers have other markets at the moment and feel indifferent accordingly.

White Pine is commented upon in somewhat contradictory form, a portion of the suggestions having a tendency to convey an impression that demand is becoming more general and anxious, and others contending that there is no substantial gain to the market. There is, however, no doubt that a larger amount of stock has really been placed this month than for any similar period since the season opened and the claim for a gain in the movement is all right, but it is quite unlikely any actual increase in cost took place, as competition to secure trade has been too general for sellers to make any determined effort at buoyancy.

Yellow Pine remains in a somewhat uncertain condition, but probably makes no real gain. Special and difficult cuts, sharp delivery and other extra influences make a difference in cost, of course, but over the usual run of order the indications are that in one way or another buyers secure favors and the wire-edge ruling during the early portion of the season is off. Some reports say it is because the combinations do not work smoothly, and others insist that small mills are continually coming to the front in competition for the current trade.

Carolina Pine retains a satisfactory market. Sellers have not sought an advance in the line of value, but they have adhered to the determination to keep up in full standard of quality and to carefully adjust their products to the wants of the market, and this has preserved the confidence of buyers and a good steady run of business, local and out of town.

Hardwoods show much the former features, demand running quite irregular, and reports conflicting as usual regarding the amount of business consummated from time to time. Dependent or out of town custom, however, draws a fair quantity of stock, and many dealers retain hope of something in the way of improvement before a great while. Poplar is a bone of contention, with flat contradictions as to price, but those operators who talk bearish do not seem to have much stock. Ash is still pretty good stock to sell, provided any ordinary care has been taken in preparing it for market. Especially is 16-foot stock in favor. Cherry is slow because it costs too much, and Black Walnut does not increase in favor. Quarter-sawed Oak finds fair outlet.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The slight evidences of an increasing distributive demand at the leading wholesale markets noticed last week were evidently not a mere spasm of trade. Reports from the principal centres this week are to the effect that there has lately been a considerable rise in the shipping requirement.

It is true that trade has nowhere advanced to a stage of real activity, but it has shown such symptoms of returning life as to be somewhat encouraging to the dealers. In the white pine trade of the West there is, however, a degree of stagnation the effect of which can only be overcome by several weeks of brisk trade. Dealers in the wholesale markets are holding stocks that they intended to have sold early in the spring.

These tardy accumulations will have to be worked down low enough to admit of a liberal putting in of supplies before the trade condition will have so far improved that its effect will be felt at producing points, where it is anxiously looked for.

The Eastern buyers, however, appeared to take a more cheerful and confident view of the situation. They flocked Westward, bought numerous blocks on Green bay, some at Manistee and Muskegon, and considerable on Lake Superior. In taking this course they, in a measure, passed by Saginaw valley, so that holders of lumber there are about as dissatisfied as are the manufacturers on Lake Michigan.

The situation in the white pine producing district is, therefore, a little mixed and peculiar. There has been a good deal of selling for Eastern shipment, but all around the lakes is felt a lack of appetite in Chicago, the great stomach that usually takes in all the stuff, good bad and indifferent, that no other market wants.

But the profit that the manufacturers had counted on when they put in their logs has been partly lost, nor can it be wholly regained this season. The market will not take a fresh start but by concessions in prices. After the buying movement has acquired headway there may be an upward turn, but it will come so late in the season that something will surely be lost—has been already. But that is the fortune of business, and the manufacturers will have to submit for a time, depending on a change of tide in the future to regain their ground.

By the cargo on the Chicago market:

Short piece stuff is still selling for $9.75, but is not particularly strong at that price. A cargo was sold this week for $10, but it was shaped up to suit the customer. A cargo of Lake Huron long stuff, all Norway, changed hands at $11. The same cargo would have sold last year at $12 to $12.50. The market for long joists is especially off; the yard dealers do not want it, averring that they are now loaded up with it. Yet there must be a large amount going into consumption in local building operations.

Dry inch lumber sells fairly, but there is little call for green. A cargo that ran well to strips was sold this week at $13, which was alleged to be only straight common. This price was considered 50 cents higher than such lumber is generally selling for. Probably $12 is all the ordinary Muskegon No. 2 would bring. The inch lumber market, as a whole, is pronounced heavy.

The majority of the lumber now arriving is from the east shore of Lake Michigan. Much of that on the Menominee and north shore, not controlled by some of the yards here, has been sold to go East. About 7,000,000 feet, it has been reported, was lately sold at Muskegon to Eastern parties, and a good deal at Manistee has thus been disposed of.

At the yards prices have sagged during the past six weeks until but a thin margin is left between cargo and yard prices. The disposition is to cut when that will secure a sale. In the local trade especially competition is sharp, and trade pronounced unprofitable, though there is a good deal of it.

The report of stock on hand June 1 in the pine yards, just issued by the secretary of the Exchange, shows 436,777,758 feet of lumber and 270,088,280 shingles, or an excess of 66,396,443 feet of lumber and 28,284,000 shingles over the amounts on hand May 1. This exhibit shows a larger amount of lumber in pile on June 1 than was ever before known to be in the yards of this city on the date named. It also appears that there was 132,000,000 feet more of lumber in yard this year on June 1 than at a like date in 1888, with a comparative increase of 156,787,000 shingles.

There has been an excess of receipts this year as compared to receipts last year of 71,392,000 feet of lumber and 57,271,000 shingles, and an excess of sales and shipments of 7,782,258 feet of lumber and 117,252,845 shingles.

The Timberman says:

At a number of Wisconsin streams water has been secured in abundance, whereas at some points the rivers have not swelled to such proportions as to serve for moving logs to any great extent, and several big jams of logs have piled up in various localities to further retard their progress toward the mills.

In Michigan, as our advices elsewhere report, the streams are in fairly good condition for moving logs, and even those who were most positive of an ultimate heavy "hang-up" find that they will get some logs, although they are not convinced that there will not be a considerable shortage. The distributing trade from Michigan has had a better demand this week than for some time.

The wholesale hardwood dealers of Chicago are not rushed with business. Although the month is half gone, lumber has not begun to go into consumption at a rate of speed which will make the aggregate sales compare with the same time in other years. The wet weather here and at shipping points all over the Northwest has interfered with the loading and unloading of dry lumber for nearly two weeks.

A little bit of all kinds of hardwood lumber is being shipped to this market at present, and a considerable amount of the stock received is not needed. Stocks in the hands of the wholesalers are adequate to all the wants of the trade. For instance, the receipts of red oak have been so heavy that the price of this lumber on this market has softened considerably. There is a fair demand for white oak, but the market is pretty comfortably full of firsts and seconds. The better grades of cherry are in good demand and very scarce. There is practically no sale for the lower grades. The demand for all cheap lumber is still good, as very few dealers are making a specialty of handling the cheap stock, such as elm, ash, birch and basswood, and the present demand for it does not materially help the entire trade. Of the cheaper woods perhaps elm will make a very good second as compared with basswood. Inch log run elm is worth from $12 to $13 per M f. o. b. Chicago, in cargo lots. Ash is being shipped here principally in cargo lots and is worth from $15 to $16 per M log run. There continues to be a steady demand for maple flooring, particularly the "bored" article, which is executed under the protection of a patent. The supply of maple is fair, with operations in the woods progressing as is customary at this time of year. An experienced woodsman is authority for the statement that a destructive enemy has attacked the maple in Northern Michigan, and he claims that much of the wood must be cut at an early date to save it. The enemy of the maple tree referred to is a small worm which destroys the leaves and kills the trees.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

There was a falling off in general lumber traffic at this point last week, though the actual shipments from Minneapolis were larger by a million and a-half feet than the week before. The lumber shipped to and through St. Paul from Wisconsin has suffered a slight decrease in amount ever since the first of the month. The cause for this is not apparent as yet. Perhaps it is only a temporary fluctuation, and it may be owing to a slackening up in the local demand in St. Paul, which is not very brisk. The Minneapolis shippers have nothing to complain of. Their business is holding up remarkably well. Sales thus far this month warrant the prediction that the total up to July 1st will be larger than that for either of the two years preceding. The returns this week show the shipments to be less somewhat than for the corresponding week of 1888, but the difference is not alarmingly large.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trades Journal furnishes the following:

LONDON.

American Walnut Lumber.—The large sale that was held without reserve last week brought together a good many buyers, but still not so large a number as we should have expected; the prices realized were, in many instances, low, but there has been such a superabundance of this low-priced wood on the market that buyers are reluctant to stock themselves at all heavily, but there can be no doubt that the prices realized will not leave a profit to the shippers.

American Whitewood.—The boards sold without reserve at the recent auction were a poor lot and brought their full value; so far as planks were concerned they appeared to us to sell extremely well, as there was good competition throughout.

American Quartered Oak.—Of this wood a large quantity was cleared up without reserve last week, but, generally, it was of rather poor character, as, although quartered, it seemed to contain but little figure, which is, of course, a most important element in the value of this wood. Prices were low, but this large clearance will no doubt bring the wood more into consumption, and the growing favor with which it is received should increase. Whatever may have been the result to the shippers, there can be no doubt that the buyers in many cases have secured cheap lots.

By auction at Glasgow as follows:

111 logs U. S. black walnut, 16 in. avg. sq., 2,216 cubic feet, at 3s. 6d. to 5s., avg. 3s. 10d. per cubic foot. 8 logs U. S. canary whitewood, 22 in. avg. sq., at 2s. per cubic foot. 4 logs U. S. canary whitewood, 16½ in. avg. sq., at 1s. 10d. per cubic foot. 21 U. S. white oak planks, at 1s. 7d. to 2s. 0½d. per cubic foot. Coffin oak planks at 2s. 3d. and 2s. 4d. per cubic foot.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has not shown many features of particulatly noteworthy character since our last report. The day for speculation and big deals appears to have past, and the movement of supplies is principally confined to small lots as wanted by regular consuming outlets. Some of the trade are talking about the probabilities of lower rates next month, but no one appears to have any positive knowledge on the subject. We quote at 12c. for Lake, and 10¾@11¼c. for casting brands. Manufactured Copper is moderately active and ruling about steady at the regulation line of value according to list. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 33c.; do, under 8 oz, 23@28c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 31c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 23c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 27c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20@25c., for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 26c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 23c.; 4 oz, 25c.; 12 oz, 27c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, ⅝ inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23@26c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig sells along in about the usual way and the market undergoes no changes of a positive character or worthy of special notice. Importers manage to retain just about the former range of prices. We quote at $19.00 @21.50 per ton, according to brand delivered, etc. American Pig is going into the hands of consumers with about the expected freedom on contract deliveries and there is a fair run of new business. The latter, however, is made up principally of small invoices taken on orders gauged to the immediate wants of the moment, and there is little in the way of our buying against the future. We quote at $16.00@17.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $15.00@16.00 for No. 2 X do.; and $14.50@$15.25 for Gray Forge. Old material has secured a little more attention than during the early portion of the month and since our last some very fair sales were made. Of late, however, buyers appear to have become rather careful again and bid less freely. We quote at about $22.00@22.50 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $14.00@16.00 for cast scrap, and $18.00@18.25 for car wheels. Steel rails have found a somewhat irregular demand of late, the previous liberal contracts having satisfied the wants of the most needy buyers. A number of small orders, however, are continually cropping out and manufacturers generally appear very well satisfied with the situation and predict a larger business at no distant day. We quote at $27.50 @27.75 per ton at the mills and $28.00@29.00 do., at tide water. Manufactured Iron meets with a somewhat irregular demand and mainly from ordinary sources, with buyers adhering to the refusal to anticipate their wants. Offerings fair. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@ 2.30c.; Rods, round and square, 2.10@2.20c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@4c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.77½@2.80c. for common Nos. 19@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has been more or less unsettled under speculative influence, but buyers for consumption do not allow themselves to be greatly disturbed, and simply invest from time to time as wants may require. We quote at 3.95@4.05c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4¾c.; pipe, 5⅝c.; sheet, 6½c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has at times shown an inclination to shade off in cost somewhat, owing in a measure to "bear" manipulation, but holders of the supply do not weaken much and abstain from urging their stocks into notice. We quote at about 20⅛ @20¼c. for round lots and 20¼@2 ⅛ for jobbing parcels. Tin plates have found an irregular but on the whole a fair aggregate movement, and with the general stock well in hand a pretty steady sort of tone was preserved. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.45@5.50, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.75 @4.80, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x 28, $13.20@13.25; Worcester, 14x20, $4.62½@4.65; Worcester, 20x28, $9.50@9.55; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20@ 4.30; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.37½@8.50 Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.20; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.25@4.27½; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.32½; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.60@4.65 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.65@ 4.70. Spelter has found fair attention from brass manufacturers and at times went into the hands of galvanizers with some freedom, making on the whole a pretty good business at reasonably full rates. We quote at 4.95@5.05c. for ordinary brands of common.

TAR AND PITCH.—There has been a deal sufficient to satisfy the ordinary wants of the regular trade, but beyond that buyers do not care to extend their investment. Supplies appear to be equal to all calls. We quote Pitch $1.35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@ 2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—The gist of most reports conveys the impression that the general movement of supplies is only moderate Some jobbers claim pretty full orders, but they are the favored ones and represent the exception, as buyers in pretty much all cases are adhering rather closely to the policy of restricting investments to the limits of early natural requirements. There appears to be no great difficulty in retaining control of first hand accumulations, however, and values rule reasonably steady for pretty much all grades. Linseed Oil has fair average consumptive demand, and as stock does not accumulate prices are steady at 58@ 59c. for Western and 60@60½ for City. Spirits Turpentine selling moderately on ordinary trade wants and ruling about steady at 38@39c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

NAILS.—Business of a regular character is taking about the usual amount of stock from store, and now and then a fair export order is booked. Large lines, however, are rarely called for and manufacturers do not find the business particularly satisfactory. Supplies are apparently less plenty. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.90@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

VOL. XLIII. JUNE 29, 1889. No. 1,111

It is safe to say that the market for the past week disagreed pretty nearly with everybody. With the exception of the Trust stocks prices moved only fractionally, so that neither the bulls nor the bears had anything to make merry over. Conservative operators could regard the spasmodic activity of the Trust stocks only with uneasiness, and it is very probable that the manipulators themselves are far from satisfied with the week's work, for the forced advance in price which took place in the sugar certificates could not be retained any more than froth could be retained on a glass of beer with the north wind blowing. The news of the week was not sufficiently depressing to warrant any considerable selling of stocks, yet the bulls cannot be confident of an advance of prices in face of heavy gold exports and the rate troubles out West. The market has, however, and will probably continue to have as long as crop prospects remain good, a strong undertone.

It would be curious if out of the little storm in a tea-cup over the Samoan difficulty the use of English as the language of diplomacy should arise. Hitherto French has been the language for international bickering, lying and polite incivilities; but in the recent negotiations in Berlin it was agreed for the first time in history, by a vote of 6 to 9, that English should be used instead of French. This must have been an immense comfort to our diplomats. The treaty, too, was written in English. Perhaps it is due to this fact that so much was acceded to us in the conference. A man can be so much more pugnacious and insistent in his own language.

The remarkable difference between the amount of the awards made by the commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court and the estimates made by the Board of Education in the matter of the new school sites shows the wonderful elasticity which the word "value" has when applied to real estate. The law regulating the lending of money on real estate by savings banks decrees that the amount loaned on a piece of property shall not exceed 50 per cent. of its "value." But what is meant by "value?" To set up a 50 per cent. barrier to directorial recklessness without defining "value" is like trying to inclose an open space with merely a closed door.

Economists make a distinction between value in use and value in exchange. Of course it is only the latter which the law has in mind. Worcester defines the word "the estimated or rated worth or price—cost." But all of these terms are very elastic when applied to real estate. For instance, the property on the northeast corner of Washington and Cortlandt streets, of which we spoke last week, and upon which the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank loaned $182,500, was "estimated" by some of the prominent real estate agents of the city to be worth over $360,000. It was "rated" by the city to be worth $45,000 before the alterations were made to the building the expenditure for which the architect estimates was $25,000, while the "cost" of the property to its owner was probably not more than $175,000. Upon which of these would the law have the "value" based.

It may be said that the "value" of any piece of property is what it would sell for. Putting aside the difficulty of determining this, the question remains: Does the selling price represent the value? For instance, what was the value of the fifty-six lots—the entire block between 63d and 64th streets, 10th and 11th avenues, with the exception of the 10th avenue front—which were sold in April of this year for $300,000, and were resold a few days ago for $500,000. Accepting one set of figures a savings bank could lend only $150,000, while accepting the other it might lend $250,000. No. 53 Suffolk street, near Grand street, was sold on June 6th for $13,000, again on the same day for $18,250, and on June 10th, four days later, for $20,000. What is 50 per cent. of the value of that piece of property? Again, taking property of the most staple kind: In February, last year, No. 42 Broad street and No. 38 New street were sold at auction for $102,500. Title did not pass to the buyer until March, 1889, when a mortgage was placed on it for $85,000 at 5 per cent. Yet a few days ago ex-Mayor Wm. H. Wickham contracted to buy the same property for $135,000. And for another illustration there is the case of Pythagoras Hall at Nos. 134 and 136 Canal street, which was sold last week, on the 20th, for $57,450. In December, 1886, the New York Protective Association paid $70,000 for the property. In May last it was sold under foreclosure and fetched $50,000, but the referee thinking the buyer, who had left the Exchange to get a check for the 10 per cent. purchase, did not intend to complete purchase ordered then and there a resale when the property brought only $40,500. Basing "value" upon what a piece of property would sell for, what is the "value" of Pythagoras Hall, $70,000, $50,000, $40,500, or $57,450?

So far nineteen sites have been selected in the city for new school houses. According to the awards of the several commissions they will cost over a million dollars. THE RECORD AND GUIDE showed last week that this sum was considerably too high, and the entire press of the city has joined in denouncing the awards of the commissioners, and now it is reported that the Board of Education has instructed the Corporation Counsel to oppose the confirmation of some of these awards by the Supreme Court. But, apart from the too high price, there is another fact that might be urged as an objection to these sites—the greater number are not in localities where new schools are most needed. Of the 15,000 children which, it is said, are going without education, because the city has not sufficient school accommodation for them, the greater part live north of 59th street, in the newly built-up wards. One would naturally expect to find most of the new school sites in this district. The contrary, however, is the case. Of the nineteen sites selected thirteen are situated south of 59th street, and of these eight are south of 14th street. Yet population is shifting up town, as the election returns show and new building indicates.

In an article elsewhere the delay in opening streets in the 23d and 24th Wards is discussed. From this it appears that it takes from two to six years to open a street properly for public use, owing to the red-tape system which now prevails. In the matter of opening Tremont avenue the commissioners were appointed in the fall of 1884 and that thoroughfare will hardly be open for public use until the fall of 1891. The remedy suggested by a prominent lawyer who has had considerable experience on commissions for opening streets is that streets should be regulated, graded, curbed, guttered and otherwise improved in the very first instance, and the damages and area of assessment settled upon afterwards. At present the tedious and lengthy process usual in these cases is undertaken beforehand, a proceeding which is something like "putting the cart before the horse." We recommend the change to the Mayor, who has taken some interest in this matter recently, and would suggest his consulting with the Corporation Counsel as to measures to change the law on the subject during the next session of the Legislature.

Another case of delay caused by the circumlocution of red-tapism is furnished by the iron viaduct on 155th street, from St. Nicholas place to Macomb's Dam Bridge. This matter was first brought before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in October, 1887. Plans were made for a structure, costing, as estimated, $750,000, and submitted to the board for approval, but up to this day no final decision has been reached. For over eighteen months this matter has been under discussion. Boards and commissioners have met, and "resolved" and "laid over," called for "further information," "instructed," "rejected" and "authorized," yet this necessary improvement is as far off as ever. In answer to an inquiry by ex-Commissioner D. Lowber Smith, the counsel of the corporation said that, legally speaking, the matter is "still under consideration," and the only power he had was to call the attention of the board to the plans they had before them for eighteen months. As announced in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week, property-holders upon Washington Heights called upon the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and then the board finally decided to reject the old plans, and ordered the new Commissioner of Public Works to have others prepared for a viaduct to cost between $300,000 and $400,000. And thus the matter is started de novo.

There is not any doubt in the minds of people competent to judge that asphalt properly laid forms a lasting and economical pavement, possessing advantages on the score of cleanliness and quietness not possessed by any other pavement yet devised. In the repavement of a large part of New York, soon to be commenced, it is acknowledged by the officials in charge of the matter that asphalt should be used much more extensively than hitherto, but doubt is expressed as to the wisdom of putting it in any section where the traffic is heavy. On second thoughts this must seem a queer notion even to those who hold it. The chief value of asphalt as a pavement is that it is noiseless and clean. Wherever it is adopted it is because of these qualities, and obviously those qualities are most needed, are of most value, where traffic is heaviest. An asphalt pavement in Broadway would be of immensely greater value than in a side drive in Central Park. Of course the objection to this is that asphalt, not being so durable as granite blocks, would be a relatively expensive pavement. But so it may be said the electric light is more expensive than gas, yet a large part of the city is lit with the former, and taxpayers do not regard it as bad policy. In these matters the question is not entirely one of cost. Asphalt pavements would add greatly to the habitableness of the city, and the city is rich enough quite to stand the slight extra expense in return for the much extra comfort. It should not be forgotten in considering this matter that the wear and tear on asphalt pavement is not likely to be nearly as great as is imagined; for one of the results which will surely come from pavements upon which traction is easy is a decrease in the weight of vehicles. The heavy, cumbersome vehicles in use in New York to-day are directly due to the wretched condition of our streets. The probabilities are if our thoroughfares were all asphalted to-morrow, within two or three years the average weight of vehicles would be reduced at least one quarter.

Whether or not the Alton Railroad Company cancels its withdrawal from the Interstate Railway Association, the controversy that lay at the bottom of the withdrawal may well raise grave doubts as to the permanency of that organization. Its very necessity renders its existence perilous. The deep-rooted rivalry lying at the bottom of the disastrous war of rates, which called the association into being—a rivalry founded on the overbuilding of many of the roads through unproductive districts—must still exist. A forced organization simply shrouds the fire with smoke. After giving due notice any one of the railways can withdraw from the compact, and excuse for such withdrawals will surely arise. Can they be prevented? If at all, in two ways only. Time might affect a cure by doing away with the disease. Ultimately, of course, the country will provide enough business for all of them. The problem, however, is a pressing one; and means will have to be taken in case the organization shows signs of disintegration to force the companies into a union protected from collapse by placing each road under heavy bonds to keep the compact. It would be difficult, probably quite impossible to do this, unless the roads had some guarantee that in case there was any dispute each should be dealt with fairly. Why should not the Interstate Commerce Commissioners constitute a board of ultimate appeal? Whether this happens or not, the organization, as long as the present differences exist, will have to be held together by bonds less easily broken than those now in force.

It is not improbable that the first step toward making public the advantages of New York as a site for an Exposition in 1892 will be made by an organization composed of a number of the most wealthy men of the city, which, we learn, has been formed lately to protect the great system of parks which has been acquired in the upper wards after so long a struggle. It is easy to see that an Exposition would not only go a long way towards popularizing the parks but would immensely advantage all real estate in the vicinity. The only suitable sites in the city for a great world's fair are these new parks, and the knowledge that a decision had been made to build there would at once stimulate improvements of every kind, while the flocking of hundreds of thousands of people from the four quarters of the globe would be an advertisement for the district quite beyond price. Van Courtlandt Park is spoken of as the most suitable of the parks, but the selection must be due either to misconception of what is needed for a site for an Exposition or to ignorance of the nature of the land in this park. It is mostly hill and valley—a configuration very unsuitable for large buildings, which with their surroundings would require two or three hundred acres. Of all the parks Pelham Bay Park is unquestionably the best for the purpose. There is ample land there of easy grade, and the fine water approaches would make transportation of building materials and goods for exhibition easy and economical.

A discussion of the desirability of restricting immigration has been begun in England. The evil, if there be an evil, does not exist in anything like the proportions in that country that it does in this, and it is marked by somewhat different characteristics. In 1881 the total number of people of foreign birth resident in England and Wales was but 118,031, that is only one foreigner in some two hundred and twenty. Hence it is not their numbers that create alarm, but their character, and the peculiar way they concentrate in certain localities and trades. In London, Liverpool, Manchester, Leeds and Hull there are 66,155 inhabitants of foreign birth. Moreover they segregate in a single district in one city, and that generally the worst, as for instance, out of a total population in Whitechapel of 71,363, there are 9,660 foreigners, nearly half of whom are Russian Poles. Further, these foreigners press severely upon a few trades only, such as cabinet making, boot and shoe making, and tailoring. Thus the whole force of the attack is directed against particular points, as may be further seen from the fact that while the trouser and the waistcoat trade are chiefly in the hands of foreigners, in the coat trade the English have the monopoly. What makes the situation all the worse is that this foreign population is increasing in numbers thrice as fast proportionally as the native born, and that the least desirable class of this foreign population—the Russians, Poles, Hungarians and Austrians—are increasing nearly seven times as fast proportionally. These facts are considered to constitute a strong prima-facie case for restriction.

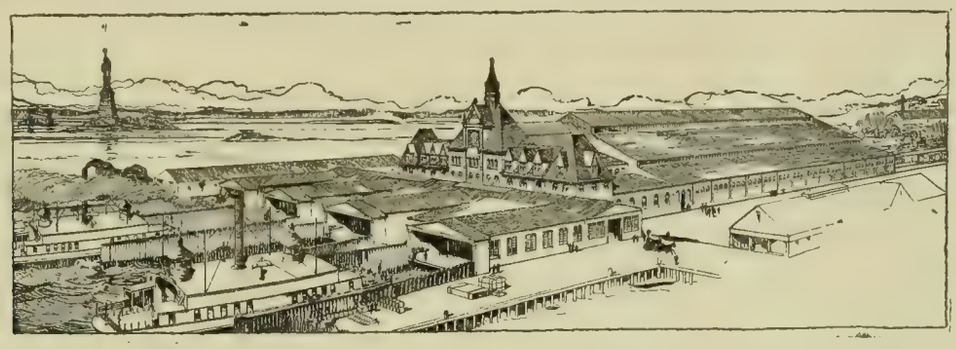
The problem presents itself under a rather different aspect in this country. So far, indeed, as it is an evil, it is an evil for the same reasons that it is an evil in England. Those who favor restriction base their arguments on the undesirability of the immigrants in character, their tendency to concentrate in large cities, and in a certain limited number of trades. It is perfectly obvious that these phenomena exist among us to a certain though not to so great an extent. Right under our eyes we can see plainly enough that the Italian lives near the Italian and the German the German. But the figures which show this are not so very emphatic as those we have given above about England. Suspending for our present purpose all judgment on the controversy as a whole, it would be vain to deny that the process as a whole has been one rather of assimilation than segregation. American society acts like a plane in leveling off differences among the constituent units. It is the negroes only that have distinctly refused to amalgamate. The son of the foreigner is generally more of an American than an alien, a humorous illustration of which may be found in the story of the Italian boy who was seen crying on the streets after he had received a sound trouncing from the hands of his indignant parent. "I didn't mind being licked," the boy tearfully exclaimed; "but it was a blamed foreigner who did it."

Our Street Pavements.

Under a recent statute three million of dollars are to be used during the next three years toward the improvement of street pavements in this city. The shameful condition of our streets in many places certainly warrants the total appropriation, and demands that every cent of this large amount should be expended scrupulously and cautiously. The Commissioner of Public Works show, so far as he has expressed himself in the matter, that he is awake to the requirements of this demand, and is anxious to expend the sum placed at his command in the interest of traffic and the taxpaying public.

The question as to what kind of streets shall be constructed has been much discussed during the last two weeks, and there seems to be a unanimity of opinion among the commissioners, the daily press and the taxpayers, so far as their views have been made public, that the pavements should be differentiated in such a way that in places where the traffic is light, asphalt or a smooth and noiseless pavement should be used, and granite blocks or a heavy pavement where the street is exposed to the hardest wear.

It is hoped that now, having labored several weeks in demonstrating the axiomatic so-called problem that a heavy pavement is best adapted to hardest wear and that a lighter pavement may be used where traffic is not so heavy, that our newspapers will, in the interest of the taxpayers of this city, take up and discuss the real question to be considered in connection with the movement to repave our streets, and one not of so obvious a solution, viz.: How can the constant tearing up of the streets by gas, electric light, street car, etc., companies be prevented?



It obviously makes little difference what kind of material is used in reconstructing our streets if, every time a gas main springs a leak or a new pipe is laid, the pavement sometimes for blocks is ripped up by these monarchs of the street. These companies have the right and, so long as they continue to control these natural monopolies they must hold the right, of tearing up the streets. Single blocks in this city are supplied with light by half-a-dozen private gas and electric light companies which fill the streets with their mains, pipes and wires. The numerous repairs which the multiplication of these private rival lines occasion keep our streets constantly out of order, and often seriously disturb the traffic. During the last year it is estimated that 27,238 openings were made to repair mains, other than Croton water, and make repairs and connections for gas, steam, water, electric lights, etc., in this city. The pavements torn up by these companies are never adequately repaired and our streets have consequently become rough and uneven, and are filled here and there with weak spots over which it is difficult for heavy loads to be drawn. In places where traffic is light a smooth and noiseless pavement is recommended by the commissioners, as has been said. Pavement made of asphalt would undoubtedly answer this requirement, but it is folly to think of constructing a pavement of such material so long as half-a-dozen private companies occupying the street possess the right to break open this pavement whenever and wherever they choose. The street would soon be a piecework of alternate hard and soft patches.

Has the idea never entered the mind of the Commissioner of Public Works, or of our taxpayers, that this constant tearing up of our pavements would be checked by the city assuming control of these street monopolies, viz., gas, electric lights, street car lines, etc. It is clear that if we are to have sound and well-ordered streets, a plan must be devised which will allow the mains, pipes and wires of but one gas, electric light or water system to occupy a given street or district. A plan which empowers a private corporation with the monopoly of furnishing gas, or any like convenience to the consumers of a given district, would not be tolerated for a moment. The only rational plan would be for the city to assume exclusive control itself of such lines. A single line for the supply of such convenience is all then that would be necessary to each street. A great part of the mesh-work of mains, pipes and wires, which now underlie our pavements could be cleared away, and a plan for repairing these single lines, by means of fixed openings in the pavement, could easily be arranged. Municipal control of such works of a public nature as these mentioned is entirely practicable, as the experience of European local authorities and of many cities in this country sufficiently show. It would seem that the consideration of a proposition for the City of New York to assume control of these street monopolies is especially appropriate at the present time.

The Communipaw Station.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has lately built a terminal station at Communipaw, which is not only very extensive, as is shown by the cut, but which is also of a considerable architectural interest, as any single cut would show very imperfectly, since there is no such thing to be had as a general view of the building. A railroad station which is merely such, that is to say, which is not connected with a suite of offices more extensive than is needed for the mere service of the trains, and which consists only of waiting rooms, passages and train sheds, is a difficult problem of design, for a reason precisely opposite to that which makes a main difficulty of modern commercial architecture in general. In the latter case the trouble is apt to be a disproportionate height in proportion to area. In stations, on the other hand, the area is very great in proportion to the height, so that the building or group of buildings, if it be planned with strict and exclusive reference to its practical requirements, is a sprawling and ineffective congeries of sheds. In order to focus it and to give it unity and importance, without which dignity is impossible, it is necessary to supply some dominating feature, and this commonly takes the shape of a tower, to which a clock-face gives a sufficient pretence of utility. This architectural necessity is supplied, in the Communipaw station, by the central feature of the front, and a picturesque and pretty feature it is, which forms an agreeable object almost from the New York side of the North River. What can be seen of it from the ferry-boat is an upper story of three triplets of plain arched openings in good common brick, crowned by a steep four-hipped roof with a crested ridge, crowned at the centre with an open polygonal cupola in metal. At the centre a tall dormer, steeply gabled and pinnacled, and with judicious ornament in sandstone and terra cotta, is relieved against this dark roof and this gable carries a clock-face.

Abreast of the upper story of this central pavilion, and on each side of it, is a range of four plain peaked dormers, and the top of the pavilion with these dormers, constitutes for architectural purposes the front of the station. What is below them is completely masked by the ferry slips and sheds, for the designers of one of these riparian stations has the difficulty, in addition to the difficulties that beset other designers of stations, that he cannot even make a front which can be fairly seen and seen all at once. The detail of the wall, when one arrives at it, is inoffensive and unpretentious, and the same may be said of the long flanking walls of the train shed, but neither is an object of strictly architectural interest.

It is the interiors that are mainly interesting and noteworthy. The mere magnitude of a modern station, with the height to which, for light and air and also for constructional reasons, it is necessary to carry it, make it an impressive object when viewed from the inside. The train-shed of the Communipaw station has cathedral dimensions, and also the germ of a cathedral arrangement in a nave and two aisles. Its total length is something like 480 feet, and its total width 220, divided between a nave of 150 feet and aisles of 35 feet each. The arched iron trusses of the roof spring from iron posts corresponding to the pillars of a church, separating the nave from the aisles and forming longitudinal bays. There are sixteen of these bays, and each is accordingly about 30 feet long. Such an arrangement on such a scale must needs be impressive. It seems, however, in the main, a piece of engineering which is only in a small measure architecturally developed. The riveted posts look workmanlike and straightforward, and so do the longitudinal trusses that sustain the clerestory, a perfectly plain series of openings, and the aisle roofs. The arched trusses that span the nave are very good and expressive taken singly, but the perspective effect is by no means what it might have been if they had been arranged so as to enhance it. There is nowhere, indeed, except at the exact centre, any sense of that lengthening and dwindling vista that exaggerates the apparent length of an architectural interior. The result is that the interior does not look its length, and the construction is in this respect not so effective as the round arches of the Grand Central station, which certainly have the force of repetition. The construction here is entirely different, being of few and large parts, and more resembling an open timber roof, while the length of the bays prevents each truss from carrying on the line of the next, so that the total effect is confused and jumbled. In spite of this the shed is impressive, as has been said, and it is only the trained observer who sees how much more impressive it might have become.

A much more satisfactory and more architectural piece of design —the best in the building, indeed—is the main waiting-room, which gives direct access to the train platforms. It is more than 70 feet wide, and longer, and very lofty. The height is divided, more than half way up the hall, by a continuous gallery carried on iron corbels. The roof is timbered, or rather the ceiling is, in Georgia pine, the roof structure being three metal trusses, with a straight bottom chord. These are powerful and satisfactory features. The ends of the room are carried up to the roof in gable walls of buff glazed brick, with wrought work of Dorchester stone, with which the whole interior is lined. The openings of the lower story, below the balcony, are simple round arches filled with sashes. The upper openings are arcaded between the piers that sustain the roof trusses. In the east gable wall there is an additional gallery above, opened upon by three openings at the centre. In the west wall are three large openings at the gallery level, while above a large clock face supplies a central feature, with a group of three small arches above. The room is very successful, the more because it eschews all ornament inconsistent with its utilitarian purpose, and gains its effect by careful adjustment of proportions and relation of masses.

It is time an Exposition "boom" of some proportions was started in this city. The citizens of Washington have already organized and are taking energetic steps to create a public opinion all over the country in favor of the National capital as the location for a Pan-American Exposition on the 400th anniversary of the landing of Columbus. The metropolis can present very weighty claims for consideration in the matter of selecting this location. The question as to the propriety of holding such an Exposition in the most populous and wealthy city on the one hand, or the capital on the other, has not arisen in other times and in other countries, because hitherto the two places have been identical. Now that it has arisen, it is the duty of every New Yorker to see that it is settled in his favor. That it would be a good thing for the property owners of this city does not admit of a doubt. It would be money in the pockets of retail and wholesale tradesmen; it would benefit the boarding houses and hotels; it would act as a spur for the making of improvements of which we could be proud; and it would give the city what every American city needs, the benefit of a good advertisement. Further, it would be an acknowledgment, on the part of the country at large, of the supremacy of New York which could not fail ultimately to bring us business and population.

It is not only, however, that New Yorkers should favor New York for New York's sake. Americans should favor our city for the sake of the success of the Exposition. The district within a forty miles radius of the City Hall is the most densely populated section of the country. It is far more accessible than Washington, both from all parts of the Americas and from Europe. The recent Centennial ceremonies clearly showed with what perfect ease large numbers of people can be accommodated within our bounds. Moreover, most of the Central and South American States have their business connections with this city, so that if they came to New York they would simply be traveling over a road which has already been built. Finally, if New York is not the most beautiful city in the country, she certainly possesses many facilities for amusement which a smaller and less well-located city would not. Her theatres are numerous, even in proportion to her population, and well-appointed; within a few hours' ride a visitor could find opportunities for driving, bathing, boating of wonderful variety and attractiveness. The Exposition grounds will adjoin, even if they are not situated in, a group of parks, which by that time and for that purpose could be made of surpassing beauty. In short, of all the circumstances which would make a desirable location for an Exposition, New York lacks nothing but municipal distinction, which is desirable, but not for the moment essential.

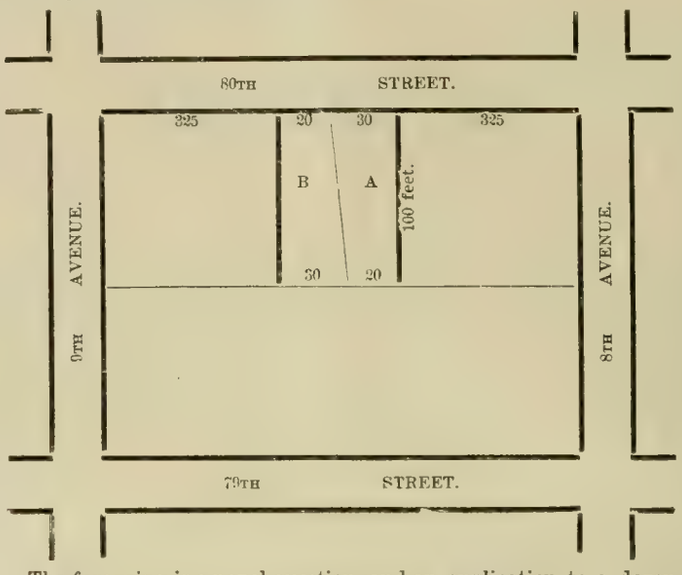
Without intending to be at all pedagogical, perhaps a little advice to New Yorkers as to what may be done to deserve the privilege, should it be bestowed upon us, may not come amiss. For one thing, we should frankly recognize our limitations. Our strength consists in our wealth and our population. Both should be utilized to the utmost to make the Exposition a success. There is now taking place in Paris probably one of the first Expositions that has ever paid expenses, and this in spite of the fact that money was spent lavishly to make the exhibit attractive. A lesson should be learned from this. It is impossible to foresee at present what body will carry its financial responsibility, and how far this body will be assisted by the State and National governments towards the necessarily enormous expenses attending the festival. But, however this expense is contributed, or whoever has to incur this responsibility, New York should not be backward in volunteering money and time. Europe should be shown that if the Americans know how to make money they also know how to spend when the occasion demands it. This should be done irrespective of what the actual return in cash may be. It is a mistake to try to make a speculation out of a national affair of this kind. No country can lose ultimately by stimulating national enthusiasm untainted by national bigotry.

Many complaints are being heard about the work of the State Assessors. There are great inequalities among different towns in the county and among different counties in the State. Says the New York Times: "Though the assessors have sworn to assess property at its actual value, they do not scruple to admit that they assess as low as half its value or even less." These complaints arise almost inevitably from the fact that the State derives its revenues from a taxation of real property. Injustice seems to be the inevitable result of this system. According to Professor R. T. Ely, "there is no State in the Union where such inequalities do not exist." It is a difficult enough matter to value the different parcels of property in the same county in an equitable manner, as the recent dispute over a proper valuation of the school-house sites shows. How much more difficult is it then to make proportionally just estimates over so much wider an area as a State? Of what use a Board of Equalization is under the circumstances may be seen from the treatment which New York City has received from the hands of our State Board. There is no remedy but an absolute divorce of the State and local sources of taxation.



The discussion started by Bishop Potter's Centennial address, and continued by the newspapers ever since, contains about the same proportions of sense and nonsense as are usually present in a widely-extended controversy—a minimum of the former and a maximum of the latter. By making the discussion general instead of specific, the opponents of the Bishop charge a redoubt which the enemy have never occupied. The question never was: "Are we as a whole any better morally than our ancestors of one hundred years ago?" The world can afford to leave such profitless discussions as that to the Twilight Club, which must talk about something every two weeks. It is the plainest fact that the seven devils of selfishness and untruth are as rampant now as then. The question is only as to their manifestations. Selfishness nowadays is charged with a political and economical power it never possessed before. Hence it is far more dangerous. That was the pith of the Bishop's protest.

It is worth noting that the bill exempting grain elevators from the fire-proof conditions of the Building law in New York City was passed with remarkable rapidity through both Houses. The rules were suspended in order to expedite the measure, in which the New York Central Railroad, who are about to rebuild their elevators recently destroyed by fire, are greatly interested. What a pity it is the New York Central is not behind the Grant Rapid Transit bill, the cable scheme, and the Battery loop and the third track on the Manhattan Co. Rapid transit might not then be the dim and distant blessing it is to-day.

A Problem in Lots.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Granting that A and B, respectively, control the lots as per diagram, and desire to equalize their holdings. On this basis what money difference would exist supposing a lot, 25x100 feet, to be worth $10,000. Please observe that these lots would be located in Manhattan square. My object is that your decision will affect no one. J. J. S.

The foregoing is a novel question, and an application to a dozen brokers as to the rule governing such a computation would bring forth different answers from each, if they did not say at once that there was no rule to govern. We will say, however, that one foot front is worth three feet of rear generally, but in this case this is neutralized by the utility of the lots, therefore a fair division on a common-sense basis would be to square lot A by making it 27x100, and lot B by making it 23x100. Supposing a lot, 25x100, worth $10,000, this would make lot A worth $10,800 and lot B worth $9,200.

Among the official filings of the week are deeds which show the transfer of No. 34 Catharine street, on June 24th, to Wm. Hart at $14,000. Another deed discloses the sale of the same property in 1800—eighty-nine years ago—at £166 13s. 4d., or about $833.

There seems to be a building boom of some size and importance making headway in Nashville, Tenn. There are at present 50 per cent. more buildings in the course of construction than there were at this time last year. And they are to be erected at a cost of fully $1,000,000, not at all bad for a city of less than 50,000 inhabitants.

The committee who have charge of the Washington Memorial Arch have not yet instructed Stanford White to prepare the necessary drawings, nor is it likely that they will until the total amount of the subscriptions can be approximately gauged. From inquiry at the offices of McKim, Mead & White, architects, of which Mr. White is a member, it is learned that the arch will be exactly similar in design to that now at the entrance to 5th avenue, at Washington square, and that the only changes likely to be made are in the mouldings.

A prospectus has been issued for a new periodical to be started shortly by Jennie C. Croly. Its purpose, according to the circular, is "to represent the life, and particularly the associative life, of the modern woman, its interests and its working activities, literary, social, and industrial. The occupation of women, the industries, education, modern, social and associative life, art interests, literary work, health and new openings, will receive attention." This periodical will have the advantage of a good name—the Woman's Century—and good contributors.

The Madison Square Garden Company is hesitating between boldly erecting a new and fine structure on the site which they own, or quietly beating a retreat and selling the property to whomsoever will buy. Their original intention was to build, but their ardor for this purpose was cooled by their inability to raise the necessary money. They offered their stock at 75, and less than half of it only has been subscribed for. If they build they will erect a handsome structure costing somewhere between $800,000 and $1,200,000. There is talk about an English syndicate wishing to buy the property.

The "pressure test" system, now in operation under the Health Department plumbing rules, has been a sad blow to the cultivation of a taste for diamonds among the plumbing fraternity. By the time a job of iron pipework is now through the ordeal of an air or water test there is a goodly slice of the old-time profit gone, which in those "good old days," when it did not take much time to do the "roughing" of a building, went into the bank account. There is a great improvement already in the "testing' process, and one up-town firm of plumbers states that there is now a spirit of rivalry among their best men to see who will do work which will bear the greatest test. If one man in charge of the plumbing of a new building can test his pipes at the rate of ten pounds to the square inch, his fellow workman on another building will bring the mercury in the testing guage an inch higher, and so on until some of their latest jobs in joints in iron pipe have been tested as high as a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch.

The sanitary aspect of life in the New York tenement districts is much more encouraging than might be expected as viewed from the standpoint of Dr. Tracey in his recent report to the Health Department. The estimated population of New York City is over 1,500,000, and that of the tenement house dwellers nearly 1,100,000, or nearly 72 per cent. of the entire population. The decrease in the death rate in this large class of the community within the last twenty years shows unmistakably that life in the tenements of New York City has equal chances with others, the death rate of 1869 among the tenement population which shows a percentage of 28.35, while the figures of 1888 show a reduction to 22.71. In fact, notwithstanding the pessimistic view taken of tenement house life generally by the theoretical reformer of the present day, there is more sturdy health to be found among that class than in the higher grades of New York City life, removed as they are from the close supervision of the Health Department.

The Thursday Afternoon Club promises to develop into quite an institution. The members are all wealthy and belong to what is considered the best social life of New York. Some of the members are now seeking a plot on the west side, with the object of building a club house, stables and sheds, where they may have the same conveniences which they now secure by hiring Claremont every Thursday afternoon. A plot on Riverside Drive, between 84th and 96th streets, and possibly an entire front, will be purchased, and a picturesque building erected on the site, to contain a restaurant, cafe, etc. The idea is to make the place something like the Washington Park Club, Chicago. The proposition is to issue stock for the cost of the undertaking, which it is estimated will be about $150,000 to $200,000. About $50,000 has already been promised. Among the members of the club are Wm. Waldorf Astor, Ward McAllister, Henry Le Grand Cannon, Mrs. De Peyster, Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, Col. J. M. Varnum, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Lispenard Stewart, W. E. D. Stokes, Mrs. Wm. Astor, Mrs. W. D. Sloane, Mrs. Jas. P. Kernochan and others.

The recent inspection of the Croton Water-shed by the State Board of Health reveals a condition of affairs that is not comforting from a sanitary point of view. The area included 361 square miles, and the report of its condition made by Mr. Charles C. Brown, Civil Engineer, shows that at the resent time there are about 18,500 cows, pigs, horses and sheep on the water-shed in barns and yards located near the water; that the entire number of domestic animals is about 33,000. There were found 2,843 houses that directly drained their filth into the streams supplying our city reservoirs, and more than three thousand barns and barnyards which sent their refuse into the water. The towns within this district pour all their filth into the small rivers, and stables and privies are built on pilings out into the streams. Photographs of glaring cases of pollution accompany the report, and taken altogether there is not much comfort for cold water drinkers. One of the results of the survey and inspection is the formulation by the State Board of Health of a series of rules for the sanitary protection of the Croton River and its tributaries in Westchester, Putnam and Dutchess Counties. The enforcement of the rules under the law depends on the Commissioner of Public Works of this city, with the co-operation of the State and local Boards of Health, but the methods provided under chap. 543 of the laws of 1888 are so roundabout in their operation, that in the opinion of Commissioner Gilroy some more speedy method must be devised for the punishment of parties concerned in the water pollution.

By way of illustrating the means of preventing this pollution of the water supply, the following will be read with interest as showing "how not to do it:" After an inspection is made of any locality where the law is violated, the violater is served on behalf of the commissioners with a notice and a copy of the State Board's rules, and indicating the particular rule broken in his case. If the notice is unheeded the commissioner notifies the State Board of Health. The State Board is then to notify the Local Board of that particular locality, and this latter body is to go to work to enforce the rules and collect the penalties. If it is unsuccessful then the Commissioner of Public Works takes the matter in hand, and the offender is prosecuted in a Court of Record in the county where the violation occurred, before a jury from that county, with a chance of being fined $300 or sent to jail for six months. Meanwhile the pollution will go on while the question is being tried, and the residents of New York will have the full enjoyment of a contaminated water supply.

The American Fine Arts Society are negotiating for the purchase of four lots on which to erect their building. They are situated on 43d and 44th streets, between 5th and 6th avenues, west of the St. Louis College. Two are on the former street, and are 50x100 in size, and two on the latter street, 55x100 in size. The trustees have not definitely decided whether they shall purchase the property, owing to the price demanded. Chas. H. Butler, one of the attorneys who is acting in the matter, said: "We are prepared to give upwards of $100,000 for the property, and should we purchase it we will build a handsome building on the site. This will contain an art gallery, offices for the different societies, class rooms for the Art Students' League, etc." The offices already contracted for will yield a rental of over $10,000 per annum. The contractors are: The Society of American Artists, devoted to painting and sculpture; the Architectural League, devoted to architectural and decorative design; the Art Students' League, devoted to instruction in all branches of graphic art; the Society of Painters in Pastel, and the New York Art Guild. Messrs. Hy. G. Marquand, William Allen Butler, Louis C. Tiffany, W. E. D. Stokes, H. J. Hardenbergh, E. H. Kendall, Chester Loomis, Howard Russell Butler and others are interested, and are subscribers to the Life Fellowship fund, which will go toward creating a capital stock of $50,000, in shares of $100 each. The cost of the land and building is estimated at $250,000.

That Remarkable Loan.

The article which appeared in the last issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, setting forth the facts in the matter of the 4½ per cent. loan of $182,500 made by the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank on the northeast corner of Washington and Cortlandt streets, has received the prompt attention of the State Bank Superintendent, Mr. Willis S. Paine.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon Mr. Paine, who had already read the article, together with one which appeared in Tuesday's Tribune, reprinted below.

"What action, sir, will you take in the matter?" asked the writer.

"We have forwarded the articles which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE and the Tribune to the officers of the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank, asking them for an explanation of the matter. We shall take no action until we hear from them. Of course, there are always two sides to a question, and if the loan made is too high it may possibly be owing to an error of judgment on the part of the bank officials. Cases have come under our notice of high loans made in perfect good faith by officers of savings banks on the information and belief that the money was safely placed. This does not make the officers culpable for anything but a mistake of judgment."

"Of course, THE RECORD AND GUIDE has made no charges," said the writer. "It has merely presented facts. But might not a number of savings banks make dangerously high loans, and then, when called to account for them, urge that they had made errors of judgment and had acted in good faith? This would not make the depositors' funds a whit the safer."

"That is true," replied Mr. Paine; "but unless a loan was made with the knowledge that the property was not worth the amount stated, there would be no cause for serious action being taken by me."

Mr. Paine was asked what course would be taken if it was discovered that a savings bank had made an unreasonably high loan on real estate.

"The matter would be laid before the Attorney General," was the reply.

"And then?" asked the writer.

"Well," added the Superintendent, "the Attorney General can bring an action to make the trustees of the bank personally liable, or he can take measures to put the institution in the hands of a receiver."

The State Bank Superintendent has supervision of all banks of discount and deposit, savings banks, loan, trust, mortgage and safe deposit companies, and of all monied institutions doing business in this State, except the National banks. Under the law savings banks must be regularly examined, at least once in two years, and are subject to special examinations at any time. The following is the Tribune leader referred to:

TRUST FUND INVESTMENTS.

A detailed statement in THE REAL ESTATE RECORD AND GUIDE of last Saturday about a loan recently made by a savings bank in this State upon a piece of New York City property amounts to a severe criticism of the methods of the institution in question. Upon the authority of that journal it appears that the savings bank loaned at 4½ per cent. a sum of money exceeding any reasonable estimate of the present value of the property, considering the price at which it was transferred a year ago and the improvements which have since been made upon it. The law requires a certification by the proper officers of every savings institution that property upon which it proposes to loan money is worth at least twice the amount of the proposed loan. In this case it is asserted that the property lately cost actually less than the sum loaned, and moreover that the consideration stated in the deeds by which the property was recently transferred was erroneously stated. These are pretty serious accusations to bring against the caution and intelligence of men who have been placed in charge of other people's savings. It will, perhaps, be represented that the owner of the property made a remarkable bargain when he acquired it a year ago, but as THE RECORD AND GUIDE, which states the price paid (or said to have been paid), the amount of the loan and the location and character of the security, remarks, it is hard to figure out its value at any such sum as the officers of the savings bank must, under the law, have supposed it to be worth.

We allude to this occurrence not because we doubt the solvency of the institution in question, but because overvaluations are too often made in this era of abundant money for the sake of putting idle funds at interest. It is a custom which ought to be as strenuously discountenanced by public opinion as it is forbidden by the law. Numerous efforts, generally unsuccessful, have been made in recent years to enlarge through legislation the scope of trust fund investments. It would be unfortunate if the safeguards established by the law should be maintained in theory only to be disregarded in practice.

The New Parade and Rifle Ground.

A TALK WITH GEN. FITZGERALD.

No improvement in which the public is interested has been taken in hand more vigorously, or pushed forward more quickly, than the new parade ground in Van Courtlandt Park. Directly the new park lands became the property of the city the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund were applied to and $25,000 was advanced to commence the work, the money to be returned to the Park Department when the Legislature made the necessary appropriation. A bill was at once introduced to obtain an issue of bonds to the amount of $100,000, and the signature of the Governor was hardly dry when Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, with his chief of staff, engineer and rifle inspector, together with Col. Robb, the then president of the Park Department, and Engineer Kellogg, met together and went over the ground to determine what was required, and at the very next meeting of the Park Department resolutions were passed requesting Engineer Kellogg to prepare plans, specifications, etc., accordingly. He is now at work on the matter, and has promised to have his report ready in two or three weeks. When that is presented the contracts will be let out, and thirty days will suffice to put the parade ground in condition and sixty days the rifle range.

"The general idea," said Gen. Fitzgerald, "is to drain the lake and to take away all the buildings, except the old Van Courtlandt mansion and barn. The latter will be required for the staff, artillery and cavalry horses. The rifle range will be 500 yards long, to allow of ranges anywhere between 100 and 500 yards. It will be in a valley surrounded by hills, so that there will be no danger to person or property from stray shots. The parade ground will contain 120 acres, and will enable me to handle the entire brigade of some 6,000 men without difficulty. The site is well chosen, as the hills which encircle it afford room for 100,000 spectators to witness the manœuvres."

The parade ground will be ready in October, when the entire brigade, almost equal to a division of the army, will be put through a series of interesting evolutions.

The Delay in Opening Streets.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE has for several years urged upon the authorities the necessity of quickly opening streets in the 23d and 24th Wards. Our neighboring cities and suburban towns and villages have deprived us of a large population that might have remained within the city boundaries, and it is quite clear that if New York is to receive her proper quota of residents a great deal more building will have to be done in the upper wards in the way of small cheap cottages and low-priced apartment houses. But this cannot be done on an extensive scale until the streets are opened, graded, regulated, curbed and guttered, and the sewers, gas pipes and water mains runs through them. All this is contingent upon a comprehensive plan for opening the streets, and that, too, with the utmost speed.

The first drawback in the way is the present mode of proceedings when streets are to be opened. This is long and tedious, and takes from two to six years from first to last. A great many streets in the trans-Harlem wards should be opened immediately, even if it takes a special law to do it. There is sufficient legislative influence in these wards to carry a measure with this object, and it may be suggested without impropriety that the property owners and residents up that way would do better to take some practical steps in this direction instead of sitting down and bewailing their fate.

An official in the Park Department, in a talk with a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, said: "The method adopted in proceedings to open streets is very red-tapy. It takes anywhere from two to six years before streets are finally opened from the date of the first proceedings. The great difficulty is to get to the end of the legal processes. But when the streets are once declared opened the department loses no time in improving them."

"What is the regular process through which every proceeding to open streets has to pass?" asked the reporter.

"Well," said the official, "the Board of Street Opening and Improvement first lays out the streets, roads or avenues to be opened. They then direct the Corporation Counsel to initiate proceedings for acquiring title to the property required for the purpose. The Corporation Counsel then applies to the Park Department for a rule map and a technical description of the land to be taken. The Park Department then has the map and description prepared and supplies him therewith. The Corporation Counsel then applies to the Supreme Court to appoint three commissioners, and in due course the court appoints these gentlemen. The latter then apply to the Park Department for a damage map, and the department in due course furnishes this to them, with a map showing the property benefited by the opening. The commissioners then hear evidence pro and con, and finally award damages accordingly, stating what property should be assessed for the benefits derived from such opening. They then send their report to the court, which the latter confirms, and the street is then legally opened. Hereupon the department comes in and takes the ordinary proceedings for opening a street through the property and improving it in the usual manner, regulating, grading, paving, flagging, curbing, guttering and sewering it."

"What remedy do you propose to shorten the time now occupied in opening streets?"

"Well, I have not thought about it. Of course, the 23d and 24th Wards are a new city in themselves, being about as large in area as Manhattan Island, and, while I think the streets should be opened more expeditiously, it can't all be done at once. Another point of complaint is about the sewers. These are built on a regular system, in accordance with the fire plans. No street can have sewers put in it before it is legally declared open. So that if streets are delayed in being opened, it often holds back an entire district, sometimes for years. An instance of this was seen in the matter of Railroad avenue East. The proceedings in this case commenced in 1882 and were not ended till 1887. All this time the sewerage of an entire district, one of the most important beyond the Harlem, was kept back. Property owners on many of the adjacent streets would come to us and ask why their sewers could not be used, and they had to be told that it was on account of the neighboring street not being opened, and that the sewer connection, without that street, would be imperfect and useless to them."

One or two instances of the delay in opening streets may be cited. Take the case of North 3d avenue, between 170th street and Pelham avenue. Third avenue is the most important thoroughfare beyond the Harlem. The avenue was to have been opened from the boundary line of the 23d Ward northward. It was a most important and much-needed improvement, and the first proceedings were taken as far back as September 30, 1884, but it was not until April 18, 1889, that the damage and benefit maps, etc., were filed. The commissioners in this matter were Geo. W. McLean, Jas. J. Traynor and Chas. C. Leary. The "dead and alive" condition of North 3d avenue, north of the 23d Ward boundary line, for so many years, was largely due to the delay in properly opening that thoroughfare.

In the matter of opening Courtlandt avenue, between 156th and 161st streets, the first proceedings were taken October 15th, 1885, and they are still in the initial stages. Edgecombe road, between 155th and 175th streets, is in the same position.

Tremont avenue, from Aqueduct avenue to Boston road, should long since have been opened. Proceedings were initiated as far back as September 30, 1884, and the commissioners have not reported to the court yet, though close on five years have elapsed. The last thing done was to appoint John Kirby a commissioner on February 12, 1889, in place of James J. Kelso, deceased. The other commissioners are John Halloran and John Whalen. The order of the court in every case is that "said commissioners make their report in the premises without unnecessary delay," and it may be well for the several hundreds of commissioners now sitting on the matter of opening streets to be taken to task for the laxity with which they are performing their duties.

Mr. John Whalen, one of the commissioners in the matter of opening Tremont avenue, was called upon. He said: "The average time to open a street is about two years. It depends upon the quickness with which maps are made out by the official surveyors, the length of the street and other causes, all of which are sources of delay."

"When will your report on Tremont avenue be submitted to the court?" asked the writer.

"Probably some time in the fall," was the reply.

"But you and your fellow-commissioners were appointed on September 30, 1884, and according to your own statement the report will not be ready until about five years from that date," said the scribe.

"Well, Tremont avenue, from Aqueduct avenue to Boston road, is exceptionally long, being some two miles in length. No one who has not gone through the work can realize the amount of figuring and estimating which has to be done by the commissioners in such a case. Not only has the value of every parcel to be fixed, but the area of assessment must be decided upon. This is a long and tedious work when many hundreds of lots are affected. Besides, property-owners often place themselves in our way and cause much delay. I am a member of several commissions for opening streets and have had considerable experience. I find that sometimes only one or two people out of a dozen are willing to favor an improvement, as they object to the assessments for opening, sewering, etc., when they do not intend to improve."

"How long does it take for a street to be regulated, graded and put in good shape for use after it is declared open?" asked the writer.

"From one to two years," was the reply.

Under these circumstances Tremont avenue will probably be opened about seven years after the commissioners were appointed.

"Don't you think the law should be altered so as to allow of the streets being opened more expeditiously. And if so, what change would you suggest?" asked the writer.

"I certainly do think," said Mr. Whalen, "that a change is necessary. I would propose that when the oaths of the commissioners are filed vesting the fee to the title of the street in the city, that the city should proceed at once to regulate, grade and otherwise improve, and then hear testimony from owners as to damages, and fix the area of assessment, afterwards. At present all the long process is gone through with first and the street then opened. I would suggest that the street be first opened and the long process be gone through with afterward.

"If such a change took place, how long, in your opinion, would it take for streets to be opened?"

"Why, the work of opening could then be commenced within a few months after the appointment of the commissioners," was the reply. "I would also suggest that about a dozen surveyors should be engaged by the city, who should stick at the work of getting out maps continuously. This would enable commissioners to obtain maps in a few weeks' time, instead of waiting their turn for months. The staff of surveyors is too small at present to keep up with the work."

A city employé said that there were many cases in which streets could be opened within a year or two at the outside, and even less, if the commissioners bestirred themselves. It all depended upon them.

In none of the departments could it be ascertained what was the total mileage of streets laid out on the map of the 23d and 24th Wards. The number of streets opened to date is 183 miles, of which 133 90-100 miles are dirt roads, 43¼ miles macadam roads, and 5 85-100 paved roads.

(O)—The very great difference in the figures in this matter are largely owing to the claim made by the owners that the machinery in the buildings, which they valued at $53,000, was part of the fixtures, and as such should be purchased with the buildings. The Board of Education, and the experts employed by the commissioners, failed to recognize this claim, but later the commissioners did so by awarding $33,200 therefor. The commissioners also allowed $150,250 for the land which the experts in their employ valued at only $112,000. There is about 11,000 square feet in the plot. At the Burke sale on Wednesday a plot on the block below—the northwest corner of Rector street—size 49.3x89.4x38.10x89.5, with two six-story and one three-story tenements, was sold for $60,000. The property-owner's claim was about $205,000.

(P)—On this site there is also a very large difference in the figures. The estimate of the Board of Education is $71,000, while the owners claim $140,000. An award of $120,250 was made, while the experts employed by the commissioners valued the plot at $107,000. We give herewith a list of sales during the past year of parts of the plot under consideration, which may enable our readers to judge which set of figures are the most correct:

Ridge st, w s, 66 feet n Broome st, 34x75, two three-story brick tenem'ts. Sold September 29, 1888. $15,250
Broome st, n s, 58.3 w Ridge st, 16.9x66, three-story frame brick front store and tenem't. Sold January 7, 1888. 6,800
Broome st n s, 75 e Attorney st, 25x100, three and four-story tenem'ts. Sold May 1, 1888. 16,000
Sold again June 15, 1888. 18,300

There are 12,500 square feet in the entire plot and the buildings thereon are old ones. In the parcels quoted above there are 6,157 square feet, which brought a total of $39,550 against $140,000 asked by the owners for 12,500 feet and $120,250 awarded by the commissioners.

(Q)—This is an interior plot and no comparison can be made from recent sales as their exact location is not at hand.

Both are Inaccurate.

The Sun, speaking of the heavy awards made for sites for the new schools by the commissioners appointed by the Supreme Court, compared to the valuations made upon the same property by the Board of Education, takes it for granted that the latter represent the real value. The fact is, as shown in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week, the valuations of the board and the awards of the commissioners are alike inaccurate, with this difference, that in the one case the price was as a rule too high and in the other too low. There is no more reason why the city should pay below the market value for property it needs than that it should pay too much. The point of importance about this school site matter that has not been sufficiently considered is that the commissioners awarded in many cases much larger sums than their own appraisers said the property was worth. Upon what grounds did they take this action? Did they consider the testimony and valuation of owners and interested experts worthy of more weight than that of their own experts? Apparently they did. The commissioners, with only one or two exceptions, we believe, are not men who would be regarded as well qualified judges of the value of real estate. It is to be regretted that as a rule commissioners are composed of lawyers with political aspirations and not of men of special experience and judgment who could be of value to the city.

Brooklyn News.

At the tax sale held by Registrar Coles of delinquent property, fifty parcels were offered, but only six sold. The amount realized was a little over $4,000.

The largest transfer recorded this week is that by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company to Theodore F. Jackson, of the property on North 8th, North 9th and North 10th streets and East River, for $500,000.

Mayor Chapin has appointed Gen. John B. Woodward, the Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs and Theodore F. Jackson members of the reorganized Park Commission. A bill passed the last Legislature making the board consist of three instead of eight members. The board can now make contracts without the consent of the Aldermen.

Building continues to be active in Brooklyn. The plans filed this week entail an expenditure of about half a million dollars. Buildings larger, more artistic and more expensive than ever are being constructed. In the last few years Brooklyn has greatly improved as a market for building material of all kinds.

The opening of the 5th avenue Elevated road as far as 3d street, and the prospect that in a few weeks the entire line will be ready for traffic, has already beneficially affected real estate in the 8th and 22d Wards. Considerable building may be expected in these wards, which seem destined to become among the best in the city.

In the case of Kane versus the City of Brooklyn, the Court of Appeals has decided in favor of the city. The decision is of immense importance, in consequence of its bearing upon the sale of property by the city for unpaid taxes. The action was brought to set aside the certificate issued upon the sale of Kane's property for arrears in 1884, and to restrain the Registrar from issuing a deed. The case really called into question the present method of assessing property, giving notice of the completion of assessment, making returns to the Registrar of Arrears by the Collector of Taxes, and technical points of a like character. The result is a legal indorsement of the methods employed by the city in all these matters.

Building Association Notes.

An event happened in building associations last week which, when it becomes widely known and its consequences realized, will create something of a sensation. The Tax Commissioners sent to the East Side Building Association, of No. 189 Bowery, for a statement of the amount of their loans. The president, Mr. Taafe, sent a sworn statement that the amount of mortgages held by the association was $33,000. Some time later he received word from the commissioners that the association would be taxed at the rate of $20,000. Astounded at this, he consulted his lawyers, expostulated with the commissioners, and ended by filing a brief at setting forth the reasons why building associations should not be taxed.

This is an important matter for the associations. It has always been the policy of the State to help rather than hamper any institution which tended to make men of moderate means save a part of their earnings; and specifically, in the case of the building associations, they were exempted from taxation by the act of 1887. If they should be thus burdened by obligations to the State, it would mean trouble to all and even disaster to some. Unfortunately most of the associations were organized under the act of 1851, in which there is no exemption clause; and it is upon this ground that the commissioners have taken and refuse to take back this step. The East Side Association is to resort to certiorari proceedings in the courts to resist the payment of the tax, and it is believed that the Metropolitan League of Associations will assist the association in its fight against the commissioners. The Home Seeker estimates the number of persons in the city who would be affected by the tax, if generally imposed, at 18,000, and the amount of mortgages held at one million dollars.

It is, perhaps, well that the question has come up and can be settled. The associations have nothing to fear from a careful inquiry into the matter. Even if the decision of the court should be against them it will not probably be a matter of great difficulty to get the Legislature to allow the exemption asked for. It is claimed that since the associations have no capital stock there is really nothing for the State to tax. There is among the papers filed at the Tax Commissioner's office a sworn statement from the World Association that it has no taxable assets whatever. The commissioners are in no way prejudiced against the movement, but they want the matter settled once and for all.

In the City Departments.

The transverse road through the Central Park should have been ready and running last month, but the contract has not yet been awarded. From present indications it is possible that the road will not be in operation to meet the demands of this summer's traffic. The facts are as follows: The sum of $12,000 was appropriated last year, and the Park Departments when they came to receive bids recently, found that if they wanted to build the road as they wished to do it the cost would be about twice that sum. The plans and specifications submitted to the bidders were the result of considerable thought as to the best rail and roadway that should be laid down and the board are desirous of keeping to these plans as closely as possible and not to get an inferior road. They have now applied to the Sinking Fund Commissioners to issue bonds for the necessary amount. Should the latter agree to this we will have a first-class transverse road, one that will be superior in character to any street railroad in the city. Should they refuse to grant the extra sum necessary the department will get bids for an inferior road. This should not be allowed to happen, for a city with an income of $36,000,000 can afford to spend $12,000 extra to give an important and much required cross-town communication to its population. But whatever the result may be, it should be decided upon immediately, so that the Park Department may at once proceed to let out the contract and have the road finished. There has been altogether too much delay in this matter.

Gas mains are to be laid, lamp-posts erected and street lamps lighted in 108th street, between 9th and 10th avenues.

The building on the south side of 125th street, about 300 feet east of 10th avenue, has been approved as a lodging house, station house and prison, for the Thirtieth Precinct Police.

The Commissioner of Public Works has been authorized to lay a 36-inch main in Mosholu Parkway, from Williamsbridge road to Bronx River Park; in and through that park from Mosholu Parkway to the Boulevard, and in that Boulevard, from Bronx River Park to 149th street.

Permission has been granted to the De La Vergne Refrigerating Machine Company to regulate and grade the south side of 138th street, and set curbstones in front of their property, extending from the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Portchester Railroad east to Long Island Sound, at the company's expense.

What has become of the measure to widen and improve 110th street? Last session a law was passed giving the city authorities power to widen 8th avenue, between 109th and 111th streets, and 110th street, between 5th avenue and Riverside Drive, but little or nothing has since been heard of the matter. The law even went so far as to designate precisely the several parcels to be taken for the purpose. These were seven in number, and the object of the measure is not only to widen 110th street so as to improve that approach to the Central and Morningside Parks, but to create plazas at 5th and 8th avenues. From inquiry at the Park Department it seems that no progress is being made with this important improvement.

The report of Dr. Moreau Morris on the sanitary condition of the docks, piers, bulkheads and water fronts of New York City shows how dangerous to the health of a large population, estimated at over 35,000 people, the vile deposits are that are being daily poured into the water at various points of the East and North Rivers. These deposits of animal and vegetable matter seem to be more numerous and more dangerous to health on the west side than on the east side of the city. The report shows that owners of property and lessees of slaughtering houses, factories, etc., are continually violating the law, and the Sanitary Inspector has advised what measures the Board of Health shall take to abate the nuisance.

Thirteen plans have been sent in for the Criminal Court building, and they have been opened and partially examined by the Sinking Fund Commissioners. They are now deposited with the Comptroller, to be examined by the board, who will determine upon the design to be selected. The following is a list of the plans submitted by the competing architects:

New Streets—Proceedings and Hearings.

The Commissioners of Parks, on July 10th, at 11 o'clock, will hear and consider all statements, objections and evidence that may then be offered in reference to proposed changes in the lines of Undercliff avenue in the 24th Ward; and changing the class of Kappock street and Independence avenue, also in the 24th Ward, from third to first class streets.

The bill of costs, etc., in the matter relative to the opening of 139th street, from 8th to Edgecombe avenue, will be presented on July 5th, at 10.30 o'clock, to one of the Justices of the Supeme Court for taxation. At the same time the bill of costs, etc., in the matter of acquiring title to East 140th street, from Morris to Brook avenue, will also be presented.

Important Buildings Under Way.

VI.

BETWEEN FIFTY-NINTH AND ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH STREETS, WEST OF EIGHTH AVENUE.

In our fifth article we dealt with the above section, and this week continue to enumerate the many improvements under way within those boundaries.

The Twenty-second Regiment's new armory is being pushed forward very quickly. The building will occupy the block bounded by the Grand Boulevard, 9th avenue, 67th and 68th streets. The drill room, which will be 175x235 in size, will be one-story high; the company rooms—of which there will be ten, 25x50 each, exclusive of company parlors—will be two stories high, while the administration building will be three stories high. The interior plan of the architect, J. P. Leo, is admirable. As he is a captain in the regiment, he has taken advantage of many points which the non-military architect would fail to see. The east wall of the drill room shed is now up about thirty feet, and the armory is to be ready by April next. James D. Murphy is the mason, and P. K. Lantry the carpenter, while the iron work is being done by the Wallis Iron Works.

On the north side of 88th street, 100 feet east of 10th avenue, nine three-story and basement brick and stone front dwellings are up to their second tier of beams. They are each 16.8x50 and extension, and are being built for William S. Mercer, from plans by F. G. Butcher.

On the southwest corner of West End avenue and 76th street Messrs. Lamb & Rich, the architects, are building, for their own account, six four-story stone front dwellings. They have frontages ranging from 17.2 to 27 feet, with a depth of from 36 to 62.2 feet each. They will be completed in the early fall, and will cost about $150,000 to build.

On the northeast corner of West End avenue and 87th street W. E. D. Stokes is building five four-story brick and stone front houses, each 20x56 and extension. They are up to their first tier, and will cost about $100,000.

Five four-story brick and stone front dwellings are up to their third floor beams on the northeast corner of 87th street and West End avenue. They are being built for W. E. D. Stokes, and will cost about $100,000.

Eight three-story and basement brick and stone front dwellings are being topped out on the north side of 93d street, 168 feet east of 10th avenue. They are being built for Wm. S. Mercer and will cost about $100,000. They are to be ready by September.

On the south side of 75th street, 200 feet west of 9th avenue, Geo. C. Edgar's Sons are working at the cellars of five houses, to be four stories high and 20x58 in size, exclusive of extensions. They are from plans by G. A. Schellenger, and will cost about $100,000.

Five four-story and basement stone front dwellings are being built by Messrs. Barney, Stokes and Jencks on the northwest corner of West End avenue and 87th street. They are ready for the white mortar, and will cost between $90,000 and $100,000.

On the northwest corner of West End avenue and 86th street five four-story houses are being built for Messrs. Barney, Stokes and Jencks, from plans by J. H. Taft. They will be 20 and 22.8x56 and extensions, and will cost over $100,000.

Five four-story and basement brick and stone front dwellings are being built by Squier & Whipple on the southeast corner of West End avenne and 88th street. They will cost about $100,000.

On the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 116th street, Simon Haberman has four five-story flats up to about the third floors. They are 27.11, 36.3, 36.9 and 38x78, 54 and 85 in size, and will cost the owner about $120,000. G. A. Schellenger is the architect.

The three four-story residences which Richard Deeves is building on the north side of 81st street, between Central Park West and 9th avenue, promise to be quite an ornament to Manhattan square. They are each to be 25 feet in frontage and 61, 65 and 69 feet deep respectively, with extensions. They are now up to their third floors and will cost $150,000.

Ten three-story and basement stone front houses are under way on the north side of 78th street, 250 feet east of 10th avenue. They are being built by McDonald & Stewart, from plans by H. L. Harris. Five are up to their second tier of beams, while the balance only seem to have been excavated for and do not yet appear to have been commenced. Their cost is estimated at $130,000.

On the northwest corner of West End avenue and 72d street Franklin E. Robinson is building five four-story and basement brick and stone front dwellings, from plans by C. T. Mott. They are of different sizes, and the cost, as estimated in the plans, is put down at $150,000.

A handsome residence is just being commenced for Chas. H. Phelps on the south side of 90th street, 159.10 east of Riverside Drive. About six months has been taken up in removing 15 feet of rock from the ground and excavating for the foundations, and the house is now at last fairly started. It is to be 40 feet in frontage and three stories high, with an extension from the basement to the roof. A. Namur, the architect, says that it will be ready some time next year.

Two four-story residences are being built for Margaretta Card at Nos. 246 and 248 West 73d street, from plans by C. T. Mott. They are each 24.9x60.6, and will cost about $50,000.

The foundations have been commenced for a chapel for the West End Presbyterian Church on the north side of 105th street, east of 10th avenue, from plans by Carrere & Hastings. It is to seat 600 persons and will be ready by September. Ch. H. Bunn has received the contract for the entire work.

The three four-story brown stone front residences being built by Fred. Aldhous on the north side of 74th street, 281 west of Central Park West, are up to their fourth story. They are to cost $105,000. J. C. Burne is the architect.

Real Estate Department.

The past week has been a fairly active one on 'Change, and although the attendance has been good, the result of the sales has not been satisfactory. The forced sales, which have been quite numerous, excited no competition and the purchasers were invariably interested parties to the proceedings. A sale of the Burke estate on Wednesday led to the purchase of nearly all the property by the heirs. In the way of public offerings the parcels put up were not in demand, and consequently were secured for the sellers. Private sales are few and far between, and many of the brokers are busy looking up a cool retreat to retire to for the next few months.

The few sales bulletined for Monday were all held pursuant to Court orders in foreclosure proceedings, and only three lots were sold. These formed part of the old Jumel estate, and a comparison of prices realized with those obtained at the Jumel sale in November, 1882, discloses the following: One lot, 25x95, on the east side of Audubon avenue, 25 feet north of 170th street, was sold on Monday for $1,650, against $525 for the same lot less than seven years ago. On Monday a plot, 43.9x95, on the same avenue, 25 feet south of 166th street, brought $3,450; in 1882 the same plot was sold for $960, an increase of 214 and 259 per cent. respectively.

There was a fair attendance on 'Change Tuesday; the sales were few and consisted entirely of foreclosures. Eight new houses on 7th avenue and 120th street were sold for a total of $108,900 to the plaintiff or second mortgagee. There is over $103,000 due on the first mortgages and more than $25,000 on the mortgages foreclosed. A plot on 9th avenue, north of 99th street, went to the plaintiff for $25,000, against nearly $27,000 due thereon.

Wednesday was an exceedingly busy day at the Exchange. The sales were both numerous and important and the attendance was large. A total of $697,800 was bid for the parcels offered; of this $21,800 was for out-of-town property. The Burke estate sale, by order of the Supreme Court, was the largest offering of the day and attracted a fair audience, considering the limited advertising it received. Among the audience were very many brokers who have been engaged in estimating the damage to property on the line of the "L" roads, and as several parcels of the Burke property are on Greenwich street they were greatly interested. It took Auctioneer Lalor some twenty minutes to read a description of the seventeen parcels and terms of sale, and thirty-five minutes were consumed in selling the parcels shown on the catalogue. A total of $507,000 was realized by the sale, and with the exception of three or four parcels the property was secured for the heirs. Five pieces went to E. A. Cruikshank for $225,500, three to M. Bishop for $78,000, four to Sidney Ward at $81,000, and one to E. J. Burke at $55,000. Mr. Cruikshank represented Mrs. Martin B. Brown, who is a daughter of the late Edward Burke. Some experts said the property was sold at low figures and others maintained that full figures were realized. The competition for the various parcels was generally confined to the parties in interest. The sale of the late Judge Alker's property by Auctioneer Richard V. Harnett was well attended, and among those interested were noticed Amos R. Eno, Judge P. H. Dugro, Newman Cowen, John R. Foley, and Fred. G. Potter, of Potter Bros. The Boulevard and 97th street lots were offered on exceedingly liberal terms, 70 per cent. of the purchase money might remain on mortgage for two years at 4 per cent. interest. Lot No. 1, on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 97th street, was the first offered, and started at $8,000. Advances followed until $12,000 was reached, and the lot sold to Judge Dugro. The adjoining Boulevard lots went for $7,900 and $7,500 each, and the street lots at from $5,000 to $6,600 each. All except the corner of 97th street were secured for the Alker estate. A dwelling, carriage house, stable, etc., with plot 317x340x417x241, at Far Rockaway, belonging to the same estate, were sold to Judge Joseph McGuire for $11,800. Before leaving the salesroom, Judge McGuire said he had resold the property to James Kernan at $1,500 advance.

There was a spirited competition for the four-story building No. 67 Cortlandt street, size 23.8x77.1x19.4x77.3. The first bid was $30,000, and advances followed in rapid order until $41,100 was bid, and the property sold to Archibald McInnes, liquor dealer, of No. 85 Cortlandt street. The premises are leased until May, 1891, at $2,000 per annum, taxes, Croton water rent and repairs. When the sale began there were a number of bargain hunters around, but the first bid sent them scurrying to the other end of the salesroom. It is generally agreed that the figure realized is very high.

The offerings were quite numerous on Thursday, and the attendance at the Salesroom was small. Most of the sales held were pursuant to Court orders, and in nearly every instance interested persons became the buyers. A corner on 9th avenue, 20.1x80, was bid for by the plaintiff and defendant in a partition suit, and after a spirited competition knocked down at $50,000. The buyer claimed he had made a mistake in the bidding, and the corner was put again and sold at $34,000 to the rival bidders on the first offering. In the way of public sales there was little actually done. No. 163 Chrystie street, which is mortgaged for $28,000, was bid in at $32,700, and Nos. 459 and 461 West 27th street at $8,450 and $13,100 respectively.

Only two sales were held at the Exchange yesterday; both pursuant to foreclosure orders.

Out Among the Builders.

Waldo E. Fuller will improve the block front on Central Park West (8th avenue), extending from 103d to 104th street, with five-story brick flats. The corner houses will be 37.6x85, and the inside houses 25x85. They will cost $200,000, and will be built from plans by Richard Berger. These lots, which were purchased recently from Ferdinand Kurzman and others for $120,000, were sold with a building loan of $170,000.

Arthur D. Pickering has plans on the board for the Sun Fire Office Co., of London, England, for a five-story building, 27x72, which they will erect at No. 54 Pine street. The front will be constructed of Jonesborough granite and light-colored Baltimore brick. The trimmings will be of marble and hardwoods, and one elevator will be erected. The cost has not been estimated.

Flemer & Koehler have plans on the board for eight three-story and basement stone front dwellings to be erected on the northeast corner of Park avenue and 94th street, for Edw. T. Smith, at a total cost of $112,000. There will be six houses on Park avenue and two houses on 94th street. The site is 100x100.

Charles C. Haight has completed plans for two additional stories to the boiler house of Columbia College. It will be for the use of the Electrical Engineering Department, and will cost about $20,000. The same architect has finished plans for P. R. Pyne for a two-story addition and interior alterations to his residence, No. 36 East 36th street, the cost of which has not been estimated.

Geo. Keister has plans on the boards for the six five-story brick and stone front tenements and stores, to be built by Wm. Rankin on the east side of 9th avenue, between 52d and 53d streets. Three will have three families per floor and three four families, while the first floors will have ten stores, four buildings having two stores and two one store each. They will be 25x88 each, and will cost about $100,000. The same architect has plans for a five-story single flat, 16.7x81, to be built by James Anderson at No. 274 West 12th street, at a cost of about $14,000. It will have six rooms and bathroom per suite.

R. R. Davis has plans on the boards for four five-story brick, brown stone and terra cotta apartment houses to be erected on the southwest corner of 85th street and Boulevard for John Nesbitt. Three of the houses will be double and one a single flat, with stores in the corner house. The cost has not as yet been estimated.

The same architect will furnish drawings for two five-story double apartment houses to be built on the south side of 96th street, just west of 9th avenue, for G. J. W. Van Slingerlandt & Co. These buildings will have all the improvements. The cost has not been estimated.

C. Schildwachter, the carriage builder, will erect a five-story, 75-foot front factory on some lots recently purchased by him on the east side of Park avenue, about 75 feet south of 129th street. His present factory stands on the northeast corner of Park avenue and 129th street, and the new building will act as an extension to his present workshops. No contracts have been let for either architectural or building work as yet, but as the work is to be done this summer it will probably be started very soon.

Geo. Ehret will build a business and flat building on the northwest corner of William and Pearl streets, 17.4x71 and extension. Plans are being prepared by J. Kastner.

Ed. Wenz is the architect for four five-story brick tenements and stores, to be built on 2d avenue, northwest corner of 100th street, for Charles Frank, at a total cost of $75,000. The corner house will be 25.11x96, and the other 25x89. The same architect will furnish plans for a five-story buff brick front tenement, to be erected at No. 53 Suffolk street, for John H. Parker, at a cost of $20,000. It will be 25x89 feet in size.

F. Wennemer is drawing plans for five five-story brick and stone front tenements to be erected on the south side of 83d street, 98 feet west of Avenue B, for Henry Knaub, at a cost of $18,000 each. The size will be 25x68.

Andrew Spence is the architect for four five-story brick and stone front flats to be built for Fernando Yost, at a cost of about $18,000 each. They will be located on the north side of 105th street and the south side of 106th street, 125 feet west of 9th avenue. The size of the buildings will be 25x84 and there will be two on each street.

J Averit Webster has plans on the boards for two five-story brick tenements and stores to be built on 10th avenue, southeast corner of 132d street, for John M. Smith, at a cost of $15,000 each. The buildings will be 25x88.

Louis Wirth intends to improve the lot No. 339 East 65th street by erecting a tenement.

Weber & Drosser have finished plans for a Mr. Geiger, trustee, for two apartment houses on the southwest corner of 3d avenue and 81st street. The corner house will be 22x90, with store on the first floor, and five stories above to accommodate two families on a floor; the other house will be 32.4x80, with store on first floor, and five stories above to accommodate three families on a floor. The fronts will be of buff brick, with bluestone trimmings. No inclosed shafts will be built, but both buildings will have open yards. All modern improvements will be introduced. The cost will be about $50,000.

Jas. Everard intends to build three five-story tenements, 25x89 each, on the north side of 40th street, 200 east of 2d avenue, from plans by M. V. B. Ferdon.

L. and J. Brandt will build two five-story tenements, 26x80 and 25.4x66, on the southwest corner of Avenue B and 83d street, from plans by J. Brandt. Cost, $35,000.

Cleverdon & Putzel are preparing plans for two five-story tenements, 25 x74.6, to be built by Fredk. Hack on the south side of 102d street, 100 west of 9th avenue.

Thos. Cowman will build two five-story flats, 25x61.6 and extensions, on the north side of 98th street, 150 east of 9th avenue, from plans by J. W. Cole.

B. W. Berger has plans for four five-story tenements, 25x89 each, to be built at Nos. 219 to 225 East 58th street, by Fred. Heerlein.

Peter Herter, of Herter Bros., is going to Europe to-day to the Royal Bavarian Establishment glassworks at Munich to inspect the colored glass windows which have been ordered there for the St. Elizabeth Church in Philadelphia.

The Dock Commissioners will receive bids at Pier A, North River, until Monday, July 8, at 1 o'clock P. M., for removing the existing crosswalk, earth, etc., from the newly-made land extending from about 20 feet northerly of pier, old 29, to about the northerly side of pier, new 21, North River, which is to be paved, and preparing for and paving the same with granite or Staten Island syenite blocks, and laying crosswalks.

Estimates will be received by the Commissioners of Public Works, at No. 31 Chambers street, room 6, until Tuesday, July 9th, at 12 o'clock, for sewers in the following streets: Front street, between Fletcher street and Burling slip; Front street, between Dover street and Peck slip; 65th street, between Avenue A and 1st avenue, with alteration and improvement to curve at 65th street and Avenue A; 94th street, between 1st and 2d avenues; for alteration and improvement to sewer in 129th street, between Boulevard and second manhole east of Broadway; 153d street, between 10th avenue and summit west of 10th avenue, with alteration and improvement to curve at 153d street and 10th avenue; West street, between Jay and Desbrosses streets, connecting with sewer to be constructed by the Department of Docks through Pier No. 39; also between Canal and Desbrosses streets, with alteration and improvement to existing sewers in Watts, Desbrosses, Vestry, Hubert, Beach, North Moore, Franklin and Harrison streets.

Proposals will be received by the School Trustees of the 12th Ward, at the Hall of the Board of Education, No. 146 Grand street, until 9.30 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, July 10, for altering, etc., Primary School building No. 23, and by the Executive Committee of the Normal College for making general repairs, painting, etc., and for sanitary improvements at the Normal College buildings.

Bids will be received by the Commissioner of Public Works until Friday, July 12, at 12 o'clock M., for the following work: For sewer in 92d street, between West End avenue and Boulevard; 96th street, between 8th avenue and summit west of 8th avenue, with alteration and improvement to curve at 96th street and 8th avenue; 102d street, between Harlem River and 1st avenue; 107th street, between Manhattan and 8th avenues, and 140th street, between Boulevard and Hamilton place; also for regulating and grading 147th street, from the Boulevard westerly a distance of 500 feet and setting curbstones and flagging sidewalks therein.

Special Notices.

The Material Mens' Mercantile Association, established a little over a year ago, has proved of great value to such dealers in materials and supplies as have made use of its services by becoming subscribers for the really valuable information they furnish relative to the standing and operations of builders, building contractors, carpenters and builders, and masons and builders in New York and Brooklyn. Among the numerous first-class firms included among its subscribers, many have sent strong testimonials certifying to the promptness and value of the services rendered by this association. An association of this character was long needed by the material men of these two cities, and is receiving their hearty support. The offices of the association are located in the Tribune building, 154 Nassau street, where every information will be furnished relative to the plan and scope of their system and method of business.

Among the most enterprising of Yorkville real estate brokers and agents is William S. Anderson, who is now located at No. 1242 3d avenue. Mr. Anderson commenced business about seven years ago in a little frame office about 10 feet square, at No. 183 East 73d street; from there he moved, about three years ago, to occupy a half of the store No. 1258 3d avenue. His business has increased to such a surprising extent that he has been forced to move to his present quarters, which are regarded as among the nicest offices up town. Mr. Anderson is a real estate owner himself with a large capital at his back, and has among his customers some of the richest and most influential men of his locality.

Bound Volumes of the Record and Guide.

Subscribers and others can purchase at this office years 1887 and 1888 of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, handsomely bound in half morocco. This is a rare chance for real estate men who cannot afford to wait while their RECORDS are being bound. Volume XLII., the last half of 1888, or any other single volume, can be had for $4.75 per volume, or $9.50 per year.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—There is really very little that can be called positively new on the market for Common Hards. Sellers retain the advantage and have fortified it somewhat, if anything, since our last report, as values that were at that time just attained and a trifle uncertain, have now become well and thoroughly established with demand submitting in a prompt and satisfactory manner. Indeed, with really liberal receipts some of the trade is full on the average as at any time this season. The outlet has not only afforded a complete balance, but buyers in many cases have continued to engage parcels ahead of arrivals, especially where they were desirous of securing certain favorite and special makes. About all present purchases practically represent an immediate consumption, and we hear less from the grumblers who a short time ago were rather inclined to assume that chances for the season had been over-estimated, the ruling conditions simply indorsing the theory that work was simply under a momentary delay with revival sure to follow in due and proper time. There is as usual a great deal of talk about wanting the best of quality, and a portion of the custom does unquestionably feel willing to pay a small premium for a close selection, but the general conditions of stock are good enough, has wide a distinction between the grades as last season. Advices from along the river indicate that manufacturers are working and shipping as steadily as possible, with a chance that there may be a little lull during the middle of next week on account of the holiday. Pales retain the attention of buyers to a thoroughly satisfactory degree and are reported as commanding full former figures promptly.

LATH.—Larger arrivals have taken place, and while most of them were sold without much of a search there was considerable irregularity in prices according to quality. On the best goods last week's figure is reported, and $2.15 therefore remains far on top, but there has been quite a business done at $2.10 per M, and some of the poorer lots of Maine stock, understood to be mostly from Machiar, went as low as $2.00 per M. Dealers as a rule, it is said, have been working supplies into consumption with quite an amount of freedom, and receivers therefore depend upon a continued very good demand, but are making no great claims about scant arrivals to come.

LIME.—Further arrivals of Eastern have taken place and found a fair demand; the distribution into consumption being full enough to keep a few dealers constantly on the market waiting for cargoes as they came to hand. So far as known or made public no change has been developed in value. Of State stock the sale is also reported as full and satisfactory, with no difficulty experienced in obtaining full former rates all around.

LUMBER.—Between deliveries of late called for upon contract and new demand the movement of stock from yard has increased somewhat, and general local consumption is unquestionably fuller. The reflex upon the market for first hand goods, however, is not very direct, as a great deal of the business is really nothing more than a delayed trade for which dealers have been waiting some little time and were prepared for in the way of stocks and assortments. Bulk parcels, however, are by no means neglected, and offerings from interior and coastwise sources secure about the average measure of attention and reasonably prompt bids where quality is in every way first-class, though there is resistance to all attempts to enhance values. Buyers are not inclined to "bear" the market, but as a rule seem well posted as to position at primary points, and say there is no sound basis upon which an advanced line of value can consistently be claimed except on one or two woods.

Eastern Spruce has about the usual market. If there happens to be a little more stock available than usual buyers find it out as quickly as any one, and are pretty sure to develop a sudden and somewhat remarkable indifference toward the offering, but on a scanty supply there seems to be always an anxiety to get a little more stock, with an intimation given about bidding fuller rates, and there is slight fluctuation accordingly. Receivers, however, have managed to control the position fairly well thus far this season and say they can do so for some time to come, not so much upon the plea of a scant supply of logs as upon the claim that the mills have been running so much on specials as to prevent any important cut of random, especially in the way of attractive and popular sizes. As quite a strengthening feature to the position at the moment may be noted the condition of affairs at Bagnor, Me. All the steam mills at that city have been compelled to shut down on account of a strike among the workmen over a matter of both time and wages, and the latest advices say that the strikers are now endeavoring to induce similar action on the part of operatives at the water mills up the river, though the latter have no real cause for complaint. If this affair continues for any length of time it must, of course, make considerable difference in supplies of lumber and a natural hardening of value.

Piling retains the confidence of the principal receivers. Demand has not been quite so full as yet as hoped for at the commencement of the season, but there are a great many places where it seems certain stock must be wanted eventually, and with chances against a liberal receipt there is little hesitation about floating out anything desirable for which buyers will not promptly pay full rates.

Hemlock is firm, and especially so the Pennsylvania product, for aside from its scarcity the particular favor shown that grade by many consumers gives it additional support. There is no general buoyancy on the market, however, as offerings from the North and even from some sections of Pennsylvania have been rather fuller of late, and buyers would be more inclined to seek substitutes than pay an advance over current rates. Indeed, some refuse to submit as it is, so far as top line of valuation may be concerned.

White Pine really shows no great change. There is considerable talk in one way or another about lessening or increasing demand, but taken all in all the aggregate movement does not vary to any extent, and on cost nearly all grades are running much the same as last year. The increased demand and better prices for Uppers predicted does not as yet seem to have materialized, and for other grades sold into dealers' hands for yard assortments intimations of occasional shadings are given. Desirable box, however, may be depended upon to retain favor at good prices, and also all standard shippers, as the full export movement has kept the supply of such well sold up.

Yellow Pine has very good demand in some quarters, including now and then full orders executed here on Eastern account, and more or less f. o. b. trade in addtion to the local call, but the business is not free or entirely satisfactory, nor is it certain that the line of value is fully maintained. Naturally the effort is to give matters as cheerful and promising an appearance as possible, but the market evidently has failed expectations in some respects, and there is probably an unwillingness to admit disappointment, especially after the very elaborate efforts made to control affairs for the season.

Carolina Pine is again spoken of with cheerfulness, and operators do not act as though they had much to find fault with so far as demand is concerned, but some do complain over inability to keep up with their orders, certainly not a bad feature. Buyers make no objection whatever to former cost, but are particular as to quality, and manufacturers who preserve a high standard in that respect get the cream of the business.

Hardwoods find no increase of animation, and there is little of special interest on the market to which reference has not before been made. Poplar sells somewhat irregularly but runs up a fair aggregate movement from week to week, and ash is also in fair favor, with prices for both kinds of stock well sustained. The offerings of stuff from primary points are not liberal or forced, but buyers know where to find any ordinary assortment or amount if they want it, with manufacturers rather anxiously waiting for the call.

Shingles meet with fair general consumptive demand from all regular outlets and export orders for small lots here and larger parcels f. o. b. are not infrequent. Offerings seem to balance the call and prices rule steady upon about a former basis of valuation.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman says:

There are numerous people who seem to be imbued with the idea that because there have been heavy rain storms in Michigan, that the logs cut last winter will be all run out of the streams, boomed out by the boom companies, the mills kept running, the lumber piled on the docks in abundance, and that there is to be no shortage of either logs or lumber this season, with which opinion the Timberman, in the light of other facts and sound logic, cannot coincide. That many of the logs which seemed to be hopelessly hung up will reach the boom limits is undoubtedly a fact, and that the different boom companies in Michigan, and especially on the east side, will tie out many logs which were not expected, is also undeniable; but it must not be forgotten that the estimates of shortage in the log crop were based, partially at least, on considerations entirely outside and beyond the question of logs which had been hauled to the banking grounds, and which were possibilities for future operations.

Many millions of feet of logs were left on the skidways on the Au Sable, the Au Gres, and on several streams tributary to the Tittabawassee by the premature and unexpected departure of the snow which necessitated the abandonme t of camps by heavy operators. Of course these logs are beyond the reach of floods and dams, and irretrievably lost to the mills for the present sawing season. In the next place the disappearance of the snow prematurely, and the consequent abandonment of camps, before many of the operators had cut their anticipated crop of logs, is another important consideration which must not be lost sight of, for the reason that the log shortage to that extent is final, and "June freshets" are powerless to supply the deficiency. One other feature of this question seems to have been overlooked or ignored in the consideration of this subject by the papers which have been instrumental in establishing the generally accepted opinion that "all the hung up logs will come out of the streams," is that the two months' drought had so dried up the swamps and small tributary streams that the rainfall which promised such prolific results in their theoretical conclusion will fail of extensive practical results, because the water supply will at once exhaust itself on the cessation of the rain and the consequent lack of a continuous source as in the spring months when the melting snow acts as a constant feeder.

And referring to Chicago yard trade as follows:

Good lumber is not very plenty, nor in particularly good demand. Dealers in the East are catering pretty well to their own trade, and not leaving much room for the Western wholesalers to ship in and come out with profit. The handling of good lumber is rapidly becoming a specialty here. One firm now handles nothing but upper grades, and only caters to the wholesale trade, doing what is commonly known as "neighboring," selling to other members of the trade, who, in turn, peddle it out to the retailers and local consumers. This firm spoken of is selling the clearest kind of clear lumber at $38 per thousand; "D" strips at $20; "C" strips, $25; "B" and better, $24 per thousand. Good No. 1 fencing has been sold for even $15 per thousand, and No. 2 boards bring $12.50. Four inch "C" has sold at $24; four inch "D," $20; four inch "B," $29. These prices are above the ordinary, because the stock is so carefully selected.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Log rafting seems to be largely on the increase in the Northwest this season, and, though rafts have been broken up by storms in some cases, leading to expense in gathering the logs up, and actual loss of some of them, the lumbermen do not appear to get discouraged. Rafts containing from 1,000,000 to 4,000, 000 feet are a common thing in these days of patent boom-sticks and powerful tugs.

At initial points of white pine distribution, especially on the great lakes, the condition has but slightly, if at all, improved during the current week. At Manistee it is reported that several buyers have lately put in an appearance, and have purchased considerable bills of lumber. Some sales of waney pine to go to Canada have also been made. At the Saginaws and Bay City the cargo market continues dull, while the holders of lumber are getting rather more desirous to sell than earlier in the season, when they were very confident concerning the demand and prospective prices. The quietude in the Saginaw valley is partly attributed to the exhaustion of dry stock, which has been disposed of, largely by means of the car load trade. At Toledo trade is said to lack life, and sales are made in a dragging way. The condition in this city has slightly improved as respects the shipping demand, but it yet lacks life, and requires hard work on the part of salesmen and office help to keep it moving.

The lake cargo market is passing through a period of unusual depression, though there is a vast movement of mill product going on all the time. But it is suffering under the indisposition of the great wholesale dealers to take hold and stock up, as they usually do at this season of the year. The mill points have not been visited by buyers for the purpose of taking up blocks of lumber to the extent that was anticipated. The policy of the wholesalers has been one of caution and delay. They have seemed to lack confidence in the future trade and prices. The prospects for demand have seemed to them so meager that lavish purchases for the future were not warranted. The manufacturers had predicted a heavy demand and firm prices this year on the reported scarcity of logs. But that position has proved untenable. The dealers took little stock in it, and it appears that they were justified. Somehow the mills have continued to saw, and lumber has piled up on the docks and in the yards.

The most important recent event in the Western lumber trade is the reduction of rates from this city to Missouri River points, including Council Bluffs and Omaha, from 16 to 13 cents a hundred. This reduction was not as much as was desired, but it will serve to stimulate the westward movement of lumber to a degree.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says of the Minneapolis market:

Some of the dealers were feeling so good the latter part of last week that they got together and talked over a proposition to advance the price of lumber a dollar a thousand. It was not a formal meeting, and the movement was not general. Some of the more aggressive ones began to feel restless under the low prices that have so long prevailed. They saw indications of an improved trade coming in July and August, and believed that now was the time to make a change in the list. The arguments they advanced were based altogether upon the present condition of the market, the stocks on hand and the crop indications. They claimed that the log situation did not enter into the question. The agitation has not resulted in anything as yet. What it may do within two weeks is hard to guess. The majority are disinclined to make the change until the crop, on which the bulls are banking, is more of an assured fact. The rains of the last few days have tended to make everybody feel more in favor of better prices, and the matter is receiving serious consideration.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal reports:

LONDON.

Pine stocks in this market are now lighter than they have been for several years since, being less than half of what was held in the years 1887 and 1888. The nearest approach to the present meagre quantity was in 1886, but, though low, the stocks of that year were 33 per cent more than now, while the deliveries were short of the present year by fully 45 per cent; there is consequently a very fair outlook for those making a specialty of this description of goods, provided there is not an over-supply such as this market more frequently than not has had to contend with, and that the high prices do not restrict the consumption by bringing other woods into use as substitutes. As far as we can learn the open-water fleet from the St. Lawrence will not be up to the average proportion, but with the constant additions the regular steam liners make to the stocks the latter will not be allowed to run bare.

American Black Walnut.—Supplies of better-class stock come forward very sparingly, and, in consequence, transactions are much restricted; of poor quality stuff most yard keepers are heavily stocked, and shippers will do well to withhold further supplies of this description for some time.

American Whitewood.—This market shows considerable buoyancy. A fair amount of business has been done in logs, but the demand for these has not been nearly so active as for lumber, which is moving off well at firm prices.

Sequoia.—There is at the present time no stock in first hands, the recent unreserved public auction sale having cleared the market; but we understand a large parcel, comprising 3,000 to 4,000 prime wide planks, is very shortly expected to arrive in the West India docks, which will in all probability be offered in catalogue at an early date.

GLASGOW.

The fresh arrivals of Quebec deals so far have been very light and confined to the lower grades, and on this account there was less variety to show in a catalogue of fresh goods, and the want of spirit in the sale was, no doubt, partly owing to this. The following is a note of transaction publicly:—

Quebec yellow pine deals (unclaseed), 1,500 pcs. 12 ft. 11x3 at 1s. per cubic foot.

Quebec spruce deals (poor qual.), 1,100 pcs. 9 to 16 ft. 11x3 at 10½d. per cubic foot.

Quebec spruce deals (poor qual.), 239 pcs. 9 to 16 ft. 7-10x3 at 10d. per cubic foot.

Quebec spruce deal ends (poor qual.), 4 to 8 ft. 7-11x3 at 9d. per cubic foot.

Miramichi, N. B., pine deals (poor qual.), 998 pcs. 9 to 19 ft. 12-12x3 at 10d. per cubic foot.

Miramichi, N. B., pine deals (poor qual.), 415 pcs. 14 to 25 9x3 at 10d. per cubic foot.

Miramichi, N. B., pine deals (poor qual.), 412 pcs. to 24 8x3 at 9d. per cubic foot.

There was some bidding up to 1s. 7d. per cubic foot for Miramichi 1st yellow pine deals, but these goods were withdrawn, and for various other deals throughout the catalogue offers were made which the brokers were unable to accept, as the lots were held for higher figures.

NAILS.—No changes of an important character can be found on this market, according to the general run of reports. Local and shipping orders make about an average quantity of stock, which is always found in waiting and available at former rates. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.90@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—The absence of a speculative element and the conservative manner in which regular operators continue their deals keep the market in an apparently slow condition. There is, however, a good average business doing from day to day, of which most leading descriptions get the benefit, and only moderate unimportant fluctuations in value. Linseed Oil meets with pretty good demand at 58@59c. for Western, and 60@61c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has ruled just a fraction easier since our last, but on the whole may be called fairly steady with an average business doing. We quote at 37½@39c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Not much animation shown and the demand confined almost entirely to immediate and ordinary wants of the trade. Offerings fair and held at firm figures. We quote Pitch $1,35@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.10@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

For tables of Building Material prices see pages v., viii., ix. and x.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mort gage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corre sponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.
